Railroad Facts.
The cost of railroads in the United States has been $9,000,000,000.  One million persons are employed by the railroads of the United States.
The cost of a high-class eight-wheel passenger locomotive is about $8,500.
The cost of a palace sleeping-car is $15,000, or if "vestibuled," $17,000.
The average cost of constructing a mile of railroad in the United States at the present time is about $30,000.
The average daily earning of an American locomotive is about $100.  The "consol'dation" locomotive weighs 50 tons, and is able to draw on a level over 2,400 tons.
The longest mileage operated by a single system is that of the Union Pacific—10,928 miles.
The line of railroad which extends farthest East and West is the Canadian Pacific, running from Quebec to the Pacific Ocean.  There are 60 miles of snow-sheds on the Central Pacific Railroad.
The highest railroad in the United States is the Colorado Midland, at the Continental Divide—11,530 feet above sea level.
The longest American railroad tunnel is the Hoosac Tunnel on the Fitchburg Railroad—four and three quarter miles. (The St. Gothard Tunnel in Europe is over nine miles in length.)
There are 208,749 railroad bridges in the United States, spanning 3,213 miles.
The longest railroad bridge span in the United States is the Cantilever span in the Poughkeepsie bridge over the Hudson River—548 feet
The highest railroad bridge in the United States is the Kinzua viaduct on the Erie road—305 feet high.

The Manhattan Elevated Railroad of New York, carried the largest number of passengers of any American road during 1890—500,000 per day, or 188,203,877 yearly.

A steel rail lasts, with average wear, about eighteen years.

These facts (corrected to date) were told in a series of articles on railways in Scribner's Magazine.

Ocean Records.

Since the Guion Line Steamer Arizona captured the ocean pennant in 1880 with a North Atlantic voyage of 7d. 7h. 23m., records have been made only to be broken. The City of Paris, of the Inman Line, now flies the pennant, having crossed the Atlantic in 5d. 14h. 24m., from Queenstown to New York, Oct. 13-18, 1892. The Teutonic, of the White Star Line, has held, since October, 1891, the eastbound record of 5d. 21h. 3m. The following table shows how the time across the Atlantic has been steadily reduced in the last forty years:

Great Financial Panics.

The most remarkable crises since the beginning of the present century have been as follows:

1814. England, 240 banks suspended. 1825. Manchester, failures 2 millions.

1831. Calcutta, failures 15 millions. 1837. United States, "Wild-cat" crisis: all banks closed. 1839. Bank of England saved by Bank of France. Severe also in France, where 93 companies failed for 6 millions.

1844. England. State loans to merchants. Bank of England reformed.

Excessive Heat in the Past.

In 1303 and 1304 the Rhine, Loire and Seine ran dry. The heat in several French provinces during the summer of 1705 was equal to that of a glass furnace. Meat could be cooked by merely exposing it to the sun. Not a soul dare venture out between noon and 4 P. M. In 1718 many shops had to close. The theaters never opened their doors for three months. Not a drop of water fell during six months. In 1773 the thermometer rose to 118 degrees. In 1778 the heat of Bologna was so great that a great number of people were stifled. There was not sufficient air for the breath, and people had to take refuge under the ground. In July, 1793, the heat again became intolerable. Vegetables were burned up, and fruit died on the trees. The furniture and woodwork in dwelling-houses cracked and split up; meat went bad in an hour.

Summer Heat in Various Countries.

The following figures show the extreme summer heat in the various countries of the world: Bengal and the African desert, 150° Fahrenheit; Senegal and Guadaloupe, 130°; Persia, 125°; Calcutta and Central America, 120°; Afghanistan and the Arabian desert, 110°; Cape of Good Hope and Utah, 105°; Greece, 104°; Arabia, 103°; Montreal, 103°; New York, 102°; Spain, India, China, Jamaica, 100°; Sierra Leone, 94°; France, Denmark, St. Petersburg, Shanghai, the Burmah Empire, Buenos Ayres and the Sandwich Islands, 90°; Great Britain, Siam and Peru, 85°; Portugal, Pekin and Natal, 80°; Siberia, 77°; Australia and Scotland, 75°; Italy, Venezuela and Madeira, 73°; Prussia and New Zealand, 70°; Switzerland and Hungary, 66°; Bavaria, Sweden, Tasmania and Moscow, 65°; Patagonia and the Falkland Isles, 55°; Iceland, 45°; Nova Zembla, 34°. #### The Great Famines of History.

Walford mentions 160 famines since the 11th century, namely: England, 57; Ireland, 34; Scotland, 12; France, 10; Germany, 11; Italy, etc., 36. The worst in modern times have been:

Country. France	Date. 1770	No. of Victims. 48,000
Ireland	1847	1,029,000
India	1866	1.450.000

Deaths from hunger and want were recorded as follows in 1879, according to Mulhall: Ireland, 3,789; England, 312; London, 101; France, 260. The proportion per 1,000 deaths was, respectively, 37.6, .6, 1.2, .3.

The Great Catastrophes of History.

In China, where some of the greatest rivers in the world flow between artificial banks at an elevation considerably above the surrounding country, there have been overflows that caused the destruction of hundreds of thousands of lives. There have been similar disasters in India, where, as in China, the rivers had made beds for themselves with alluvial banks higher than the plains across which they flowed. But aside from these the colossal calamity at Johnstown, Pa., in June, 1889, and through the fated Conemaugh valley, leads all disasters in this country in the appalling muster roll of the dead. In past centuries the greatest loss of life has been by earthquake, and the following list embraces the loss in historic calamities:

CENSUS RETURNS.

Population of the Colonies of Virginia, New England and Maryland in 1660 was about 80,000.

Population of English Colonies in 1688 was about 200,000, while that of New France was but 11,000.

New York City had a population of 12,000 in 1756.

First Census.—The first systematic census ever taken in the United States was in 1790. It cost $44,377.18, and enrolled 3,929,827 persons, excluding Indians, and 700,000 slaves.

Second Census.—The second census was taken in 1800 at a cost of $66,609.04. The population was 5,308,483, an increase of 35.10 per cent. since 1790.

Third Census.—The third was taken in 1810, and gave a population of 7,239,881. It had increased 36.38 per cent. since 1800. These returns showed some valuable, although imperfect, statistics of manufactures. The cost of the census was $178.444.67.

Fourth Census.—The fourth was taken in 1820, and gave a population of 9,633,822, an increase since 1810 of 33.06 per cent. The cost was $208,525.99.

Fifth Census.—The fifth was taken in 1830, and gave a population of 12,866,020, an increase since 1820 of 32.51 per cent. It cost $378,543.13. This census, for the first time, included some returns of the fruit crop.

Sixth Census.—The sixth was taken in 1840, and showed a population of 17,069,453, an increase from 1830 of 33.52 per cent; it cost $833,370.95.

Seventh Census.—In 1850 the seventh census gave a population in the United States of 23,191,876. The increase since 1840 had been 35.83 per cent. It cost $1,329,027.53.

Eighth Census.—The eighth, taken in 1860, returned a population of 31,453,321. The rate of increase since 1850 had been 35.11 per cent. The cost of the census was $1,922,272.42.

Ninth Census.—The ninth was taken in 1870, giving a population  $\varepsilon$  38,558,371, or 22.65 per cent. increase since 1860. It cost \$3,336,511.4).

Tenth Census.—The tenth census, taken 1880, showed a population of 50,155,866. There were 6,677,360 foreign born persons and 6,577,151 blacks.

Eleventh Census.—The eleventh census, taken in 1890, gives a population of 62,622,250. There were 9,249,547 foreign born, 53,372,703 native born, which include 7,638,360 blacks.

POINTS OF CONSTITUTIONAL LAW.

Congress must meet at least once every year.

Congress may admit as many new States as desired.

One State cannot undo the act of another.

By the Constitution every citizen is guaranteed a speedy trial by jury.

A power which is vested in Congress alone cannot be exercised by a State.

One State must respect the legal decisions and laws of another

Senators of the United States are chosen by the Legislatures of the respective States by joint ballot.

Congress cannot pass a law to punish for a crime already committed. A person who commits a felony in one State cannot find refuge in another.

Excessive bail or cruel punishment is forbidden by the Constitution. Bills for revenue can originate only in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments.

Treaties with foreign powers are made by the President and ratified by the Senate.

Rhode Island and Nevada have each an equal representation with New York in the Senate.

Writing alone does not constitute treason against the United States. There must be an overtact. When a bankruptcy law is passed by Congress it annuls all conflicting State laws on the subject.

The Territories have each a delegate to Congress who is allowed the privilege of debate, but not the right to vote.

The Vice-President, who ex-officio presides over the Senate, has no vote in that body except in case of a tie ballot.

Congress cannot lay any disabilities on the children of a person convicted of a crime or misdemeanor.

If the President holds a bill longer than ten days while Congress is in session it becomes a law without his signature.

An act of Congress cannot become a law over the President's veto except on a two-thirds vote of both Houses.

The House of Representatives may impeach the President for any crime, but the Senate has the sole power to try all impeachments.

An officer of the United States government is not permitted to accept any title of nobility, order, or honor, except with the permission of Congress.

Money or property lost in the mails cannot be recovered from the government. overnment. Registering a letter does not insure its contents. Fractional silver currencyis not a legal tender for amounts exceeding five dollars. Nickel and copper coins are not legal tender.

Amendments to the Constitution of the United States require a two-thirds vote of each House of Congress, and must be ratified by at least three-fourths of the States.

A Member of the House of Representatives is elected for two years, but may be re-elected to asmany terms as his constituents may desire.

The President of the United States must be 35 years of age; a Senator, 30; a Congressman, 25; the President must have been a resident of the United States fourteen years.

When the militia is called out into the service of the general government they pass out of the control of their respective States and are under the command of the President.

A naturalized citizen is not eligible to the office of President of the United States. A male child born in a foreign land to American parents has an equal chance to become President with one born on American soil.

Each House of Congress shall be the judge of the electious, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority shall constitute a quorum for doing business. Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly conduct, and with the concurrence of two-thirds expel a member.

No State may, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a Republican form of government, and shall protect each of them

SAW MANUFACTURERS.

Decker, E. F., & Bros., Cor. Church and Bleeker Sts. against invasion, and on application of the Legislature or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened), against domestic trouble.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

BRIEF POINTS OF CRIMINAL LAW.

The exemption of females from arrest applies only in civil matters, not in criminal.

Every citizen is bound to assist a sheriff in making an arrest, when called upon.

An offense cannot lawfully by condoned by receiving back stolen property.

Embezzlement can be charged only against an officer or agent of a corporation or a clerk or servant.

Grand larceny is the theft of property exceeding $25 in value. When less than that the offense is called petit larceny Intoxication is not a legal excuse for crime, but delirium tremens is usually considered by the law as a species of insanity.

A felony is a crime punishable by imprisonment in a State prison. An accident is not a crime, unless criminal carelessness can be proven. A man shooting at a burglar and killing a member of his family, is not a murderer.

A police officer is not authorized to make an arrest without a warrant unless he has personal knowledge of the offense for which the arrest is made.

Murder to be in the first degree must be wilful, premeditated, and malicious, or committed while the murderer is engaged in a felonious act

False swearing is perjury in law only when wilfully committed, and when the oath has been legally administered. The false statement sworn to must be absolute. Qualifying expressions, such as "I have been informed" or "to the best of my belief," may save an averment from being perjured.

Subornation of perjury is a felony.

STATISTICS OF CRIME.

The census of 1890 gives the whole number of penitentiary convicts in the United States as 45,233. Of these 30,546 were white and 14,687 colored. Of the whites 23,094 were native born, 7,267 were foreign, and the nativity of 185 was unknown. Prisoners in County jails June 1, 1890:—Total, 19,538; white, 13,961; colored 5,777; native, 9,684; foreign, 3,765; nativity unknown, 512. Inmates of juvenile reformatories in 1890:—Total, 14,846; white, 12,903; colored, 1,943; native, 11,078; foreign, 1,405; nativity unknown, 490 11,078; foreign, 1,405; nativity unknown, 420.

HOMICIDE IN THE UNITED STATES.

The census bulletin presenting statistics of homicide in the United States, prepared by Frederick H. Wines, gives the following figures:—
Out of $2,329 prisoners June 1, 1890, 7,386 were charged with homicide. Of these 4,425 were white, 2,739 negroes, 94 Chinese, 1 Japanese, and 92 Indians. Of the whites 3,157 were natives, 1,218 were foreigners, and the nativity of 55 is unknown. Nearly one half were unmarried; 703 widowed; 144 divorced. Their ages ranged from 11 to 86 years. One-sixth were under 24 years and more than half under 33 years of age. Omitting 35 who were charged with double crimes, 6,958 of them were males and 353 females.

LAW REFERENCE.

Business Law in Daily Use.

The following compilation of business law contains the essence of a large amount of legal verbiage:

If a note is lost or stolen it does not release the maker; he must pay it, if the consideration for which it was given and the amount can be proven.

Notes bear interest only when so stated.

A note made on Sunday is void.

A note by a minor is void.

A note obtained by fraud, or from a person in a state of intoxication, cannot be collected "Value received" is usually written in a note, and should be, but is not necessary. If not written, it is presumed by the law, or may be supplied by proof.

The maker of an "Accommodation" bill or note (one for which he has received no consideration, having lent his name or credit for the accommodation of the holder), is not bound to the person accommodated, but is bound to all other parties, precisely as if there was a good considera-

A note indorsed in blank (the name of the indorser only written) is transferable by delivery, the same as if made payable to bearer.

If the time of payment of a note is not inserted, it is held payable on

The time of payment of a note must not depend upon a contingency. The promise must be absolute.

A bill may be written upon any paper, or substitute for it, either with ink or pencil.

The payee should be distinctly named in the note, unless it is payable to bearer.

An indorsee has a right of action against all whose names were on the bill when he received it.

If the letter containing a protest of non-payment be put in the postoffice, any miscarriage does not affect the party giving notice.

Notice of protest may be sent either to the place of business or residence of the party notified.

The holder of a note may give notice of protest either to all the previous indorsers, or only to one of them; in case of the latter, he must select the last indorser, and the last must give notice to the last before him, and so on. Each indorser must send notice the same day or the day following. Neither Sunday nor legal holiday is to be counted in reckoning the time in which notice is to be given.

The loss of a bill or note is not sufficient excuse for not giving notice of

If two or more persons as partners are jointly liable on a note or bill, due notice to one of them is sufficient.

If a note or bill is transferred as security, or even as payment of a preexisting debt, the debt revives if the bill or note be dishonored.

An indorsement may be written on the face or back.

An indorser may prevent his own liability to be sued by writing "without recourse," or similar words.

The finder of negotiable paper, as of all other property, must make reasonable efforts to find the owner before he is entitled to appropriate it for his own purposes. If the finder conceal it, he is liable to the charge of larceny or theft.

Joint payees of a bill or note, who are not partners, must all join in an

One may make a note payable to his own order. He must then write his name upon its back or across its face, the same as any other indorser.

After the death of the holder of a bill or note, his executor or administrator may transfer it by his indorsement.

The husband who acquires a right to a bill or note which was given to the wife, either before or after marriage, may indorse it.

A demand note is always valid until presented for payment, after. which it comes under the usual laws of outlawry.

An agreement without consideration is void Contracts made on Sunday cannot be enforced.

JOBBING A SPECIALTY. ESTIMATES FURNISHED.

50 Liberty St., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

A contract made with a minor is void.

A contract made with a lunatic is void.

Each individual in a partnership is responsible for the whole amount of the debts of the firm, except in cases of Special Partnership.

The acts of one partner bind all the rest.

A verbal promise to pay, made without conditions, is generally held as sufficient to revive a claim otherwise shut ont by the law of limitation.

An oral agreement must be proved by evidence. A written agreement proves itself. The law prefers written to oral evidence, because of its precision.

No evidence may be introduced to CONTRADICT OR VARY a written contract, but it may be received in order to explain it, when such contract is in need of explanation.

Checks or drafts must be presented for payment without unreasonable delay.

Checks or drafts should be presented during business hours; but in this country, except in the case of banks, the time extends through the day and evening.

If one who holds a check, as payee or otherwise, transfers it to another, he has a right to insist that the check be presented that day, or, at farthest, on the day following.

If the drawee of a check or draft has changed his residence, the holder must use due or reasonable diligence to find him.

If a debtor owes several debts, and pays a sum of money to the creditor, he has a right to designate the particular debt to which the payment shall apply, and the creditor must so appropriate it.

If, when a debt is due, the debtor is out of the state, the "six years" do not begin to run until he returns. If he afterwards leave the state, the time forward counts the same as if he remained in the state.

Except in the case of absence from the state, the "six years" begin when the bill or account is DUE. In case of a note they count from the "three days of grace." In case of a note on demand, they count from the time of the demand.

The statute of limitations does not avoid or cancel the debt, but onlyprovides that no action in law may be maintained after a given time. The statute does not affect collateral sucurity.

The law compels no one to do impossibilities.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

It is a fraud to conceal a fraud.

Signatures made with a lead pencil are good in law.

A receipt for money is not always conclusive.

No consideration is sufficient in law if it be ILLEGAL in its nature.

All claims which do not rest upon a SEAL or JUDGMENT must be sued within six years from the time when they arise.

Part payment of a debt which has passed the time of statutory limitation revives the whole debt, and the claim holds good for another period of six years from the date of such partial payment.

Written instruments are to be construed and interpreted by the law according to the simple, customary and natural meaning of the words

"Acceptance" applies to bills and not to notes. It is an engagement on the part of the person on whom the bill is drawn to pay it according to its tenor. The usual way is to write across the face of the bill the word "accepted."

A witnessed note does not outlaw for twenty years.

Capacity of Boxes.

The following table will be found exceedingly useful at times. These are inside dimensions:

A box 8 2-5 in. by 8 in. and 8 in. deep, contains a peck.

A box 8 in. square and  $4\frac{1}{8}$  in. deep, contains a gallon.

A box 7 in. square and  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. deep, contains half a gallon. A box 4 in. square and 4 1-5 in. deep, contains a quart.

A box 3 in. square and  $3\frac{2}{3}$  in. deep, contains a pint.

A box 24 in. by 17 in. and 28 in. deep, contains a barrel.

A box 18 in. by 15½ in. and 8 in. deep, contains a bushel.

A box 13½ in. square, and 11½ in. deep, contains a bushel A box 12 in. by 11½ in. and 9 in. deep, contains a half bushel.

NOTES, ACCOUNTS, DRAFTS, ETC.

Invalid Notes.

The following notes are invalid, namely: All which lack consideration, which must be some benefit to the party who makes the note, or some act, labor, forbearance, etc., on the part of the payee. Also, all notes founded on fraud, or on undue advantage taken of a party, or for illegal consideration, as bribery, wagers, etc. Also, all notes in which material alterations appear. Also, notes dated on Sundays, legal holidays, and on dates yet future when the note is issued.

Enforcing Payment on Notes.

In case of non-payment of a note, it should be placed at once in the hands of a Notary Public, who formally demands payment, and, if not received, at once protests the note, and notifies all the endorsers of the fact. In most of the States the certificate of such an officer is prima facte evidence of the facts of the case as there stated. If through his neglect any loss occurs, he is responsible.

When the maker and endorser of a note both reside in the same city, notice of protest is given to the endorser personally, not later than the first business day following the presentation and dishonoring of the note. If they reside in different places, notice of dishonor must be sent by the next day's mail, properly directed. It is sufficient for the Notary Public who protests the note to notify the endorser last on the note, but custom generally includes all endorsers in the first notice. But each endorser must assure himself that his antecedent is duly notified of the protest, and each endorser is allowed one day's time for this proceeding. an endorser's residence is not known, a longer time, of reasonable length, may be allowed for service of notice. If a residence cannot be found, the holder is excused from serving notice.

Upon the presentation of a Notary's certificate, judgment may be entered against the maker of a note for its face, withinterest and costs. Failing to collect of him, similar proceedings will lie against the endorsers in the order of their priority upon the note.

A dishonored or overdue note, if taken by a party in payment of any claims, must be taken subject to all its liabilities to deductions or losses.

$600. For value received, I promise to pay to J. W. Witbeck, or order, the sum of six hundred dollars, ninety days after date, and I hereby nominate, constitute, and appoint the said J. W. Witbeck, or any attorneyat-law of this State, my true and lawful attorney irrevocable, for me, and in my name, to appear in any Court of Record of this State, at any time after the above promissory note becomes due, and to waive all process and service thereof, and to confess judgment in favor of the holder hereof for the sum that may be due or owing hereon, with interest and costs, and waiving all errors, etc.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal at the city of Buffalo, State of New York, this 10th day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine. WM. RIELLY. [SEAL.]

Sealed and delivered in the presence of Andrew Foster.

The principal difference between a Sealed Note and one without a Seal is, that the former must be first paid in the settlement of a decedent's estate, and is not barred by the statute of limitation.

Note on Time.

SYRACUSE, May 9, 1890. Sixty days after date, I promise to pay E. E. McCarthy, or order, C. S. STEWART. seven hundred dollars, value received.

Remarks.—These are the usual forms of notes. A note on demand is due at any time when demanded. A note payable to B. B., or order, may be sold or negotiated if B. B. writes his name upon the back, and if payable to B. B., or bearer, it can be sold without being endorsed, and will be good to the holder. In the State of Pennsylvania the words "without defalcation" or "discount" are inserted after dollars. In Missouri, the words "negotiable and payable, without defalcation or discount" must be added to the words "for value received."

When two or more persons sign a note "severally or jointly," they are each responsible for its payment. The words "value received" should be written on a note to make it valid.

Endorsing a note, or writing your name across the back, makes you become responsible for its payment. If, however, the person thus endorsing it is not notified when the note becomes due, of its non-payment by the drawer, he can no longer be held responsible for its payment. A partial payment of a note should always be endorsed on the same.

Bonds.

A written admission of an obligation on the part of the maker, whereby he pledges himself to pay a certain sum of money to another person or persons at a specified time, for some bona fide consideration, is a Bond. The person who gives the bond is called an obligor; the person who receives the same is called an obligee.

The above defined is a single Bond, but generally conditions are added to the bond, by which the person giving the same must perform some specific act, which invalidates the bond; otherwise it remains in full force and effect.

The penalty attached to the bond is usually sufficient to cover debt, interest, and costs, being generally placed at twice the amount of the real debt, the fact being stated that such penalty is the sum fixed upon as liquidated or settled damages, in event of failure to meet payments ac-. cording to the condition of the bond.

The bond may be drawn as to have the penalty attached to either the obligee or obligor.

Though under ordinary circumstances the bond is, in full effect, an act of Providence, rendering its accomplishment impossible, relieves the party obligated from an enforcement of the penalty.

Action must be brought, on such instrument, within such time as provided by the statutes of the different States.

Form of Common Bond, With Condition.

Know all men by these presents, that I, C. C., of the town of —— in the county of —— and the State of ——, am held and firmly bound unto D. D. of, etc., in the sum of — dollars, lawful money of the United States, to be paid to the said D. D., his executors, administrators or assigns; for which payment, well and truly to be made, I bind myself, my heirs, executors and administrators, firmly by these presents.

Sealed with my seal, dated the —— day of ——, one thousand eight hundred and -

The condition of the above obligation is such that if the above bounden C. C., his heirs, executors or administrators, shall well and truly pay, or cause to be paid, unto the above named D. D., his executors, administrators or assigns, the just and full some of —— dollars, in —— equal annual payments, from the date hereof, with annual interest, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Sealed and delivered in the ) presence of E. E. C. C. [SEAL.]

Bills of Sale.

A written agreement, by which one party transfers to another, for a consideration on delivery, all his right, title, and interest in personal property, is a Bill of Sale.

The ownership of personal property, in law, is not changed until the delivery, and the purchaser takes actual possession of such property, though in some States a bill of sale is prima facie evidence of ownership, even against creditors, unless the sale was fraudulently made, for the purpose of avoiding the payment of debts.

Form of a Common Bill of Sale.

Know all men by these presents, that I, R. R., of the town of ---, in the county of -, and State of -, of the first part, for and in consideration of the sum of --- dollars, lawful money of the United States, to me paid by G. G., of, etc., of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have bargained and sold, and by these presents do grant and convey unto the said party of the second part, his executors, administrators and assigns, the one equal undivided half of nine acres of wheat, now growing on the farm of F. F., in the town of — aforesaid, one black horse, four lambs and three oxen, belonging to me and now in my possession at the place last aforesaid; to have and to hold the same unto the said party of the second part, his executors, administrators and assigns, forever. And I do, for myself, my heirs, executors and administrators, covenant and agree, to and with the said party of the second part, his executors, administrators and assigns, to warrant and defend the sale of the said property, goods and chattels hereby made,

Articles of Agreement.

An agreement is a contract, by which a certain person or persons agrees or contracts to perform certain duties within a specified time. It is of much importance, in all matters upon which may arise a difference of opinion, or misunderstanding, that contracts be reduced very explicitly in writing.

Agreements should show that they are made for a reasonable consideration, otherwise they are void in law.

The contract expires at the end of a year, unless it is expressly stipulated that the agreement is binding for a longer time.

While a seal is not absolutely necessary, it is much safer to have one attached.

A signature should always be written with pen and ink, for safety, although a pencil signature is legal.

Misrepresentation, or discovery of fraud, or changing of date by one party to the agreement, renders the contract void.

Agreements should state explicitly within what time its conditions are to be complied with. Always duplicate copies of an agreement, that each party may retain a copy.

General Form of an Agreement.

This agreement, made this seventh day of July, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, between J. W., of the city of Buffalo, in the county of Erie and State of New York, of the first part, and B. R., of the city of New York, in the county of New York, State of New York, of the second part.

Witnesseth, that the said J. W., in consideration of the covenants on the part of the party of the second part hereinafter contained, doth covenant and agree to and with the said B. R. that [here insert the agreement on the part of J. W.]

And the said B. R., in consideration of the covenants on the part of the party of the first part, doth covenant and agree to and with the said J. W., that [here insert the agreement on the part of B. R.]

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals, the day and year first above written.

Sealed and delivered in the ) presence of M. A. R. J.

J. W. [SEAL.] B. R. [SEAL.]

[This clause may be inserted when required:]

And it is further agreed, between the parties hereto, that the party that shall fail to perform this agreement on his part will pay to the other the full sum of - dollars, as liquidated, filed and settled damages.

C., or his assigns, shall provide for the same. In consideration whereof, the said C. C. doth for himself, his executors and administrators, covenant with the said D. D., his executors, administrators and assigns, well and truly to pay unto the said D. D., his executors, administrators, and assigns, the sum of $-----, lawful money of the United States, in manner following, viz.: ---- part thereof at the beginning of the said work, and --- another part thereof when the said work shall be half done, and the remaining —— in full for the said work, when the same shall be completely finished. And also, that he, the said C. C., his executors, administrators or assigns, shall and will from time to time, as the same shall be required, at his and their own proper expense, find and provide stone, brick, timber, and other materials necessary for making, building, and finishing the said house. And for the performance of all and every the articles and agreements above mentioned, the said C. C. and D. D. do hereby bind themselves, their executors, administrators, and assigns, each to the other, in the penal sum of ----, firmly by these presents.

In witness, etc. [as in General Form.]

Deeds

A deed is an instrument in writing by which lands and appurtenances thereon are conveyed from one person to another, signed, sealed, and properly subscribed. A deed may be written or printed on parchment or paper, and must be executed by parties competent to contract.

One witness is required in New York, and two witnesses are required in Vermont, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Ohio, Penns vania, Georgia, Illinois and Indiana. Should the deed be proven by witnesses, two are also required in Tennessee, Delaware and South Carolina. In the other States no witnesses are necessary, the deed being acknowledged by a person duly authorized by law.

There must be a reality to grant, and a sufficient consideration to render a deed valid.

The following requisites are necessary to enable a person to legally convey property to another: 1st. He or she must be of sane mind; 2d. Of age; 3d. He or she must be the rightful owner of the property, and 4th, a citizen.

The grantor is the person who makes the deed, and the grantee, the person who receives the deed. The wife of the grantor, in the absence of any statute regulating the same, must acknowledge the deed, or else, after the death of her husband, she will be entitled to a one-third interest in the property, as dower during her life. Her acknowledgment of the deed must be of her own free will and accord, and the officer, before whom the acknowledgment is taken, must sign his name as a witness to the fact that her consent was without compulsion.

Special care should be taken to have the deed properly acknowledged and witnessed, and the proper seal attached to each signature.

The deed takes effect upon its delivery to the proper authorized person.

Any alterations or interlineations in the deed should be noted at the bottom of the instrument, and properly witnessed. After the acknowledgment of a deed, the parties have no right to make the slightest alteration. An alteration after the acknowledgment, in favor of the grantee, vitiates the deed.

By a general warranty deed, the grantor agrees to warrant and defend the property conveyed against all persons whatsoever. A Quit-Claim Deed releases what interest the grantor may have in the land, but does not warrant and defend against others.

Deeds, upon their delivery, should be recorded in the Recorder's office

Mortgages.

A mortgagor is one who makes a mortgage; a mortgagee is one to whom a mortgage is made.

A mortgage is the pledging of an estate for the security of a debt, and becomes void when the debt is paid. Any person owning an interest in, or the whole of an estate, is at libery to mortgage his or her claim upon or interest in it, provided he or she is not under age. A married woman cannot make a mortgage without the consent of her husband. It frequently happens that embarrassed persons give as many as five mortgages to as many different persons, on their estates. A first mortgage, however, takes precedence of all subsequent mortgages or conveyances, provided it is recorded. All mortgages must be recorded in the clerk's office of the county in which the property lies.

When the mortgage is paid, a certificate to that effect from the mortgage or his legal representatives, duly acknowledged by a commissioner of deeds, must be presented to the clerk of the town or county office in which the mortgage is recorded, who will file it, and the mortgage is at

A mortgage to secure the purchase money, made at the time of the purchase, takes precedence of any previous judgment against the mortgagor.

A mortgage sometimes conveys to the mortgagee the power to sell; in such cases the mortgagee may sell the property without the aid of any court. Such sale, however, will not do away with a judgment or mortgage obtained prior to the sale. All such sales must be made at publicauction.

Form of a Mortgage.

This indenture, made the —— day of ——, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety ——, between E. E., of the city of New York, merchant, and R., his wife, of the first part, and D. ## Chattel Mortgage.

A mortgage on personal property, given by a debtor to a creditor, as security for the payment of a sum that may be due, is a Chattel Mortgage.

The property mortgaged may remain in the possession of either party, while the mortgage is in force. In order to hold the property secure against other creditors, the mortgagee, or person holding the mortgage, must have a true copy filed in the clerk's or recorder's office of the place where the mortgagor or person giving the mortgage resides, and where the property is when mortgaged.

A justice of the peace, according to the laws of some States, in the voting precinct where such property mortgaged is located, must acknowledge and sign the mortgage, taking a transcript of the same upon his court docket, while the mortgage itself should be recorded, the same as real estate transfers.

When the person giving the mortgage retains possession of the property, he may empower the party holding the mortgage with authority to take the goods and chattels mortgaged into his possession at any time he may deem the same insufficient security for his claims; or if he shall be convinced that an effort is being made to remove such property, whereby he would be defrauded of his claim, or for other reasons, when he may deem it necessary to secure his claim, he can proceed to take possession of it; and said property, after having given legal notice of sale, according to the law of the State governing the same, he is allowed to sell at public sale, to the highest bidder. Out of the money obtained therefrom, he can retain sufficient to liquidate his demand and defray the necessary expenses, turning over any money remaining to the mortgagor.

Landlord and Tenant.

No particular form of wording a lease is necessary. It is important, however, that the lease state, in a plain, straightforward manner, the terms and conditions of the agreement, so that there may be no misunderstanding between the landlord and tenant.

The lease must state all the conditions, as additional verbal promises avail nothing in law. It is held, generally, that a written instrument contains the details, and states the bargain entire, as the contracting parties intended.

The tenant can sublet a part, or all, of his premises, unless prohibited by the terms of his lease.

A lease by a married woman, even if it be upon her own property, at common law, is not valid; but, by recent statutes, she, in many States, may lease her own property and have full control of the same; neither can the husband effect a lease that will bind her after his death. His control over her property continues only so long as he lives.

Neither a guardian nor a minor can give a lease, extending beyond the ward's majority, which can be enforced by the lessee; yet the latter is bound unless the lease is annulled.

If no time is specified in the lease, it is generally held that the lessee can retain possession of the real estate for one year. A tenancy at will, however, may be terminated in the Eastern States by giving three months' notice in writing; in the Middle and Southern States, six months; and in the Western States, one month; though recent statutes in some States have modified the above somewhat.

The lease that specifies a term of years without giving the definite number, is without effect at the expiration of two years. A lease for three or more years, being signed by the Commissioner of Deeds, and recorded in the Recorder's office, is an effectual bar to the secret or fraudulent conveyance of such leased property; and it further obviates the necessity of procuring witnesses to authenticate the validity of the lease.

Duplicate copies of a lease should always be made, and each party retain a copy of same.

A new lease invalidates an old one.

A landlord misrepresenting property that is leased, thereby subjecting the tenant to inconvenience and loss, such damage can be recovered from the landlord by deduction from the rent.

A lease on property that is mortgaged ceases to exist when the person holding such mortgage forecloses the same.

A landlord consenting to take a substitute releases the first tenant.

Where there is nothing but a verbal agreement, the tenancy is understood to commence at the time of taking possession. Where there is no time specified in the lease, tenancy is regarded as commencing at the ## Wills.

The legal declaration of what a person determines to have done with his property after death is termed a Will.

All persons of sufficient age, possessed of sound mind, excepting married women in certain States, are entitled to dispose of their property by Will. Children at the age of fourteen, if males, and females at the age of twelve, can thus dispose of personal property.

No exact form of words is necessary in order to make a Will good at law; though much care should be exercised to state the provisions of the Will so plainly that its language may not be misunderstood. The person making the Will is termed the testator; if a female, a testatrix.

A Will is of no force or effect until the death of a testator, and can be cancelled or modified at any date by the maker. The last Will made annuls the force of all preceding Wills.

The law regards marriage and offspring resulting as a prima facie evidence of revocation of a Will made prior to such marriage, unless the wife and children are provided for by the husband in some other way, in which case the Will remains in full force.

To convey real estate by Will, it must be done in accordance with the law of the State where such land is located; but personal property is conveyed in harmony with the law that obtains at the place of the testator's residence.

There are two kinds of Wills, namely, written or verbal, or noncupative. The latter or spoken Wills, depending upon proof of persons hearing the same, generally relate to personal property only, and are not recognized in all the States, unless made within ten days previous to death. Verbal or unwritten Wills are usually unsafe, and even when well authenticated, often make expensive litigation; hence the necessity of having the wishes of the testator fully and clearly defined in a written Will.

To give or make a devise of property by Will and subsequently dispose of the same without altering the Will to conform to such sale, destroys the validity of the entire Will.

A Will made by an unmarried woman is legally revoked by marriage; but she can take such legal steps in the settlement of her property, before marriage, as will empower her to dispose of the same as she may choose, after marriage.

No husband can make a Will that will deprive the wife of her right of dower in the property; but the husband can Will the wife a certain amount in lieu of her dower, stating it to be in lieu thereof. Such bequest, however, will not exclude her from her dower, provided she prefers it to the bequest made in the Will. Unless the husband states distinctly that the bequest is in lieu of dower, she is entitled to both.

Property bequeathed must pay debts and encumbrances upon the same before its distribution can be made to the legatees of the estate.

Though property may be willed to a corporation, the corporation cannot accept such gift unless provision is made for so doing in its charter. A Will may be revoked by marriage, a codicil, destruction of the Will, disposing of property devised in a Will, or by the execution of another Will.

The person making a Will may appoint his executors, but no person can serve as such executor if he or she be an alien at the time of proving the Will; if he be under twenty-one years of age, a convict, a drunkard, a lunatic, or an imbecile. No person appointed as an executor is obliged to serve, but may renounce his appointment by legal written notice, signed before two witnesses, which notice must be recorded by the officer before whom the Will is proved.

In case a married woman possesses property, and dies without a Will, her husband is entitled to administer upon such property in preference to any one else, provided he be of sound mind.

Any devise of property made to a subscribing witness is invalid, although the integrity of the Will in other respects is not affected.

In all Wills the testator's full name should be made at the end of such. If he be unable to write, he may have his hand guided in making a mark against the same. If he possesses a sound mind, and is conscious at the time of the import of this action, such mark renders the Will valid.

Witnesses should always write their respective places of residence after their names, their signatures being written in the presence of each other, and in the presence of the testator.

It should be stated also, that these names are signed at the request of, and in presence of the testator, and in the presence of each other.

The following States require two subscribing witnesses: Missouri, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Arkansas, North Carolina, Tennessee, Iowa, Utah, Texas, California, New Jersey, Delaware, Indiana, Virginia and New York. Three witnesses are required to authenticate a Will in the following States: Florida, Mississippi, Maryland, Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina, Wisconsin, Oregon, Minnesota, Michigan, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Proof of signature of the testator by the oath of two reputable witnesses is sufficient to establish the validity of a Will in the State of Pennsylvania; no subscribing witnesses being absolutely necessary.

Witnesses are not required to know the contents of a Will. They have simply to know that the document is a Will, and witness the signing of the same by the testator.

CODICILS.—An addition to a Will, which should be in writing, is termed a codicil. A codicil is designed to explain, modify or change former bequests made in the body of the Will. It should be done with the same care and precision as was exercised in the making of the Will itself.

disposing mind and memory, calling to mind the frailty and uncertainty of human life, and being desirous of settling my worldly affairs, and directing how the estates with which it has pleased God to bless me shall be disposed of after my decease, while I have strength and capacity so to do, do make and publish this, my last will and testament, hereby revoking and making null and void all other last wills and testaments by me heretofore made. And, first, I commend my mortal being to Him who gave it, and my body to the earth, to be buried with little expense or ostentation by my executors hereinafter named.

And to my worldly estate, and all the property, real, personal or mixed, of which I shall die seized and possessed, or to which I shall be entitled at the time of my decease, I devise, bequeath and dispose thereof in the manner following, to wit:

Imprimis. My will is that all my just debts and funeral charges shall, by my executors hereinafter named, be paid out of my estate, as soon after my decease as shall by them be found convenient.

Item. I give, devise and bequeath to my beloved wife, A. R., all my household furniture, my pair of horses and coach and their harness, and also fourteen thousand dollars in money, to be paid to her by my executors hereinafter named, within six months after my decease; to have and to hold the same to her and her executors, administrators and assigns forever. I also give her the use of my dwelling house and lands, to have and to hold the same to her for and during her natural life.

Item. I give and bequeath to my honored mother, L. R., four thousand dollars in money, to be paid to her by my executors hereinafter named, within six months after my decease; to be for the sole use of herself, her heirs, executors, administrators and assigns.

Item. I give, devise and bequeath to my son, Z. G., my house and lands and its appurtenances, situated in ——, and all profit, income and advantage that may result therefrom, from and after the decease of my beloved wife, A. R., to have and to hold the same to him, the said Z. G., his heirs and assigns, from and after the decease of my said wife, to his. and their use and behoof forever.

Item. All the rest and residue of my estate, real, personal or mixed. of which I shall die seized and possessed, or to which I shall be entitled at the time of my decease, I give, devise and bequeath to my son, E. S, and to his heirs and assigns forever. And

Lastly. I do nominate and appoint my said sons, Zr G. and E. S., to be the executors of this my last will and testament.

In testimony whereof, I, the said G. R., have, to this my last will and testament, contained on three sheets of paper, and to every sheet thereof, subscribed my name, and to this, the last sheet thereof, I have subscribed my name, and affixed my seal, this --- day of ----, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-

Partnerships.

An agreement between two or more persons to invest their labor, time and means together, sharing in the loss or profit that may arise from such investment, is termed a partnership.

This partnership may consist in the contribution of skill, extra labor, or acknowledged reputation upon the part of one partner, while the other, or others, contribute money, each sharing alike equally, or in fixed proportion, in the profits, or an equal amount of time, labor, and money, may be invested by the partners, and the profits equally divided; the test of partnership being the joint participation in profit, and joint liability to loss.

A partnership formed without limitation is termed a general partnership. An agreement entered into for the performance of only a particular work is termed a special partnership; while the partner putting in a limited amount of capital, upon which he receives a corresponding amount of profit, and is held correspondingly responsible for the contracts of the firm, is termed a limited partnership, the conditions of which are regulated by statute in different States.

A partner signing his individual name to negotiable paper, which is for the use of the partnership firm, binds all the parties thereby. Negotiable paper of the firm, even though given on private account by one of the partners, will hold all the partners of the firm when it passes into the hands of holders who are ignorant of the facts attending its creation.

Partnership effects may be bought and sold by a partner; he may make contracts; may receive money; endorse, draw, and accept bills and notes; and while this may be for his own private account, if it apparently be for the use of the firm, his partners will be bound by his action, provided the parties dealing with him were ignorant of the transaction being on his private account; and thus representation or misrepresentation of a partner, having relation to business of the firm, will bind the members in the partnership.

An individual lending his name to a firm, or allowing the same to be used after he has withdrawn from the same, is still responsible to third persons as a partner.

A partnership is presumed to commence at the time articles of copartnership are drawn, if no stipulation is made to the contrary, and the same can be discontinued at any time, unless a specified period of partnership is designated in the agreement; and even then he may withdraw by giving previous notice of such withdrawal from the same, being liable, however, in damages, if such are caused by his withdrawal.

Should it be desired that the executors and representatives of the partner continue the business in the event of his death, it should be so specified in the articles, otherwise the partnership ceases at death. Should administrators and executors continue the business under such circumstances, they are personally responsible for the debts contracted by the firm.

If it is desired that a majority of the partners in a firm have the privilege of closing the affairs of the company, or in any way regulating the same, such fact should be designated in the agreement; otherwise such right will not be presumed.

Partners may mutually agree to dissolve partnership, or a dissolution may be effected by a decree of a Court of Equity. Dissolute conduct, dishouesty, habits calculated to imperil the business of the firm, incapacity, or the necessity of partnership no longer continuing, shall be deemed sufficient causes to invoke the law in securing a dissolution of partnership, in case the same cannot be effected by mutual agreement.

After dissolution of partnership, immediate notice of the same should be given in the most public newspapers, and a notice likewise should be sent to every person having special dealings with the firm. These precautions not being taken, each partner continues liable for the act of the others to all persons who have no knowledge of the dissolution.

Form of Articles of Copartnership.

Articles of copartnership made this sixth day of January, 1892, by and between John Williams and C. G. Carson, both of the city of

The said parties hereby agree to form and do form a copartnership for the purpose of carrying on the general produce and commission business, on the following terms and articles of agreement, to the faithful performance of which they mutually agree to bind themselves. The style and name of the copartnership shall be Williams & Carson, and shall commence on the sixth day of January, 1892.

Neither party shall engage in any other business, nor shall either party withdraw from the joint stock any more than $250 per quarter or $1,000 per year.

On the dissolution of this copartnership, if the said parties or their legal representatives cannot agree in the division of the stock then on hand, the whole copartnership effects, except the debts due the firm, shall be sold at public auction, at which both parties shall be at liberty to bid and purchase like other individuals, and the proceeds to be divided after paying the debts of the firm.

For the purpose of securing the performance of the foregoing agreements, it is agreed that either party, in case of any violation of them or either of them by the other, shall have the right to dissolve this copartnership forthwith on his becoming informed of such violation.

In witness whereof the said parties have hereunto set their hands and seals, the day and year first above written.

Assignments.

Only when made in good faith is an assignment valid. Any interested party can test its validity in an action. If the assignment was made to evade debts due to creditors it will be set aside, but such fraud must be proven before a jury, else it will stand.

An assignment for the benefit of his creditors must be an unconditional surrender by a debtor of all his effects. To secretly hold back any property is fraudulent, and punishable by statute.

An insolvent debtor is allowed to prefer one creditor to the exclusion of all others, if he does so in good faith. Even should another creditor commence suit against him, he can still prefer one.

An insolvent debtor making an assignment in trust to pay certain creditors who are to transfer the residue to the debtor, is void as to the remaining creditors, even if evidence is offered that there will be no surplus.

An assignment authorizing the assignee to change, at discretion, the order of preference of creditors, is void.

An immediate delivery of the property must accompany an assignment for the benefit of creditors.

Assignees and trustees are entitled to the same compensation that is allowed to administrators, executors and guardians.

Assignments, and assignments of mortgage must be acknowledged and recorded, like all other conveyances of property.

General Form of Assignment.

TO BE WRITTEN OR ENDORSED ON THE BACK OF ANY INSTRUMENT.

Know all men by these presents, that I, the within named D. E., in consideration of —— dollars to me paid by R. J., have assigned to the said C. A., and his assigns, all my interest in the within written instrument, and every clause, article or thing therein contained; and I do hereby constitute the said R. J. my attorney, in my name, but to his own use and at his own risk and cost, to take all legal measures which may be proper for the complete recovery and enjoyment of the assigned premises, with power of substitution.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this ——

*Immigrants from the British North American possessions and Mexico are not included since July 1, 1885.

As the reports for British North American Provinces and for Mexico have been discontinued since 1885 by the Treasury Department, the figures here represented only cover five years of the decade. An estimate based upon the immigration of the years from 1881 to 1895, inclusive, would give 785,604 to British North America for the decade from 1881 to 1890, and 3,826 to Mexico, making the aggregate for America 817,663, instead of 422,548. Mulhall estimates the number of individuals who emigrated from Europe in 72 years, 1816 to 1888, at 27,205,000. Of these 15,000,000 came to the United States.

Woman's Chances of Marriage at Various Ages.

This curiously constructed exhibit, by Dr. Granville, is drawn up from the registered cases of 876 married women in France. Owing to the difference in our climate, it will be safe to say that French women are as mature at 18 as American women at 20. Of the 876 tabulated, there were married:

Marriages.		Years of Age.	Marriages.		Years of Age.
3	at	13	28	at	27
11	at	14	22	at	28
16	at	15	17	at	29
43	at	16	9	at	30
45	at	17	8	at	31
77	at	18	5	at	32
115	at	19	7	at	33
118	at	20	5	at	34
86	at	21	3	at	35
85	at	22	0	at	36
59	at	23	2	at	37
53	at	24	0	at	38
36	at	25	1	at	39
24	at	26	0	at	40

A careful examination of statistics has demonstrated that the best results would follow if our girls did not marry until at least 20 years of age, and our men until they were 25.

The city of Ghent, Belgium, stands on twenty-six islands, connected with each other by eighty bridges. The city of Venice is built on eighty islands, connected by nearly four hundred bridges. In Venice, canals serve for streets and gondolas for carriages.

Capital Punishment.

The only States in which the death penalty is forbidden by law are Rhode Island, Maine, and Wisconsin. In Rhode Island, the only alternative is imprisonment for life. The death penalty is inflicted in all the States for murder, except the three above named; in Louisiana, for rape, assault with intent to kill, administering poison, arson and burglary; in Delaware and North Carolina, for rape, arson, and burglary; in Alabama, for rape, arson, and robbery; in Georgia, for rape, mayhem, and arson; in Missouri, for perjury and rape; in Virginia, West Virginia, South Carolina, and Mississippi, for rape and arson; in Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, and Arkansas, for rape; in Montana, for arson of dwelling by night; in Maryland, for any variety of arson. In New York and Ohio the death penalty is now inflicted by the means of electricity.

The Great Wall of China.

It is 1,250 miles long, 20 feet thick, and 20 feet high, with a tower at short intervals from 30 to 40 feet high. It was built about 2,000 years ago, and is said to have employed millions of men in its construction, and was completed in from five to ten years. It was built as a defence against her Northern enemies, the Tartars.

Oxygen and Human Life.

At every moment of his life man is taking oxygen into his system by means of the organs of respiration. The body of an adult man, supplied with sufficient food, has neither increased nor diminished in weight at the end of twenty-four hours; yet the quantity of oxygen taken into the system during this period is very considerable, amounting in a year to from 700 to 800 lbs. The oxygen is given off from the lungs in combination with carbonic acid gas and hydrogen in the form of vapor.

Relative Age of Animals.

The average age of a cat is 15 years; a bear, 20 years; a dog, 20 years; a wolf, 20 years; lions, up to 70 years; elephants up to 400 years; a pig to 20 years; rhinoceros, 20 years; horses, average 28 years; camels, up to 100 years; stags are very long lived; sheep, seldom more than 10 years; cows, 15 years; it is considered probable that whales sometimes reach 1,000 years of age; eagles have lived to 104 years; ravens, 100; swans have been known to reach the age of 300 years, and tortoises to the age of 107 years.

Government of the United States.

The executive power is vested in the President, who holds office for four years, and receives $50,000 annually.

The President and Vice-President are elected by electors chosen by the people. The number of electors from each State is equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled.

The electors vote by ballot. These votes are sent sealed to the President of the Senate, who opens them in the presence of Congress. If there are two parties who have received an equal number of votes, the House of Representatives choose by ballot one of them for President.

The various Cabinet officers are appointed by the President. They are six in number, and receive $8,000 annually.

1564 Broadway, WATERVLIET, N. Y.

The legislative power is vested in Congress, of which there are two branches: the Senate, which is composed of two members from each State, who hold office for six years, at an annual salary of $5.500; and the House of Representatives, who are elected by the vote of each State, to hold office two years, and receive $5,000 annually.

As President of the Senate, the Vice-President performs his entire duty, except in case of the removal or death of the President, in which event he assumes the executive powers. He is elected for the same term of office as the President, and receives $10,000 annually.

The President of the United States is commander-in-chief of the army and navy; but the direct supervision of them belongs to the Secretaries of War and of the Navy.

The judiciary of the United States consicts of a Supreme Court, which sits at Washington, and which is composed of a Chief Justice, who receives $10,500 annually, and eight Associate Justices, who receive $10,000 annually. They are appointed by the President, and hold office during good behavior.

The United States is divided into nine judicial circuits, each of which has a circuit judge, who is paid $6,000 a year.

There are also fifty-eight district courts, from which an appeal lies to the circuit court.

Each State and Territory has its own local government, not unlike the general government in its essential features. The executive authority is visted in the Governor, whose term of office and salary vary in different States.

The revenue of the government is chiefly derived from customs duties, proceeds of sales of public lands, and internal revenue taxes upon distilled spirits, fermented liquors, tobacco, etc. The principal source of revenue has been the customs duties. Since the year 1865–66 the revenue has each year largely exceeded the expenditure, and there has been a gradual reduction of taxes. In conformity with several enactments of Congress the surplus revenue is devoted to the gradual redemption of the public debt.

KINGDOMS.

Austria and Hungary.—Each of these countries has its own Parliament, Ministers and government. They have a common army, navy and diplomacy, and a controlling body known as the Delegations. The King's civil list is $450,000.

Belgium. — The legislative power is in the King, the Chamber of Representatives and the Senate. No act of the King has effect unless signed by one of his Ministers, who are thus made responsible for all acts of the government. His civil list is $650,000.

Brazil.— The sovereign exercises the executive power through his responsible Ministers. The legislative authority is vested in a General Assembly, composed of a Senate and House of Deputies.

Canada. — The executive authority is exercised in the name of the Sovereign of Great Britain and Ireland, by a Governor-General and a Privy Council. The legislative is vested in a Senate and a House of Commons. The Governor-General's salary is $50,000.

China.—The administration is under the supreme direction of a Nei-ko, or Cabinet, consisting of four members, and these are assisted by two others, who are to see that nothing goes contrary to the civil or religious laws of the Empire. Emperor is the sole high priest of the empire.

Denmark.—The legislative authority is exercised by the King, acting in concert with the Rigsdag, or Diet, consisting of an Upper House and a House of Commons. The executive power is in the hands of the King and his responsible Ministers. His civil list is $277.775.

German Empire. — The supreme government is vested in the King of Prussia, the Bundesrath and the Reichstag. The former represents the individual States, the latter, the German Nation. The Emperor-King has a civil list of $1,125,000.

Great Britain, Empire of.—The absolute power of the British Empire is held by a Parliament, consisting of two houses, an Upper and a Lower House. The sovereign is at the head of Parliament, and can alone summon Parliament. The Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, and Empress of India, has a civil list of $1,925,000.

Greece, Kingdom of the Hellenes. — The executive power is vested in the king and his responsible Ministers, the heads of the eight departments. The legislative power is given to a single chamber of representatives, called the Boule. He has a civil list of $260,890.

Italy.—The legislative power rests conjointly with the King and a Parliament composed of two houses, an Upper and a Lower House. The executive is exercised exclusively by the King, assisted by the Ministers of nine departments. His civil list amounts to $3,050,000.

Rnssia.—The whole legislative, executive and judicial authority is vested in the Emperor, whose will alone is law. The administration is intrusted to four great councils: the Council of the Empire, the Directing Senate, the Holy Synod and the Committee of Ministers. They all communicate directly with the sovereign. The Emperor is in possession of the revenue from the crown lands, estimated at $2,250,000.

Portugal.—The legislative authority is given to the two houses, Upper and Lower, of the Cortes Geraes. The executive rests with the sovereign and a Cabinet of seven responsible Ministers. His civil list amounts to $400,000.

Spain. — The legislative power rests with the King and Cortes Constituyentes, consisting of a Senate and a Congress. The executive is vested under the King, in a Council of nine Ministers. He has a civil list of $1,400,000.

Sweden and Norway.—The legislative authority of Sweden is vested in the Diet, or Parliament, of the realm, in concert with the sovereign. Every new law must have the assent of the crown. The executive power is held by the King, who acts under the advice of a Council of State consisting of the Minister of State and ten members. The legislative power of Norway is held entirely by the Storthing, or Great Court. The King has the right of veto over the laws passed by the Storthing, but only for a limited period. The executive power

The President's Salary, etc.

Most people believe that the $50,000 a year which the president gets as Most people believe that the $50.000 a year which the president gets as his salary is the sum total. This is a mistake. $36,064 is given him, in addition to his salary of $50,000, to pay the salaries of his subordinates and clerks. His private secretary is paid $3,250, his assist. private secretary $2,250, his stenographer $1,800, five messengers, each $1,200, a steward $1,800, two door keepers, each $1,200, four other clerks at good salaries, one telegraph operator, two ushers $1,200 and $1,400, a night usher $1,200, a watchman $900, and a man who takes care of the fires who receives $864 a year. In addition to this, there is given him $8,000 for incidental expenses such as stationery, carpets, and the care of the presidential stables. And under another heading there is given him nearly $40,000 more. Of this $12,500 is for repairs and refurnishing the white house, $2,500 is for fuel, $4,000 is for the green house, $15,000 is for gas, matches and the stable. The white house all told, costs the country in connection with the president considerably over $125,000 a year.

Religious Statistics.

ENGLISH-SPEAKING RELIGIOUS COMMUNITIES OF THE WORLD.

Episcopalians 21,450,000	Lutherans 1,500,000
Methodists 16,100,000	Unitarians 900,000

Congregationalists 5,650,000	English-speaking popu-
Free Thinkers 1,500,000	lation

A very large number of Hindus and others in the East also speak and read English. The estimates in the above table are from Whittaker's (London) Almanack, 1888.

Notable Bridges of the World.

Brooklyn bridge was commenced, under the direction of J. Roebling, in 1870, and completed in about thirteen years. It is 3,475 feet long and 135 feet high. The cost of building was nearly $15,000,000.

The Cantilever bridge over the Niagara, is built almost entirely of steel. Its length is 910 feet, the total weight is 3,000 tons, and the cost was $222,000.

The Niagara Suspension bridge was built by Roebling, in 1852-55, at a cost of $400,000. It is 245 feet above water, 821 feet long, and the strength is estimated at 1,200 tons.

The bridge at Havre de Grace, over the Susquehanna, is 3,271 feet long, and is divided into twelve wooden spans, resting on granite piers.

The Britannia bridge crosses the Menai strait, Wales, at an elevation of 103 feet above high water. It is of wrought iron, 1,511 feet long, and was finished in 1850. Cost $3,008,000

The new London bridge is constructed of granite, from the designs of L. Rennier. It was commenced in 1824, and completed in about seven years, at a cost of $7,291,000.

The old London bridge was the first stone bridge. It was commenced in 1176, and completed in 1209. Its founder, Peter of Colechurch, was buried in the crypt of the chapel erected on centre pier.

Coalbrookdale bridge, England, is the first cast-iron bridge. It was built over the Severn in 1779.

The bridge at Burton, over the Trent, was formerly the longest bridge in England, being 1,545 feet. It is now partly removed. Built in the twelfth century.

The Rialto, at Venice, is said to have been built from the designs of Michael Angelo. It is a single marble arch, 981 feet long, and was completed in 1591.

The Bridge of Sighs, at Venice, over which condemned prisoners were transported from the hall of judgment to the place of execution, was built in 1589.

The bridge of the Holy Trinity, at Florence, was built in 1569. It is 322 feet long, constructed of white marble, and stands unrivaled as a work of art.

The covered bridge at Pavia, over the Ticino, was built in the fourteenth century. The roof is held by 100 granite columns.

Sublician bridge, at Rome, the oldest wooden bridge known, is said to have been erected in the seventh century. Twice it has been rebuilt, and the ruins of the last structure are still visible.

The First Translation of the Bible

The first translation of the Bible was the celebrated Greek version of the Old Testament, called the Septuagint, made B. C. 285. The meaning of the title is seventy, and was bestowed upon the work because of the approval of the version by the Sanhedrim, the highest Jewish Tribunal, composed of seventy-one members.

Interesting Bible Facts.

THESE WERE COMPILED BY A CONVICT SENTENCED TO LIFE CONFINEMENT FOR MURDER

The bible contains 3,566,480 letters, 773,765 words, 31,173 verses, 1,139 chapters and 66 books. The shortest verse is the 35th verse of the 11th chapter of St. John. The word and occurs 46,277 times. The word Lord occurs 1,855 times. The word Reverend occurs but once. The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except J. ## Marriage and Divorce Laws.

Marriage, Licenses.—Required in all the States and Territories except Dakota, Montana, New Mexico, New Jersey, and New York. In Maryland legal marriage can be had only by an ordained minister.

Marriage, Prohibition of .- Marriages between whites and persons of negro descent are prohibited and punishable in California, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

Marriages between whites and Indians are prohibited in Arizona and North Carolina.

Marriages between whites and Chinese are prohibited in Arizona.

The marriage of first cousins is forbidden in Arkansas, Dakota, Indiana, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Washington Territory, and Wyoming, and in some of them is declared incestuous and void.

Marriage, Age to Contract.—In New Jersey and Ohio, males under twenty-one years and females under eighteen years of age must obtain the consent of parents or guardians. In Massachusetts a marriage between a male over fourteen and a female over twelve is legal, even without consent of parents.

Marriage, Presumption of.—In Missouri it has been held that where parties cohabit and represent themselves as husband and wife, a marriage is presumed, and when parties capable of contracting agree, in express terms, with each other, to be husband and wife, and cohabit as such, the marriage is valid, without any further ceremony being performed. In California marriage is declared a civil contract; consent, followed by a mutual assumption of marital rights and obligations, is sufficient.

Divorce, Previous Residence Required.—Dakota, ninety days; Arizona, Idaho, Nebraska, Nevada and Wyoming, six months; Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Mississippi, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, (both parties, as husband and wife), West Virginia, and Wisconsin, one year; Florida, Indiana, Maryland, North Carolina and Tennessee, two years; Connecticut, Massachusetts, and New Jersey (for desertion) three

Divorce, Causes for .- The violation of the marriage vow is cause for absolute divorce in all the States, excepting South Carolina, which has no divorce law.

Willful desertion one year, in Arizona, Arkansas. Colorado, Dakota, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Montana, Nevada, Rhode Island, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Willful desertion, two years, in Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Tennessee.
Willful desertion three years, in Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, Vermont and West Virginia.

Willful desertion, five years, in Virginia. Habitual drunkenness, in all the States except Louisiana, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

In Georgia an absolute divorce is granted only after the concurrent verdict of two juries, at different terms of the court. In New York absolute divorce is granted for but one cause, adultery. In South Carolina there is no divorce law.

All of the causes above enumerated are for absolute or full divorce.

Divorce, Remarriage.—There are no restrictions upon remarriage by divorced persons in Connecticut, Kentucky, Illinois and Minnesota. Either party may remarry, but defendant must wait two years and obtain permission from the court in Massachusetts. The decree of the court may restrain the guilty party from remarrying in Virginia. Parties cannot remarry until after two years, except by permission of the court, in Maine. In the State of New York the plaintiff may remarry, but the defendant cannot do so during the plaintiff's life-time, unless the decree be modified, or proof that five years have elapsed, and that complainant has married again and defendant's conduct has been uniformly good. Any violation of this is punished as bigamy, even though the other party has been married.

The courts of every State, and particularly of New York, are very jealous of their jurisdiction, and generally refuse to recognize as valid a divorce against one of the citizens of the State by the court of another State, unless both parties to the suit were subject at the time to the jurisdiction of the court granting the divorce.

Kansas courts grant divorces for the reason that the applicant's husband or wife has obtained a divorce in another State, and the applicant has been forbidden to remarry. If a wife in New York obtains a divorce from her husband, and he is forbidden to remarry, he may go to Kansas and obtain a divorce on that ground. If his wife contests the case, or can be served with the papers in Kansas, so that she is brought under the jurisdiction of the Kansas court, the courts of New York must recognize the divorce as valid, and cannot punish the husband for remarrying in New York.

New York permits polygamy and polyandry in certain cases. Desertion for five years, without knowledge that the deserter is living, permits the one deserted to marry again; and the second marriage is valid, though the deserter returns. The second marriage may be declared void, but only from the date of the decree, by a court of competent jurisdic tion, upon proper petition; but if no such petition is made, and all parties are satisfied, one husband may live in lawful wedlock with two or more wives, or one wife with two or more husbands. The children will inherit, and both wives will be entitled to dower.

An Act for the Protection of Inn and Hotel Keepers.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, represented in the SENATE and ASSEMBLY

The People of the State of New York, represented in the Senate and Assembly do enact as follows;

SECTION 1. Whenever the proprietor or proprietors of any hotel shall provide a safe in the office of such hotel, or other convenient place for the safe keeping of any money, jewels or ornaments belonging to the guests of such hotel, and shall notify the guests thereof, by posting a notice, (stating the fact that such safe is provided, in which such money, jewels or ornaments may be deposited), in the room or rooms occupied by such guest, in a conspicuous manner; and if such guestshall neglect to deposit such money, jewels or ornaments in such safe, the proprietor or proprietors of such hotel shall not be liable for any loss of such money, jewels or ornaments usuatined by such guest, by theft or otherwise.—Passed April 18th 1855.

SECTION 1. Every person who shall, at any hotel or inn, order and receive, or cause to be furnished, any food or accommodation, with intent to defraud the owner or proprietor of such hotel or inn out of the price of such food or accommodation; and every person who shall obtain credit at any hotel or inn by the use of any false preense or device, or by depositing at such hotel or inn any baggage or property of value less than the amount of such credit, or of the bill by such person incurred: and any person who, after obtaining credit or accommodation at any hotel or inn, shall abscond from such hotel or inn, and shall surreptitiously remove his baggage or property therefrom, shall, upon conviction, be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor.—Passed April 23d, 1867.

SECTION 2 of the above Act as amended April 27th, 1871:

SECTION 2 of the above Act as amended April 27th, 1871:

SECTION 2 of the above Act as amended April 27th, 1871:
Every keeper of a hotel or inn shall post in a public and conspicuous place in the office or public room, and in every bed-room in said house, a printed copy of this Act, and a statement of the charges or rates of charges by the day and for meals furnished and for lodging. No charge or sum shall be collected or received by any such person, for any service not actually delivered or for a longer time than the person so charged actually remained at such place. For any violation of this section, or of any provision herein contained, the offender shall forfeit to the injured party three times the amount so charged, and shall not be entitled to receive any money for the meals served or time charged.

How the President of the United States is Chosen.

Technically speaking, the president is not elected by the people, and the people do not vote directly for any presidental candidate. They cast their ballots for electors and these electors choose a president and a vicepresident. In each State the number of electors is equal to the number of senators and representatives which the State has in congress. party has an electoral ticket with the names of its electors printed on it. The electoral ticket which receives the greatest number of popular ballots in the State would be chosen by the people, and the electors named on it will be entitled to give their votes for the candidate whom they represent.

The electors who are chosen will meet in each State on the first Wednesday in December, and cast their votes for a president and vice-presi-As a matter of law, they can then vote for whom they please. As a matter of usage and public trust, they are expected to vote for the candidate whom they are pledged to support.

Certificates of the votes cast by the electors in each State are then made out and sent to Washington. These certificates are opened in the presence of the senate and the house of representatives, and counted on the second Wednesday in February. The total number of electoral votes The candidate for president receiving the majority of these (that is 444. is, 223) will be declared president. If no person has such majority, then the election goes into the house of representatives, which is required to choose a president from the persons (not exceeding three) who have received the most electoral votes for president. In the house the vote is by States, each State having one vote.

Facts for Builders.

One-fifth more siding and flooring is needed than the number of square feet of surface to be covered, on account of the lap in siding and matching of flooring.

A cord of stone, 3 bushels of lime and one cubic yard of sand will lay 100 cubic feet of wall.

Twenty-two cubic feet of stone, when built into the wall, is one perch.

Three pecks of lime and four bushels of sand are required to each perch of wall.

There are 20 common bricks to a cubic foot when laid; and 15 common bricks to a foot of 8-inch wall when laid.

AMERICAN WARS.

INDIAN WARS, INCIDENTS, ETC.

Pope Paul III. issued a decree in 1537 declaring native American Indians to be rational beings and entitled to the privileges of Christians.

Juan Ortiz, one of Narvæz's men, met De Soto shortly after he left Tampa Bay. He had been captured by the Indians and lived with them until now—1539. He proved valuable as a guide and interpreter to the expedition. When first captured, chief Ucita condemned him to be burnt at the stake, but his life was saved by the daughter of the chief, who represented to her father that it would be a great honor to the tribe to possess a white captive.

Lord Roanoke was an Indian chief named Manteo, who was baptized Aug. 13, 1587, by an English minister, and created a peer with the above title. This is the solitary English peerage created in America.

Pocahontas and Captain John Smith. In December, 1607, the latter was captured by Indians and condemned to die. His life was spared by the chieftain Powhattan at the solicitation of his favorite daughter, Pocahontas. This circumstance has been discredited of late years, but the evidence is in favor of its truth.

"Welcome Englishmen!" was the salutation of the Indian Samoset, who entered the little settlement at Plymouth March 16, 1621. This was the first Indian the settlers had seen. Samoset had been acquainted with English fishermen on the coast of Maine, and he gave them valuable information.

Indian Fidelity. A league was formed between the Plymouth colonists and Massasoit, chief of the Wampanoags, April 1,1621. It remained unbroken over fifty years.

Indian Massacre in Virginia. March 22, 1622, the Indians suddenly fell upon the white settlements near Jamestown and killed 347 persons. A converted Indian gave warning in time to save Jamestown and a few neighboring plantations. The University estate was abandoned, the glass and iron works destroyed, and the colony had no settled peace for four-teen years.

Pequod War in 1636-7 resulted in the extermination of the tribe by the Connecticut colony.

Massacre of Indians near New Amsterdam was instigated in 1643 by Governor William Kieft. It caused great trouble to the Dutch colonists afterward. Mrs. Hutchinson, who had removed into New Netherland, was killed in one of the Indian attacks.

Massacre of Indians by the Dutch near Greenwich, Conn., occurred in February, 1644. 500 perished. The Dutch had fifteen wounded.

Second Indian Massacre in Virginia, April 18, 1644. The Indians, instigated by Opechancanaugh, attempted the extermination of the colonists and killed 500 whites, but after a short war were entirely defeated, and the aged chief captured and shot by a vindictive guard.

King Philip began war in New England June 24, 1675, by killing some of the citizens of Swansea, who were returning from a meeting. This bloody war ended only with King Philip's death in 1676.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians was made Nov., 1682, under the old treaty tree at Shakamaxon. A monument has been erected upon the spot.

Indian War broke out in Eastern Maine in 1689.

Major Waldron, who made slaves of 300 Indians in 1676, was hewn in pieces in 1689 by Indians, who captured him at Dover, N. H., by strategy.

Schenectady, N. Y., was burned on February 8, 1690, and the inhabitants massacred by the French and Indians during a violent snow storm.

Salmon Falls, N. H., was burned by Indians March 27, 1690.

Haverill, Mass., was attacked by Indians in March, 1697, and forty persons were butchered. Mrs Hannah Dustan, her nurse and a lad were taken captives. The week old babe of Mrs. Dustan was dashed against a tree. Their captors, twelve in number, took them to an island in the Merrimac, and while asleep at night the three prisoners arose and with tomahawks quietly dispatched ten of the twelve, two escaping by flight. Mrs. Dustan carried home a bag containing the scalps of her neighbors. The government of Massachusetts paid them £50.

An Expedition Against Indians friendly to Spain, in 1703, was made by the Governor of South Carolina, who burned villages and took 800 prisoners.

Indian Settlements of East Maine were burned in 1704, and many prisoners taken by Col. Benjamin Church, with a force of 500 men, in retaliation for depredations on the whites.

Massacre in North Carolina in Oct., 1711. The Tuscaroras attempted the extermination of the whites, and butchered 137 in one night. They were driven off after three days' outrages.

"Six Nations." In 1713 the Tuscaroras renewed the war upon the whites in Carolina. Moore, of South Carolina, with forty militia and 800 friendly Indians, captured their fort and 800 prisoners, who were given to the allies and sold by them into slavery. The remainder of the tribe left their country and went north, and were admitted into the confederacy of the Five Nations, thus forming the sixth nation.

Indian League in South Carolina. In 1715 the Yemassees, Catawbas, Cherokees and Creeks, being enraged by gross provocations from persons trading with them, united in hostilities against the whites. After massacring over 400 persons they were defeated and driven into Florida by the energy of Governor Charles Craven. The damages inflicted by this war amounted to £100,000, besides a debt incurred in bills of credit for nearly an equal sum.

Brunswick, Maine, was burned by the Abenaki Indians in 1722. Thus begun the third Indian war in New England.

Fryeburg, Maine, was the scene of a severe fight May 8, 1725, between a company of whites, under Captain John Lovewell, and the Pequawkett Indians, under Sachem Paugus. Both leaders were slain, and the Indians went further north to live.

Natchez Indians Massacred the French on the present site of Natchez in 1729.

Natchez Indians were exterminated in 1730 by the French in retaliation for the massacre of the Rosalie colonists.

Great Pedestrian Feat. In 1737 a dispute arose between the Pennsylvania and Delaware Indians. It was to be settled by as much land as could be determined by the walk of a day and a half. Three men were selected for the walk. In consequence of over-exertion one died, another permanently injured his health, but the third, Edward Marshall, walked eighty-six miles within the time, and lived to be ninety years old.

Queen of the Creek Indians. In 1749, Mary Musgrove, a half-breed, who claimed to be Queen of the Creeks, attempted to secure for herself the province of Georgia. She had a large number of Indian followers, and intended to use force in accomplishing her design. She was foiled by the vigilance of the whites.

Missionaries Slain. Nov. 24, 1755, twelve Moravians fell in an Indian attack upon Mahoney, Penn.

Cherokee Indians, with whom the whites had always been at peace, in 1759 became involved in a quarrel, which became a war through the arrogance of Governor Littleton, of South Carolina.

Detroit was occupied Nov. 29, 1760, by a party of rangers. Pontiac then began a plot for exterminating the whites.

Cherokee War. In 1760, Col. Montgomery, with 1,200 Scotch Highlanders and some provincial levies, invaded and ravaged the Cherokee country. The Indians gathered in large force, and after a severe battle Montgomery retired to Charleston.

Pontiac's War. In March, 1763, Ensign Holmes discovered that Pontiac was plotting with the Western Indians to exterminate the English, and a Great Indian Council was held by Pontiac on April 27, 1763, at which it was agreed to begin war by an attack on Detroit.

Indian Plot Revealed. May 6, 1763, Major Gladwyn, commanding at Detroit, learned that the Indians intended to attack him the following day, and when Pontiac, with 300 warriors, entered the fort at Detroit, he found that the soldiers and hunters were under arms, and his plot discovered. Pontiac therefore retired.

Fort at Detroit besieged May 9, 1763, by Pontiac, he having failed to massacre the garrison on the 7th.

 ${\bf F}ort$  at Sandusky, on Lake Erie, under Ensign Paul, was captured by the Indians May 16, 1763.

English Garrison massacred at the mouth of the St. Joseph river, May 25, 1763.

Michillimackinac was taken by massacre, June 2, 1763, at a signal given during an Indian game of ball.

Presque Isle, now Erie, Pa., under Ensign Christie, was taken by the Indians June 22, 1763; also Forts Le Boeuf and Venango.

Bloody Bridge, near Detroit, where Pontiac had camped, was attacked, but being betrayed and ambushed, the party was almost wholly destroyed, July 31, 1763.

Peace was sued for by most of the Indians, who submitted to English authority, Oct. 12, 1763.

The Ottawas also sued for peace, October 30, 1763, but the siege of Detroit was continued until the following summer.

Pontiac, Having Failed in his desperate efforts to rouse the Western tribes, gave in his formal submission to Sir William Johnson in 1766.

Bushy Run. August 5, 1763, an English force under Boquet, for the relief of Fort Pitt, encountered and defeated the savages at Bushy Run. This victory destroyed the Indian power in the Ohio Valley, and discouraged all the Western tribes, who found that they could not depend on France for aid. £100 reward was offered for killing Pontiac by General Amhorst.

Conestoga, Penna., Massacre. A few Indians living at Conestoga, Pa., were massacred by a party of whites from Paxton, near the Susquehanna, on December 14, 1763, and on the 27th of December, some who had escaped the previous massacre were murdered by the Paxton men in the jail where they had been lodged for safety.

Paxton Men at Philadelphia. On February 4, 1764, these men undertook an expedition to Philadelphia to seize the remnant of converted Moravian Indians, who had been sent there for safety at the time of the Conestoga massacre. The Indians were sent first to New York and afterward to New Jersey, but refuge in both provinces was denied them. They were returned to Philadelphia, and when the "Paxton Boys" appeared they found that preparations had been made to give them a warm reception, which influenced them to abandon their enterprise.

Indian War in the Carolinas. In September, 1776, instigated by British agents, an Indian war raged in the Carolinas for a short time, but was speedily ended by the activity of the patriots.

Chillicothe, O. An Indian fight occurred near this place October 17, 1790. General Harmer, with a poorly equipped, undisciplined force, was defeated. They, however, crippled the enemy by burning their villages.

Defeat of Gen. St. Clair, November 4, 1791. He had succeeded Harmer, and with a force of 2,500 was encamped near the Wabash. He was surprised and routed by "Little Turtle" with a large force of Indians. He lost half his army.

Gen. Anthony Wayne was appointed Refirmander of the army against the Western Indians, April, 1792.

"Mad Anthony Wayne" won a victory over "Little Turtle" on the Maumee river, O., August 20, 1794. General Wayne, with 2,000 men, so completely routed the Indians that they never rallied from their defeat. Their loss was unknown. Wayne's loss was 139. The fight occurred near a British fort, and the savages were aided by Canadians.

Jacksonville, Ala. Creek Indians were defeated, Nov. 3, 1813, near Jacksonville, Ala., by the Americans under General Coffee.

Talladega, Ala. General Jackson defeated the Creeks at Talladega, Ala., November 8, 1813.

Lowndes County, Alabama. General Claiborne, with 1,000 men, defeated the Indians in Lowndes county, Alabama, on the 23d of Nov., 1813.

Tallapoosa River. General John Floyd, with 900 men, defeated the Indians November 29, 1813, at Antossi, on the Tallapoosa river, on a spot the savages deemed "holy ground," upon which no white man could live.

Horse-Shoe Bend. The battle of Horse-Shoe Bend occurred March 27, 1814, between General Jackson and the Creeks, who had assembled in a fortified camp on the Tallapoosa river. Until 600 of their warriors were slain they refused to surrender, then their chief, Weathersford, suddenly appeared in Jackson's tent and exclaimed: "I am in your power; do with me what you please. I have done the white people all the harm I could. My warriors are all gone now, and I can do no more. When there was a chance for success I never asked for peace. There is none now, and I ask it for the remnant of my nation." He was spared and humanely treated by Jackson. This was the death blow to the Creeks.

Tippecanoe. General Harrison was attacked early in the morning of Nov. 7, 1811, at Tippecanoe, by the Indians led by the Prophet. A severe battle lasting until dawn resulted in the repulse of the savages, who were driven off by successive bayonet charges.

Massacre at Fort Mimms, Ala., August 30, 1813, by Creek Indians under Chief Weatherford. The British had offered $5 for each scalp. 300 persons were slain.

Seminole War. In 1817, the Creeks and Seminoles, with bad negroes, made frequent raids upon United States Government property; then, after completing their destruction, hid in the Florida Swamps. Gen. Gaines, commanding a post on Flint river, made several unsuccessful efforts to stop them. Gen. Jackson, in the following year, with 1,000 riflemen from Western Tennessee, overran the hostile Indian country and captured St. Marks and Pensacola. He sent the Spanish authorities to Havana, and hung Arbuthnot and Ambrister, two Englishmen, for inciting the savages to depredations.

Second War with the Seminoles. The United States government attempted to remove this tribe, West of the Mississippi, in 1835, which they resisted. Gen. Clinch commanded a post in Florida which was threatened by the Indians. Major Dade, with 117 men, was sent to his relief, but on the way his command was ambushed, and all but one man massacred by the Indians. The same day, Dec. 28th, Gen. Thompson and five friends were surprised at dinner, murdered and scalped by Osceola, and a band of warriors. The war thus begun lasted four years.

Creek Indians were subdued in 1836 by Gen. Winfield Scott, and many of them removed beyond the Mississippi.

Battle between the Seminoles and 500 Georgians under Gen. Call, Nov. 25, 1836, was severe but not decisive, and resulted in continued warfare during the whole winter.

Colonel Zachary Taylor, with 600 troops, defeated a large force of Indians at Macaco Lake, Dec. 25, 1837.

Cherokee Indians were removed from Georgia to the West of the Mississippi in 1838, by Gen. Scott. They felt greatly aggrieved at being violently torn from their homes.

Seminole War Ended in 1842 by the complete capture, death and removal of the tribe. It had lasted seven years. 1,500 whites had been slain and $10,000,000 expended.

Massacre of Capt. Gunnison and his party was committed Oct. 26, 1853, by the Utah Indians. His was one of four expeditions to explore routes for a railway to the Pacific.

Sioux War. In the fall of 1862 bands of Sioux Indians, commanded by Little Crow, being incited by Confederate emissaries, committed hor rible massacres upon the whites of Minnesota and Dakota, murdering over 700 of them. Gen. H. H. Sibley routed Little Crow at Wood Lake and took 500 prisoners, of whom 300 were sentenced to death by courtmartial. President Lincoln pardoned all but thirty-nine, who were hung at Mankato, Minn., February 28, 1863.

Fort Kearney Massacre. The Indians massacred 100 United States troops at Fort Kearney December 21, 1866.

Indian Outrages. In 1871 the Apaches murdered about 200 whites and destroyed much property.

Indians Massacred by the Settlers. April 30, 1871, at Camp Grant, Arizona, 100 Apaches, captives, were murdered by settlers who had suffered from their atrocities.

Red Cloud and a delegation of Sioux Indians had a reception June 7, 1872, at Cooper Institute, N. Y.

Lee Family Murdered. June 9, 1872, Comanche Indians murdered the Lee family, consisting of 7 persons, near Fort Griffin, Texas.

Modoc Massacre. April 11, 1873, the attempt of the United States government to remove the Modoc Indians of Oregon to their reservation culminated in the murder of Gen. Canby and Rev. Dr. Thomas, and the almost killing of the Peace Commissioner, Col. A. B. Meachem, among the Lava beds, to the strongholds of which they had retreated. A peace council had been arranged with the Indian leader, Capt. Jack, when the treacherous murders took place. The Indians were finally hunted down, and Capt. Jack and others were hung Oct. 3, 1873, at Fort Klamath.

Custer Massacre. Gen. Custer and 300 soldiers were massacred June 22, 1876, by Sitting Bull and his Sioux warriors on the Little Big Horn river, near Montana territory, in an attempt to capture a large Indian village. They were ambushed by an overwhelming force.

Indians of the Northwest were beaten in a severe battle July 12, 1877, at the mouth of the Cottonwood by a force under Gen. O. O. Howard.

Nez Perces Indians and General Gibbons' Command fought August 9, 1877, on the Big Hole river, M. T. The result was indecisive, and loss heavy on both sides. Capt. William Logan and Lieut. James H. Bradley were killed. Gen. Gibbons, Capt. Williams and Lieut. Coolridge, English and Woodruff were wounded.

Chief Joseph and his band of Nez Perces Indians surrendered to General Miles on Snake Creek in the Northwest of the United States, Oct. 5, 1877.

Sitting Bull and his Sioux warriors were offered full pardon for past offenses by a United States Commission under Gen. Terry, Oct. 8, 1877, at Fort Walsh, Canada, upon condition of returning to their reservation and future good behavior. The overtures were scornfully rejected. The British government promised to locate them on Red Deer river in a fine game country, and they remained subjects of Queen Victoria.

Indian Chief Gall and 150 of Sitting Bull's warriors surrendered to United States troops May 7, 1878.

Cheyenne Indians were beaten in a fight with United States troops Sept. 27, 1878, 250 miles south of Denver, Colorado, but shortly afterward they raided Northwest Kansas, committing depredations and horrid murders.

Sitting Bull returned to United States territory from the British possessions June 7, 1879, with 800 lodges.

Ute Outbreak. Sept. 29, 1879, a United States Cavalry escort of a wagon train was attacked by the Utes near Milk river, Major Thornburg commanding, and eleven men were killed, the balance were afterward rescued by Gen. Merritt. The Indians also butchered Mr. Meeker, the Indian Agent at White river, and carried his wife and daughter into captivity, whence they were restored after suffering horrible outrages.

The Apaches Butchered twenty-one whites at Silver City, New Mexico, Oct. 19, 1879.

Sioux Indians Surrendered Aug. 19 and 20, 1880, to United States troops at Fort Keegh, Montana. They numbered 800.

FRENCH AND INDIAN WARS.

Maj. Schuyler, of Albany N. Y., defeated a French force of 800 men, with an English force and 300 Mohawks in 1691.

Deerfield, Mass., was surprised March1, 1704, by French and Indians, who murdered 47 and carried 147 captives to Canada.

Haverhill, Mass., was burned by French and Indians Aug. 29, 1708.

Kittanning, an Indian village in Western Pennsylvania, was destroyed by 300 whites Oct. 7, 1756, in revenge for depredations committed.

Expedition against Louisburg, under the Earl of London, sailed June 20, 1757, from New York. He had a fine army of 10,000 men, but learning at Halifax that the French had a few more vessels than he had, he returned to New York.

British Army, under Abercrombie, in 1758 had twenty-two thousand Regular and twenty-eight thousand Provincial troops, or more than the entire male population of new France.

Lord Howe was killed July 6, 1758, in a skirmish with the French during the advance by Abercrombie on Fort Ticonderoga.

Fort Ticonderoga was assaulted July 8, 1758, by 1,600 English troops under Abercrombie. He was defeated with a loss of 2,000, and was retired for Gen. Amherst.

Louisburg Captured July 27, 1758, from the French. The English commanders were Gen. Amherst and Admiral Boscawen. By this victory England gained control of all the country on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Battle Near Fort Du Quesne. Sept. 14, 1758, a British detachment was defeated by the French, who killed and captured nearly all.

Fort Pitt, so named in honor of Wm. Pitt, was erected by Washington upon the site of Fort Du Quesne, which the French destroyed and evacuated Nov. 25, 1758, upon his approach with a detachment from Gen. Forbes' army. The city of Pittsburg is now located there.

Quebec Captured, Sept. 13, 1759. The English troops under Gen. James Wolfe had besieged the city for two months. Wolfe and part of the army climbed the heights during the night and defeated the French under Gen. Montcalm. Wolfe and Montcalm were both mortally wounded.

Conquest of Canada, by the English, was consummated in 1760 by the surrender of Montreal and all other French ports, to Amherst's army by the Governor.

George Washington, 21 years old, was sent Oct. 31, 1753, across the Alleghanies to the French posts, by Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia, to demand the release of English traders captured by them, and an explanation of their warlike preparations. He reached the Venango post—distant 400 miles—in 41 days. He had but four or five attendants and had to traverse dense forests through heavy snows. Ioncaire, the commander, sent a sealed message to Dinwiddle, but the French officers made no secret of their intention to permanently occupy all that country. On their return, Washington nearly lost his life in crossing the Alleghany upon a raft mid floating ice, and they were shot at by Indians, but reached Williamsburg safely.

Washington's Report, Jan. 16, 1754, induced the Assembly to vote £10,000 toward the defense of the frontiers. A small party was sent to build a fort on the present site of Pittsburg, Penn., and a regiment of 600 men followed, under command of Col. Frye and Lieut. Colonel George Washington.

Fort Du Quesne. April 17, 1754, the French drove off the party who were building the fort, finished it, and named it after the Governor General of Canada.

Washington, with a detachment, surprised and defeated a French party under Jummouville (who was killed) at Redstone, May 28, 1754. Frye also died, and Washington in command pushed forward to Great Meadows, and constructed a stockade, which they called Fort Necessity.

Fort Necessity capitulates July 4, 1754, to a superior force of French and Indians after nine hours' severe fighting.

Gen. Braddock, commissioned Commander-in-Chief, arrived frem England with two regiments. At a convention of Colonial Governors at Alexandria, Va., held April 14, 1755, four expeditions were planned—one against Fort Du Quesne, a second against Forts Niagara and Frontenac, a third against Crown Point, and a fourth against Nova Scotia.

Braddock's Campaign. The expedition against Fort Du Quesne started from Fort Cumberland on Wills Creek June 7, 1755. It consisted of 2,200 men, Washington, by Braddock's invitation, acting as Aid-de-Camp.

Braddock's Defeat. July 9, 1755, after traversing the rough ridges of the Alleghanies for a few miles, Braddock impatiently pushed forward with 1,300 ricked men. When within five miles of Fort Du Quesne he fell into an ambush of 200 French and 600 Indians, who poured in a deadly and continuous fire, creating a panic among his British regulars, who were unaccustomed to Indian warfare. Braddock had five horses shot under him and was finally killed; sixty of his officers were killed or disabled, and the entire loss was 700. A flight ensued, which was partly covered by Washington at the head of some provincials. This defeat was the result of Braddock's contempt for the warnings given by Washington and others of the character of Indian warfare. Gates, Gage, Morgan and Mercer, all afterward generals in the Revolution, were engaged in this conflict.

Hendrick, a Famous Mohawk Chieftain, in 1755, and Gen. Wm. Johnson, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, were good friends. Seeing some fine clothing which Johnson had received from England, he greatly desired a fine suit. Shortly after, the chief told Johnson that he had dreamed that he had presented him with it, which the general accordingly did. Soon after, Johnson told Hendrick that he had dreamed that the chief had presented him with 500 acres of the finest land in the Mohawk Valley. Hendrick gave the land, but concluded not to dream any more with the Englishman. Hendrick and his warriors were influenced by Johnson to aid the English in the French and Indian war. He was slain in the battle of Lake George.

WAR OF INDEPENDENCE, 1775.

BRITISH OPPRESSION OF THE COLONIES.

Jamestown Ruled by Martial Law. May 10, 1611, Sir Thomas Dale arrived with supplies, assuming charge of the Colony, administering both church and state by his severe rule.

Exports of Tobacco and other colonial productions to any foreign port, "until they were first landed in England and the customs paid," were forbidden by decree of the English government in 1621.

Parliament in 1650 declared Virginia and the West India Colonies, which refused to acknowledge the Commonwealth, in rebellion, prohibited trade with them and sent an armed force against them.

Thankfulness for Ignorance. In 1670, Governor Sir William Berkeley, of Virginia, in his report to the Commissioners of the Colony, wrote: "I thank God there are no free schools nor printing, and I hope we shall not have these hundred years, for learning has brought disobedience into the world, and printing has divulged them and libels against the best governments. God keep us from both."

Tax Collectors. In 1679, Edward Randolph was made collector and surveyor of all New England by the King, with power to appoint deputies. They were persistently opposed, Randolph being at one time imprisoned by the Colonies, and finally ceased to comply strictly with the laws, which gradually fell into disuse, until after the French and Indian wars, when their revival caused the revolution.

Andros Arrived at Boston Dec. 19, 1686, and created immediate trouble by taxation, by ordering that only a Church of England minister should solemnize marriage, that the episcopacy should be established, and that no printing press should be used.

William of Orange having landed in England in 1689, the colonists seized and imprisoned Andros, and in July sent him a prisoner to England.

Francis Nicholson was appointed Governor of Virginia in 1690.

Governorship of New York. William III, having, in 1691, appointed Colonel Henry Sloughter to this position, there was a conflict of authority between him and the incumbent Leisler. Leisler and his son-in-law Milborne were arrested, tried and executed for treason. Governor Sloughter was drunk when he signed their death warrant.

"Mast Trees." The new charter of New England of 1692, imposed a fine of £100 for cutting pine trees in the forests which were more than two feet in diameter at a foot above ground, they being reserved for masts for the royal navy. A "Surveyor General of the King's Woods" was appointed to stamp a broad arrow upon them. It enraged the lumbermen, who had built up a trade in spars with the French and Spanish Islands, to find the "broad arrow" stamped on their best trees, and shook their belief in the justice of the King's prerogative.

Board of Trade was established in England in 1696. It was to have a general oversight of colonial affairs and to enforce the laws of trade and the Navigation acts. This Board's acts helped to bring on the revolution.

The Independent Spirit of the Colonies was made the subject of a memorial to the English government in 1703 by Quarry, who recommended that it be "checked in time."

Lord Cornbury was Governor of New York from 1702 to 1708. He was a profligate, and sometimes appeared in public dressed as a woman.

Singular Subject for a Sermon. In 1719, Dr. Coleman preached a sermon upon the "reasons for a market in Boston." The press was under censorship, and a license was required for every pamphlet issued. Therefore the pulpit was the only place left for the free expression of views on public matters.

Forest Tree Strife still continued in New England in 1722. Government had for thirty years confiscated the best trees, for which the Colonits vainly demanded compensation, They were forbidden to sell timber to Spain and Portugal. Royal authority was losing its power in New England.

American Competition with English manufactures was the subject of a report of the Board of Trade to the House of Commons in 1731. In it mention was made of the Massachusetts paper mill, which it was "feared would interfere with the profit made by British merchants on foreign paper sent thither." They were also alarmed by the shoemakers who went from house to house making foot-wear for families.

Exportation of hats from the American Colonies was forbidden by Act of Parliament in 1732. Neither could they be carried from one province to another.

"Molasses Act." In 1734, in order to compel the Colonists to purchase their sugar, molasses and rum in the British West Indies, instead of from the British and Dutch West Indies, Parliament imposed a duty that was virtually prohibitory.

Freedom of the Press Vindicated in New York, November 17, 1734, by the acquittal of John Peter Zenger, publisher of the New York Weekty Journal, after a long trial and imprisonment for defending popular rights against the crown, caused great rejoicing and inspired the Colonists with a fresh spirit of opposition to parliamentary restrictions.

Impressment in Boston. In Nov., 1747, Commodore Knowles, commander of the English squadron in the harbor, seized several men for his fleet. A mob of several thousands demanded redress from the Governor. The excitement increased for two or three days, when, fearing the consequences, the men were released.

American Iron Manufactories, such as rolling mills, plating forges and furnaces, were declared "common nuisances," and a fine of $1,000 was imposed upon every one built in excess of those already in occupation, by an Act of the British Parliament in 1750.

Pennsylvania Protests against British Restrictions. In February, 1757, Benjamin Franklin was appointed to "represent in England the unhappy state of that province," consequent upon the persistent efforts of the English government to restrict popular rights.

British House of Commons, in 1757, by formal resolution, denied the rights of the Colonists to raise and appropriate money by their own acts alone.

Writs of Assistance or Warrants, to search when and where they pleased for smuggled goods, were issued by the English government in 1761, in order to a more strict enforcement of the Acts of Trade. They were so unpopular as to be seldom used. Massachusetts first resisted the enforcement of these acts, in a stirring speech delivered by James Otis. Writs of Assistance were warrants issued by the Supreme Court, authorizing deputy collectors to search any place or building for the discovery of smuggled goods. It was conceded that the government had the right to issue a writ for the searching of a special building named in the writ, but it was denied that writs could be lawfully issued to enable an officer of the law to search wherever he pleased. Writs were finally issued, but seldom, if ever, used. This was one of the first kicks of the Colonies against British tyranny.

Tampering with the Judiciary. On Dec. 9, 1761, the Colonial governors were forbidden to issue judicial commissions, except at the pleasure of the King. This was considered an attempt to make judges subservient to the will of the King.

Stamp Act. The famous Stamp Act was signed by the King, March 22, 1765. It required all legal documents to be written on stamped paper, to be bought only of the tax collectors—the stamps cost from 3 cents to £6—that every newspaper and pamphlet must bear a stamp costing one-half penny to four pence, and that each advertisement should pay two shillings duty.

Stamp Act Repealed. In 1766, the Stamp Act was repealed, but Parliament claimed the right to exercise unlimited power over the Colonies. In order to quarter troops in American cities the Mutiny Act was applied to America.

A Duty on Glass, Paper, Painter's Colors and Tea, Imported into America was imposed by a bill passed by Parliament and signed by the King, June 29, 1767. This measure greatly excited the Colonists, who had been quieted by the repeal of the Stamp Act.

British Troops were Ordered to Boston, June 8, 1768. The Boston patriots were deeply excited. The Government had dissolved the Legislature and refused to call another.

The Ship of War Romney Seized the Sloop Liberty, owned by John Hancock, on June 10, 1768, for an alleged violation of the revenue law. A great mass meeting was held at Faneuil Hall, and then at the Old South Church, where James Otis and others made eloquent speeches. The agitation was intensified by the impressment of men for sailors and the bringing of soldiers to Boston by the officers of the Romney.

British War Vessels on the American Coast were, in 1770, ordered to rendezvous in Boston harbor. Castle William was ordered strengthened, greatly exciting the people.

Liberty Pole Cut Down by British Soldiers in New York, Jan. 17, 1770. Great indignation meeting of citizens, who affirmed the rights of the people in speeches and resolutions. Another liberty pole was speedily erected in another place.

British Soldiers Murdered a Young Man named Snider, in a quarrel with citizens in Boston, February 22, 1770.

Gray's Rope-walk, Boston, March 2, 1770, was the scene of a fight between a soldier and a workman. The soldier and his fellows were beaten off by citizens.

Boston Massacre, March 5, 1770, a quarrel arose between soldiers and citizens near the Old State House. The guard being called out to quiet the disturbance, fired, killing three and wounding eight. Crispur Attucks, a mulatto, was the first man killed. Captain Preston and several soldiers were imprisoned, tried, and all acquitted but two, who were convicted of manslaughter.

Funeral Obsequies of four victims of Boston massacre held with great parade, March 8, 1770, amid tolling of bells and suspension of business.

Tax on Tea of three per cent. was adhered to, all other taxes on imports to the Colonies being repealed by Parliament, April 12, 1770.

Leaden Statue of George III. set up in Bowling Green, New York, August, 1770. It had been ordered four years before, in honor of the repeal of the Stamp Act. A marble statue of William Pitt was also set up in New York.

Tea, Amounting to 17,000,000 Pounds, was shut up in the East India company's warehouses, because the Americans would not buy. The British government decreed that it might be shipped to America without paying an export duty. They hoped that the low price at which it could now be sold would induce the Colonists to pay the import duty, thus surrendering the principles for which they contended. During the summer of 1773, several cargoes were shipped.

Boston Tea Party. December 16, 1773, after a mass-meeting in Faneuil Hall, about fifty men, disguised as Indians, boarded three tea vessels in the harbor, broke open the hatches and dumped 342 chests of tea into the water. Perfect order was maintained. The actors have never, to a certainty, been known.

A Tea Ship at Philadelphia was ordered to depart by a mass-meeting, held Dec. 26, 1773. The order was obeyed. In New York a sim-Postmaster General Benjamin Franklin was deposed from his office, which he had held since 1753, by the English government, January 30, 1774.

The Quebec Act, which was designed to prevent that Province from joining with the other Colonies, guaranteed to the Roman Catholic church the possession of its ample property, and the free exercise of its religion, approved by the King in 1774.

Boston Port Bill, passed March 7, 1774, ordering the Port of Boston to be closed against all commercial transactions whatever, and the removal of the custom house, courts of justice, and other public offices to Salam.

Charter of Massachusetts Violated by Act of Parliament, March 28, 1774. This bill gave to the crown the appointment of counselors and judges of the Supreme Court. The appointment of all other officers, military, executive and judicial, was bestowed on the Governor, independently of any approval by the council. Jurors could be selected only by sheriffs. Town meetings were prohibited.

Gen. Gage Appointed Governor, vice Hutchinson, removed, landed at Boston, May 17, 1774. Troops were ordered to follow him. He was instructed to arrest and send principal patriots to England.

"The Murder Act" received the King's signature, May 20, 1774. It provided for the trial in England of all persons charged with murders committed in support of the government.

Boston Port Bill went into effect June 1, 1774. The day was observed by a solemn fast.

Independence of the U.S. British Parliament passed a bill, July 1782, enabling the King to acknowledge the independence of the United States.

American Seamen Impressed by a British Squadron off Cuba in 1798. Great and prolonged agitation resulted, which culminated in the war of 1812.

English Hostility to America was Shown in 1793, by preventing the Western Indians concluding a treaty with U. S. Commissioners, by impressing seamen, by refusal to surrender Western ports, and to pay for slaves captured in the revolution.

American Commerce Crippled by England, June 8, 1793, by an order that all vessels loaded with corn for France should be compelled to go to English ports.

England Seized and condemned several American merchantmen and cargoes in 1805, alleging violations of neutrality.

English Insults induced the United States to retaliate, April 18, 1806, by prohibiting the importation of British manufactures after November 15, 1806.

Insolence of the British Minister was such, that in 1810, Congress voted that he be no longer recognized by the President.

British Government finally, in 1811, disavowed the act of the Leopard in firing upon the Chesapeake in 1807.

Right of Search was the subject of correspondence between England and the United States in 1859, British cruisers having searched American merchantmen on suspicion of being slavers. Congress ordered men-of-war to the Gulf, and England disavowed the acts of her officers and abandoned the right of search.

British Authorities at Kingston, Jamaica, seized the American steamer, "Edgar Stuart," as a Cuban privateer, April 15, 1872.

The Canadian Authorities seized the American fishing schooner "Enola C.," May 29, 1872, for violating fishery laws, Canadian Cutter, "Stella Marie," seized the American fishing schooner "James Bliss," June 18, 1872, for violating the fishery laws, and insulted the American flag by turning it upside down under the Dominion flag.

Fishery Damages to the amount of $103,000 were demanded of England by America, August 19, 1879, because of illegal interference at Fortune Bay.

ACTS OF THE COLONIES RESISTING OPPRESSION.

Massachusetts retained control of the funds raised by herself for the war in 1758, to the dissatisfaction of the royalists.

Massachusetts, in May, 1765, sent out a circular proposing a Colonial Congress to meet in New York in October.

Patrick Henry Offered His Five Famous Resolutions on May, 29, 1765, in the Virginia Assembly, upon the announcement by the Speaker of the passage of the Stamp Act. They declared that the American Colonists ought to possess all the characteristics of English freedom, chief among which was the right to levy taxes by no body save that which represented the taxpayers. The movement was sudden and surprising and produced intense excitement. Mr. Henry defended his resolutions with fiery eloquence, and at one point exclaimed: "Cæsar had his Brutus, Charles the First his Cromwell, and George the Third—" "Treason! Treason!" shouted Mr. Speaker Robinson, and the cry was re-echoed from all parts of the House. Mr. Henry, undismayed, took advantage of a hush to add, "May profit by their example. If that be treason, make the most of it!" The resolutions were adopted. The last one was, however, reconsidered and rejected in Mr. Henry's absence the next day. They were, however, published as originally offered, and their effect was potential in uniting the Colonies.

An American Congress of Twenty-Seven Delegates from nine of the thirteen Colonies, met at New York, October 7, 1765. A Declaration of Rights, a Petition to the King, and a Memorial to Parliament was drawn up. Timothy Ruggles, of Massachusetts, the President, and Robert Ogden, of New Jersey, refused to sign the papers. The Massachusetts Assembly reprimanded the former, and the New Jersey Assembly deposed the latter from his position as Speaker.

Non-Importation Agreements were made October 31, 1765, by New York merchants. Philadelphia and Boston merchants followed their example.

The Stamp Act Became a Law Nov. 1, 1765. It was a Guy of intense feeling and general gloom, and all business was suspended. Soon domestic manufacturers began everywhere to manufacture articles which had been imported. The "Daughters of Liberty" organized in Boston for spinning, knitting and weaving. Maple sugar and molasses began to be manufactured in New England. In New York a society agreed to wear no imported clothes, and to encourage home manufactures.

The Governor of New York, in June, 1768, requested the Assembly to vote supplies for troops then on their way to that city, which was refused.

A Massachusetts Convention, at which ninety-six towns were represented, met September 22, 1768, and held a six days' session. It defined provincial rights more clearly. Local self-government was the basis of the patriot cause, and the right of Parliament to make any laws for the Colonies began to be denied. A Union sentiment was growing. The British government was more exasperated, and Lord North said: "Whatever prudence or policy might hereafter induce us to repeal the late Paper and Glass Act, I hope we shall never think of it until we see America prostrate at our feet."

James Otis was chosen moderator of a mass meeting held in Faneuil Hall, September, 1768. It was resolved that "The inhabitants of Boston will, at the utmost peril of their lives and fortunes, maintain and defend their rights, liberties, privileges and immunities."

Seven Hundred British Soldiers, commanded by Colonel Dalrymple, were brought from Castle William, Boston Harbor, and encamped on the common, October 1, 1768. Others were also lodged in the city during the two months following. The town refused to furnish quarters, and the officers were compelled to prepare them at government expense. Efforts to obtain the removal of these troops culminated in the Boston massacre two years later.

Alarch 5, 1770. Boston Massacre. A rope-maker quarreled with a soddier (March 2), and struck him. From this a fight ensued between several soldiers and rope-makers, in which the latter were beaten. A few evenings afterward (March 5), about 700 excited inhabitants assembled in the streets for the purpose of attacking the soldiers. A sentinel was attacked near the Custom House, when Captain Preston, commander of the guard, went to his rescue, with eight armed men. Irritated and assailed by the mob, the soldiers fired upon the citizens, killed three and dangerously wounded five. The mob instantly retreated, when all the bells of the city rang an alarm, and in less than an hourseveral thousand exasperated citizens were on the streets. Gov. Hutchinson assured the people that justice would be done in the morning, and thus prevented further bloodshed. Capt. Preston and six of his men were tried and acquitted by a Boston jury. Two other soldiers were found guilty of manslaughter, and the troops were removed to Castle William.

April 12. All duties except on tea repealed.

1771. Regulators formed in North Carolina to resist British taxation and oppression. In 1768 the people of North Carolina were taxed $75,000 by Gov. Tryon to build him a house at Newbern.

May 16. The Regulators subdued and dispersed by Gov. Tryon, after hanging six of the leaders.

June 9, 1772. Destruction of the British armed schooner Gaspe. This vessel was stationed in Narragansett Bay to assist the Commissioners of Customs to enforce the revenue laws. The commander insisted that American navigators should lower their colors when they passed his vessel, in token of obedience, and, for refusing, a Providence schooner was chased until she grounded on a low sandy point; and on the same night 64 armed men went down from Providence in boats, captured the people on board the Gaspe and burned the vessel.

Dec. 16, 1773. Tea thrown overboard in Boston harbor. It was a cold night and the citizens were just returning from several spirited meetings held at Faneuil Hall, when a party of about sixty persons, some disguised as Indians, boarded two vessels in the harbor, tore open the hatches, and, in the course of two hours, 342 chests of tea were broken open, and their contents cast into the water.

March 7, 1774. Boston port bill passed, ordering the port of Boston to be closed against all commercial transactions whatever, and the removal of the Custom House, Courts of Justice, and other public offices to Salem.

March 28. A bill passed Parliament empowering Sheriffs appointed by the Crown, to select juries instead of leaving the power with the people. It prohibited all town meetings and other gatherings. It provided for the appointment of the councils, judges, justices of the peace, etc., by the Crown or its representatives.

April. Tea thrown overboard in New York harbor.

Sept. 5. First Continental Congress assembled in Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia, in which all the States were represented except Georgia.

April 19, 1775. Battle of Lexington. Major Pitcairn, in command of 800 British troops, was sent by Gen. Gage to destroy some ammunition and stores at Concord, but when he reached Lexington, a few miles from Concord, he was met by eighty determined minute men. Pitcairn road forth and shouted: "Disperse! disperse, you rebels! Down with your arms and disperse!" They refused to obey, and he ordered his men to fire, killing eight citizens and wounding several. The British then pushed on and destroyed the stores at Concord; but they were so harassed and annoyed by the minute men on their way that by the time they returned back to Bunker Hill they had lost in killed and wounded 273 men.

May 10. Capture of Ticonderoga. Cols. Ethan Allen and Benedict Arnold, with a small company of volunteers, surprised this fortress. As Allen rushed into the sally-port, a sentinel snapped his gun at him and fled. Making his way to the commander's quarters, in a voice of thunder ordered him to surrender. "By whose authority?" exclaimed the officer. "In the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress!" shouted Allen. No resistance was attempted. Large stores of cannon and ammunition were captured by the Americans, without the loss of a single man.

May. First Declaration of Independence. The people of North Carolina assembled in convention at Charlotte, and by a series of resolutions absolved their allegiance from the British Crown, organized a local government and made provisions for military defense, virtually declaring themselves free and independent. This declaration of independence was made about thirteen months previous to the general declaration made by the Continental Congress.

- June 15. George Washington appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Continental army, and took personal command at Cambridge, Mass., on the 3d of July.
- June 17. Battle of Bunker Hill. Generals Howe and Pigot, in command of 3,000 British troops, assisted by a heavy fire from ships of war, and a battery on Copp's Hill, attacked the redoubt at the foot of Breed's Hill, where lay 1,500 Americans awaiting their approach. Gen. Prescott ordered his men to aim at the waistband of the British and to pick off their officers, whose fine clothes would distinguish them; and when the British column was within ten rods of the redoubt be shouted FIRE! The British were repulsed and fell back in confusion, but were soon rallied for a second attack, and were again repulsed and scattered in all directions. Howenow was reinforced by Gen. Clinton, the fugitives rallied and they rushed up to the redoubt in the face of a galling fire. For ten minutes the battle raged fearfully, when the ammunition of the Americans became exhausted and the firing ceased. The British then scaled the bank and compelled the Americans to retreat, while they fought fearfully with clubbed muskets. The British took possession of Bunker Hill and fortified it, but withal could claim no great victory. The American loss from killed, wounded, and prisoners was about 450 men; while the loss of the British from the same cause was about 1,100. This was the first real battle of the Revolution and lasted about two hours.
- June 17. The first man killed at the battle of Bunker Hill was named Pollard, from Billerica. He was struck by a cannon ball from the battle ship Somerset.
- Sept. 25. Colonel Ethan Allen, with eighty men, attacked the British garrison at Montreal, under Gen. Prescott. Allen was defeated, and he was made prisoner and sent to England in irons.
- Nov. 13. Montreal surrendered to the Americans under Gen. Montgomery.
- Dec. 31. Americans assault Quebec and are repulsed. Gen. Montgomery was killed, and Colonel Arnold was wounded. The command then devolved upon Capt. Morgan, whose expert riflemen, with Lamb's artillery, forced their way into the lower town; but, after several hours' contest, he was obliged to surrender. The first line of postoffices established; Dr. Franklin appointed postmaster. Bills of credit, known as Continental money, issued by Congress. During this year Continental money depreciated so much that a hundred paper dollars were hardly equivalent to one dollar in silver. About $200,000,000 of Continental currency was now in circulation.
- Jan. 1, 1776. The Union flag was unfurled at Cambridge by Gen. Washington. This flag was composed of thirteen alternate red and white stripes, differing only from the present one by having on the blue corner a horizontal and perpendicular bar. Among the various flags borne by military companies was one from the men of Culpepper County, Va., bearing the significant device of a rattlesnake, and the injunction: Don't tread on me! It is said to the opposer: Don't tread on me; I have dangerous fangs! British burned Norfolk. At that time Norfolk contained a population of 6,000, and the loss by the conflagration was about $1,500,000.
- March. Silas Deane appointed to solicit aid for the Colonies, and succeeded in obtaining 1,500 muskets from France, and promises of men and money.
- March 17. British evacuate Boston, numbering 7,000 soldiers, 4,000 seamen, and 1,500 families of loyalists. Sailed for Halifax that day.
  - June 18. Evacuation of Canada by the Americans.
- June 28. Fort Sullivan, at Charleston Harbor, attacked by land and water, by the British, and, after a contest lasting ten hours, the British were repulsed, with a loss of 225 killed and wounded, while the garrison suffered a loss of only two killed and twenty-two wounded.
- July 4. Congress declared the thirteen United States free and independent. [Following this declaration, the statue of George III., in New York, was taken down, and the lead, of which it was composed, was converted into musket balls.]
- July 8. Declaration of Independence read to the people by John Nixon, from the Observatory State House yard, Philadelphia.

- Aug. 27. Battle of Long Island, in which 5,000 Americans were defeated by 10,000 British, under command of Cornwallis, Gowanus and Clinton. About 500 Americans were killed and wounded, and 1,100 made prisoners. The British loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was 367.
- Aug. 29. Washington, under cover of a heavy fog, silently retreated from Long Island to New York. [During the night a woman living near the present Fulton Ferry, where the Americans embarked, sent her negro servant to inform the British of the movement. The negro fell into the hands of the Hessians. They could not understand a word of his language, and detained him until so late in the morning that his information was of no avail.]
- Sept. 1. Captain Nathan Hale, of Connecticut, was captured and executed as a spy by order of Sir William Howe.
- Sept. 15. New York City evacuated by the Americans, and taker possession of by the British.
- Sept. 21. A fire broke out in a small groggery near the foot of Broad street, N. Y., and about 500 buildings were destroyed. The British charged the fire upon the Americans, but it was proven to be purely accidental.
- Oct. 11-12. Battle on Lake Champlain. Retreat of Washington over the Hudson and across the Jerseys to Pennsylvania.
- Oct. 28. A severe engagement was fought at White Plains, at which the Americans were driven from their position. Losses about equal—not more than 300 in killed, wounded and prisoners.
- Nov. 26. The British, 5,000 strong, capture Fort Washington, located between 181st and 186th streets, N. Y. In this engagement, the British lost more than 1,000 men, while the American loss in killed and wounded did not exceed 100. More than 2,000 Americans were made prisoners of war. [Nothing could exceed the horrors of those made prisoners. The sugar-houses of New York, being large, were used for the prisons, and therein scores suffered and died. But the most terrible scenes occurred on board several old hulks, which were anchored in the waters around New York, and used for prisoners. Of them, the Jersey was the most famous for the sufferings it contained and brutality of its officers. From these vessels, anchored near the present Navy Yard at Brooklyn, almost 11,000 victims were carried ashore, during the war, and buried in shallow graves in the sand. Their remains were gathered in 1808, and put in a vault situated near the termination of Front street, at Hudson avenue, Brooklyn.]
- Dec. 8. The British squadron, defeated at Fort Sullivan, sailed into Narragansett Bay, and took possession of Rhode Island.
- Dec. 12. Congress, alarmed at the approach of the British to Philadelphia, adjourned to meet in Baltimore on the 20th inst.
- Dec. 14. Gen. Lee, while quartered in a small tavern at Baskingridge, New Jersey, remote from his troops, was surrounded and taken prisoner by English cavalry.
  - Dec. 25. Washington crosses the Delaware.
- Dec. 26. Battle of Trenton. Rahl, the Hessian commander, was engaged at card-playing and wine-drinking, when a negro gave him a note from a Tory, warning him of the approach of the Americans. Being deeply interested in the game, and excited by wine, he thrust the note unopened into his pocket. By neglecting to read this note, he was taken completely by surprise, and a little after sunrise, and while rallying his troops in the streets of Trenton, he fell mortally wounded. Between 40 and 50 of the Hessians were killed and mortally wounded, and more than 1,000, with arms, ammunition and stores, were made prisoners.
- Jan. 3, 1777. Battle of Princeton. Washington attacks the reserves of Cornwallis in sight of Princeton, and just as the tide of battle was going in his favor, Cornwallis was aroused by the distant booming of cannon, and hastened to the assistance of his reserves. The Americans, who had not slept, nor scarcely tasted food, for thirty-six hours, were compelled, as the heat of the first battle was over, to contest with fresh troops or fly. Washington chose to fly, and when Cornwallis entered Princeton, not a "rebel" was found.
- Jan. 7. Americans attacked a party of Hessians, near Elizabethport New Jersey, and killed between forty and fifty, and drove the remainder back to Staten Island.

- March 1. British were driven entirely out of the State of New Jersey, except New Brunswick and Amboy.
- March 23. British make a descent to destroy American stores at Peekskill, N. Y., but the Americans perceiving that defense would be futile, set fire to the stores and retired to the hills in the rear, while the British returned to New York the same evening.
- April 26. Danbury, Conn., was burned by order of Governor Tryon, destroying a large quantity of stores belonging to Americans, and cruelly treating the inhabitants.
- May 23. Col. Meigs attacked a British provision post at Sag Harbor, Long Island, and burned a dozen vessels, the store-houses and contents, and secured ninety prisoners without losing a man.
- June. Congress resolved that the flag should carry as many stars and stripes as there were States. This resulted at last in a cumbrous flag with twenty stars and twenty stripes.
  - June 14. Adoption of the American flag by Congress.
  - June 30. British evacuate New Jersey.
- July 5. Burgoyne, with an army 10,000 strong, invaded Fort Ticonderoga. The fort was garrisoned by about 3,000 Americans under Gen. St. Clair. Owing to the immense advantage gained by the British, in planting a cannon on Mount Defiance, a hill 750 feet in height, the Americans were defeated and dispersed with a loss of a little over 300 in killed, wounded and missing; the British loss was reported at 183.
  - July 27. Murder of Miss McCrea.
- July 10. Col. William Barton, with a company of picked men, crossed Narragansett Bay in whale boats, in the midst of the English fleet, and captured Gen. Prescott, while in bed, and carried him to Providence.
  - July 31. Lafayette commissioned by Congress Major-General.
  - Aug. 3. Lafayette introduced to Washington at a public dinner.
- Aug. 16. A party of marauders from Burgoyne's army were defeated at Pennington by the New Hampshire militia under command of Col. Stark. On the same evening, another party from Burgoyne's army were defeated by a Continental force, under Col. Seth Warner. The British lost by these expeditions almost 1,000 men, while the Americans lost but 100 men and as many wounded.
- Sept. 11. Battle of Brandywine. Gen. Howe, in command of 16,000 British troops, manœuvres to take Philadelphia. Washington, with an army of 11,000, determines to defend the city, and takes a position at Chad's Ford, on the Brandywine. A portion of the British army succeed in getting in his rear, and he is compelled to retreat to Chester, and on September 12th to Philadelphia. American loss in killed, wounded, and prisoners, 1,200; British loss, near 800. During the engagement, Lafayette was wounded in the leg. He was conveyed to Bethlehem, Pa., where the Moravian Sisters nursed him during his confinement.
- Sept. 19. A severe but indecisive engagement was fought at Bemis' Heights, between the forces under General Burgoyne and General Gates. The number of Americans engaged in this battle was about 2,500; that of the British about 3,000. American loss in killed, wounded and missing, 319; British loss, about 500. [Bemis' Heights is about four miles north of the valley of Still Water, and 23 miles north of Albany.]
- Sept. 28. General Wayne was surprised by a party of British and Hessians under Gen. Gray, near Paoli Tavern, Chester county, Pa., and lost 300 men of his party. The bodies of 53 Americans, found on the field next morning, were interred in one broad grave, and 40 years afterwards, the Republican Artillerist, of Chester county, erected a neat marble monument over them.
- Sept. 26. The British, under Howe, march to Philadelphia without opposition.
  - Sept. 27. Congress fled from Philadelphia to Lancaster, Pa.
- Sept. 30. Congress assembled in York, Pa., and continued in session there until the following summer.
- Oct. 4. Battle of Germantown. Washington attacked the British at Germantown, and caused the enemy to make a hasty retreat. Lieut. Col. Musgrave, in the retreat, in order to avoid the bayonets of his pursuers, took refuge in a stone house. This together with a heavy fog.

occasioned many mistakes among the Americans; and after a severe action, they were obliged to retreat with the loss of about 1,000 men in killed and wounded; while the British loss was about 800 killed and wounded.

- Oct. 7. Battle of Saratoga. Another battle was fought between Burgoyne and Gates on the same ground occupied September 19th, and, after a severe struggle, Burgoyne was compelled to fall back to the heights of Saratoga, leaving the Americans in possession of the field.
- Oct. 13. Kingston, N. Y., burned. General Clinton, who was to reinforce Burgoyne at Saratoga, sends marauding parties through the country, and burns Kingston. Being informed of Burgoyne's surrender, he retreats to New York.—[While the American forces were re-gathering, a man from the British Army was arrested on suspicion of being a spy. He was seen to swallow something. An emetic brought it up, and it was discovered to be a hollow silver bullet, containing a dispatch from Clinton to Burgoyne written on thin paper. That bullet is yet in the family of George Clinton, who was the first Republican Governor of New York.]
- Oct. 17. Burgoyne surrenders his whole army, numbering 5,791, to Gen. Gates, at Saratoga, N. Y.
- Oct. 22. Fort Mercer, on the Delaware river, was attacked by 2,000 Hessian grenadiers, under Count Donop, and were repulsed by a garrison of 500 men, under Lieut. Col. Green. Hessians' loss, 400. Donop was terribly wounded, and was taken to the house of a Quaker near by, where he died. He was buried beneath the fort. [A few years ago his bones were disinterred, and his skull was taken possession of by a New Jersey physician.]
  - Nov. 9. Howe's army goes into winter quarters at Philadelphia.
- Nov. 16. American garrison abandon Fort Mifflin, and two days after, British ships sail up to Philadelphia.
- Dec. 4. Gen. Howe marched out to attack Washington, expecting to take him by surprise, but a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, who had overheard British officers talking about this enterprise at her house, gave Washington timely information, and he was too well prepared for Howe to fear his menaces. After some skirmishes, in which several Americans were lost, Howe returned to Philadelphia.
- Dec. 11. Washington goes into winter quarters at Valley Forge. This was a gloomy winter for the Patriot army. Continental money was so depreciated in value that an officer's pay would not keep him in clothes. The men were camped in cold, comfortless huts, with little food or clothing. Barefooted, they left on the frozen ground their tracks in blood. Few had blankets, and straw could not be obtained. Soldiers, weak from hunger and benumbed by cold, slept on the bare earth, with no change of clothing and no suitable food; sickness soon followed, and with no medicine to administer to their complaints, many found relief from their sufferings in death.
  - Dec. 16. Independence of the United States acknowledged by France.
- Dec. 18. Constitution of North Carolina adopted. During this year Vermont was claimed by both New York and New Hampshire as a part of their territory, but the people met in convention and proclaimed themselves free, independent, and separate States. After purchasing the claims of New York, for $30,000, Vermont was admitted into the Union, February 18, 1791.
- Feb. 6, 1778. Treaty of alliance was formed with France, by which the French and Americans became united against the British Government.
- March 20. American Commissioners were received at the Court of France as the representatives of a sister nation; an event which was considered in Europe, at that time, as the most important which had occurred in the annals of America since its first discovery by Columbus.
- May 7. Salutes were fired by the army at Valley Forge, in honor of the event of the treaty of alliance with France, and, by order of Washington, shouts and huzzas were proclaimed for the King of France.
- June 18. Howe's army evacuate Philadelphia, and retreat towards New York.
- June 28. The battle of Monmouth was fought on a Sabbath day. It was one of the most sultry ever known when the two armies met in conflict, which raged from 9 A. M. until dark. Many soldiers on both sides fell from the excessive heat of the day, and when night came they were glad to rest. The British were commanded by Gen. Clinton, and the Americans by Washington. The Americans intended to renew the fight on the morning of the 29th, but found the enemy's camp deserted. The British left about 300 killed on the field of battle, and a large number of sick and wounded. American loss in killed, wounded and missing, 228. Many of the missing returned to the army, and the killed was less than seventy.

- July 5. Massacre of Wyoming. About 1,600 Indians and Tories, under command of Butler and Brant, appeared on the banks of the Susquehanna, and compelled two of the forts nearest to the frontier to surrender to them. The savages spared the women and children, but butchered the rest of their prisoners without exception. They then surrounded Fort Kingston, and to dismay the garrison, hurled into the place 200 scalps still reeking with blood. The garrison was overpowered by the savages, and compelled to surrender. The prisoners, composed of men, women and children, were then enclosed in houses and barracks, which were set on fire, and the miserable wretches were soon consumed by the flames. The whole Wyoming valley, consisting of eight towns on the Susquehanna, suffered the same destruction of life and property, and none escaped but a few women and children, and these dispersed and wandered about through the forests without food and without clothes until starved to death.
- July 8. Count D'Estaing, of the French navy, arrives in the Delaware with a large fleet, causing Howe to retreat with his vessels to the waters of Amboy or Raritan bay.
- Aug. 12. Count D'Estaing sailed out of Newport harbor, Rhode Island, to engage the British fleet in command of Howe, but a terrible storm arose and disabled both fleets, and the French squadron returned to Newport and sailed to Boston for repairs. [Very old people of Rhode Island used to speak of this gale as the great storm. So violent was the wind that it brought spray from the ocean a mile distant, and incrusted the windows of the town with salt.]
- Aug. 29. Battle of Quaker Hill, Rhode Island, in which the Americans lost thirty killed and 172 wounded and missing. British loss about 220.
- Sept. 22. Paul Jones' naval battle. The engagement lasted from seven in the morning until ten at night. The contest was fierce and desperate. Paul Jones, in command of the American flotilla, finding the enemy's guns longer than his, brought his ships so close, until the muzzles of his guns came in contact with those of the enemy. The magazine of the British ship Serapis blew up, set fire to the vessel and communicated the flames to Jones' vessel. In the midst of this the American frigate Alliance came up, and mistaking her partner, fired a broadside into the vessel of Jones; but soon discovered her mistake, and turned her guns upon the enemy. The British crew were all killed or wounded, the Serapis on fire (but the flames were afterwards subdued), and the frigate Countess of Scarborough captured by the Americans. Paul Jones came off victorious. His vessel (the Goodman Richard) was so badly crippled that it soon sank; and of the crew of 365, only sixty-eight were left alive. Jones, after this victory, wandered with his unmanageable vessel for some time, and at length, on the 6th of October, found his way into the waters of the Texel.
- Nov. 11. Cherry Valley, New York, attacked by the Indians and Tories. Many of the people were killed and carried into captivity, and for an area of a hundred miles around the village desolation, ruin and destruction prevailed for months.
- Dec. 29. Savannah captured. General Howe, the American officer, defended the city with about 1,000 men, while he was attacked by Col. Campbell, of the British forces, with 2,000 veterans. Through the treachery of a negro, Campbell was informed of a private path to the right of the Americans, through which his troops marched and gained the rear of Howe's army. Howe finding himself attacked in front and rear ordered a retreat, pursued by the enemy. The Americans lost 100 killed, thirty-eight officers and 415 privates made prisoners. The whole loss of the British was seven killed and nineteen wounded.
- Jan. 9, 1779. Fort Sunbury, about twenty-eight miles southward from Savannah, captured by the British.

- Feb. 14. While a band of Tories, under Col. Boyd, were on their march to join the Royal troops, and desolating the Carolina frontier, they were attacked by Col. Pickens, at the head of a body of militia. Boyd and seventy of his men were killed, and seventy-five made prisoners. Pickens lost thirty-eight.
- March 3. General Ashe, in command of near 2,000 Americans at Brier Creek, about forty miles below Augusta, Ga., was surprised by Gen. Prevost and lost almost his entire army by death, captivity and disappearance. About 150 killed and drowned, eighty made prisoners, and a large number who were dispersed did not take up arms again for several months.
- March 11. General Prevost, commanding the British forces, demands the surrender of Charleston, but, receiving a prompt refusal, he spent the remainder of the day in preparing for an assault. That night was a fearful one for the citizens, for they expected to be greeted at dawn with bursting bomb-shells and red-hot cannon balls. But Prevost had been informed of the approach of Lincoln, and at midnight retreated to Savannah.
- March 26. Governor Tryon went with 1,500 British regulars and Hessians to destroy some salt works at Horseneck, N. Y., and attack an American attachment under General Putnam at Greenwich. The Americans were dispersed, but Putnam rallied his troops at Stamford, pursued the British on their return to New York the same evening, capturing a lot of plunder and thirty-eight prisoners.
- May 9. Sir George Collier entered Hampton Roads with a small fleet, bearing General Matthews with land troops, and from thence they carried destruction and desolation on both sides of Elizabeth river, from the Roads to Norfolk and Portsmouth.
- June 20. The British were attacked at Stone Ferry, ten miles southwest from Charleston, by a part of Lincoln's army, but after a severe engagement, and the loss of almost 300 men in killed and wounded, they repulsed the Americans, whose loss was greater.
- July 4. Collier's vessels conveyed Governor Tryon and 2,500 troops to the shores of Connecticut, where they plundered New Haven and laid East Haven, Fairfield and Norwalk in ashes, and cruelly treated the defenseless inhabitants. This destruction was completed from the 4th to the 12th of July.
- July 15. Stony Point, forty miles north of New York, on the Hudson, captured by General Wayne. Wayne attacked the fort in the rear with ball and bayonet at two separate points, in the face of a heavy cannonade from the garrison. Wayne, though wounded in the head, wrote to Washington, "The fort and garrison, with Col. Johnson, are ours." The British loss in killed, wounded and prisoners, about 600; the loss of Americans was fifteen killed and eighty-three wounded.
- July 19. Major Henry Lee surprised the British garrison at Paulus Hook (now Jersey City), opposite New York, and killed thirty soldiers, and took 160 prisoners.
- Oct. 9. A combined assault by the Americans and French was commenced on the British works around Savannah, by General Lincoln and Count D'Estaing, and after five hours of hard fighting, there was a truce for the purpose of burying the dead. Nearly 1,000 of the French and Americans had been killed and wounded. A renewal of the assault was proposed by General Lincoln, but he was compelled to give up the idea when he felt sure of victory, on account of the opposition of the French Commander.
- Oct. 25. British troops evacuate Rhode Island, leaving behind them all their heavy artillery and a large quantity of stores.
- 1780. Murder of Mrs. Caldwell. While the British were plundering through the State of New Jersey, in the vicinity of Elizabethtown, they came upon the residence of Rev. Mr. Caldwell. Mrs. Caldwell was sitting on the bed with her little child by the hand, and her nurse, with her infant babe by her side, when she was instantly shot dead by an unfeeling British soldier, who had come around to an unguarded part of the house, with an evident design to perpetrate the deed. Her murderer was never punished.
- April 14. General Tarleton, commanding the British, defeated Col. Huger on the head-waters of the Cooper river, near Charleston, S. C., and killed twenty-five Americans.

- May 6. A party under Col. White, of New Jersey, were routed at a ferry on the Santee, with a loss of about thirty in killed, wounded, and prisoners.
- May 12. Surrender of Charleston. After three days of heavy cannonade from two hundred guns, and all night long the bursting of destructive bombshells, and at one time a fire in five different places, the city of Charleston was surrendered to the British, under Gen. Clinton. Gen. Lincoln and his troops, with a number of citizens, were made prisoners of war. Altogether the captives amounted to between 5,000 and 6,000, and 400 pieces of cannon. [Among the American detachments which hastened towards Charleston to assist Lincoln, and retreated when they heard of his fall, was that of Col. Buford, commanding 400 infantry and a small troop of cavalry, with two field pieces. He retreated, and when near the Waxhow Creek, some 60 miles further north, he was overtaken and surprised by Tarleton. They gave no quarters, but massacred or maimed the larger portion of Buford's command. His loss in killed, wounded, and prisoners was 313. He also lost his artillery, ammunition, and baggage.]
- May 19. Dark days. Darkness commenced between the hours of 10 and 11 A. M., and continued until the middle of the next night. Its extent was from Falmouth, Maine, to New Jersey. The darkness was so great in some part of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Rhode Island and Connecticut, that persons were unable to see to read, or manage their domestic business, without lighting candles, and everything bore the appearance and gloom of night.
- June 7. British take possession of Elizabethtown and burn Connecticut farms.
- June 12. Clinton, commanding British forces, endeavors to draw Washington into a general battle or to capture his stores at Morristown, but fails in both.
- June 23. In a skirmish at Springfield, N. J., the British were defeated by the Americans under Gen. Greene. After setting fire to the village, the enemy retreated, and passed over to Staten Island.
- July 10. A powerful French fleet, under Admiral Ternay, arrives at Newport, Rhode Island, bearing 6,000 troops, under the Count de Rochambeau. This had a tendency to restrain Clinton from any further advances towards enticing Washington to fight.
- Aug. 6. Battle of Camden. After a desperate struggle with an overwhelming force, the Americans, under command of Gen. Gates, were defeated and routed with a loss of killed, wounded and prisoners, of about 1,000 men, besides all of their artillery and ammunition and a portion of their baggage and stores. The British loss was 325. Among the American officers killed was Baron de Kalb, whose remains yet lie under a monument at Camden.
  - Sept. 4. Benedict Arnold's treason discovered.
- Sept. 28. Major Andre was captured by three militiamen named John Paulding, David Williams, and Isaac Van Wart.
- Oct. 2. Major John Andre, an adjutant general in the British army, was hanged as a spy at Tappan, on the Hudson river, New York.
- Oct. 7. Battle of King's Mountain, South Carolina. This was a severe engagement, in which the British were defeated with a loss of 300 men in killed and wounded, and the death of Major Patrick Ferguson, their commander. The spoils of victory, which cost the Americans only twenty men, were 800 prisoners and 1,500 stand of arms.
- Nov. 20. Gen. Sumter engages the British general Tarleton at Blackstock's plantation on the Tyger river, in a Union district. The British were repulsed with a loss in killed and wounded of about 300. The American loss was only three killed and five wounded. Sumter was among the latter, and he was detained from the field for several months, by his wounds.
- 1781. Murder of Mr. Caldwell (husband of Mrs. Caldwell, killed in 1780). Mr. Caldwell was escorting a lady from New York, up town, in Elizabethtown. She was carrying a small bundle tied up in her handkerchief, when a British sentinel said the bundle must be seized for the State. Mr. Caldwell immediately left the lady, saying he would deliver the bundle to the commanding officer, who was present; and as he stepped forward to do so, another soldier told him to stop, which he immediately did.

The soldier without further provocation shot him dead on the spot. The villain who murdered him was seized and executed.

- Jan. 1. Mutiny of Pennsylvania Line. The pay of officers and men of the Continental army had been so long in arrears, and money asked for in vain, that finally 1,300 troops of the Pennsylvania Line left the camp at Morristown, with the avowed determination of marching to Philadelphia, and in person, demand justice of the National Legislature. When the mutineers reached Princeton they were met by British emissaries from New York, who came to seduce them by bribes to enter the King's service. Indignant at the implied suspicion of their patriotism, the insurgents seized the spies and delivered them to Gen. Wayne for punishment. When Gen. Wayne, who was sent by Washington to bring the insurgents back, first placed himself before the insurgents with loaded pistols, they put their bayonets to his breast, and said: "We love and respect you, but if you fire you are a dead man. We are not going to the enemy; on the contrary, if they were now to come out, you should see us fight under your orders with as much alacrity as ever." They were met also by a deputation from Congress, who relieved their wants, and gave them such satisfactory guarantees for the future, that they returned to their duties.
- Jan. The bank of North America, the first ever established in the United States, about this time came into existence in Philadelphia. It was under the charge of Robert Morris, to whose superintendence Congress had intrusted the public Treasury.
- Jan. 5. Benedict Arnold, traitor, now in the employ of the British, penetrates up the James river and destroys a large quantity of public and private stores at Richmond. [Great efforts were made to seize Arnold. Sergeant Champs, one of Major Lee's dragoons, went in disguise to New York, enlisted in a corps over which Arnold had command, and had almost consummated a plan for abducting him to the Jersey shore, when the traitor was ordered to the Southern expedition. Instead of carrying Arnold off, Champs himself was taken to Virginia with the corps in which he had enlisted. There he escaped and joined Lee in the Carolinas.]
- Jan. 17. Defeat of the British at Cowpens, S. C., by Gen. Morgan. The enemy lost near 300 men in killed and wounded, 500 were made prisoners, and a large quantity of arms, ammunition and stores were captured.
- Jan. 18. A mutiny occurred among a portion of the Jersey line, at Pompton. Washington sent General Robert Howe with 500 men to suppress it, and, after hanging two of the ringleaders, the remainder quietly submitted.
- March 15. Battle of Guilford, N. C. The Americans were repulsed, and the British were left masters of the field, though the victory so completely shattered Cornwallis' army that it was almost as destructive to him as a defeat. American loss, in killed and wounded, about 400, besides almost 1,000 who deserted to their homes. The loss of the British was over 600, including Lieut.-Col. Webster, one of the most efficient officers in the British army.
- April 25. Battle near Camden, S. C. While Gen. Greene was breakfasting at a spring on the eastern slope of Hobkirk's Hill, S. C., and while some of his men were cleaning their guns, and others washing their clothes, they were surprised and defeated by the British, under Rawdon. American loss in killed, wounded and missing, 266 men. The British lost 258. Greene conducted his retreat so well, that he carried away all his artillery and baggage, with fifty British prisoners.
- May 10. Gen. Rawdon, alarmed at the prospective increase in Greene's army, set fire to Camden, and retreats to Nelson's Ferry, on the Santee.
- June 4. Gen. Tarlteon, in command of a British marauding party, captured seven members of the Virginia Legislature. Governor Jefferson narrowly escaped capture by fleeing from his house to the mountains.
- June 5. Surrender of Augusta, Ga., to the Americans, under Gen. Lee, after a siege of eleven days. American loss fifty-one in killed and wounded. British loss fifty-two killed and 334 (including wounded) were made prisoners.
- Sept. 6. Arnold lands at the mouth of the Thames, attacks Fort Trumbull, and burns New London (his native town), Connecticut.

Another division of this expedition went up on the east side of the Thames attacked Fort Griswold, at Groton, and after Col. Ledyard had surrendered it, he, and almost every man in the fort were cruelly murdered or badly wounded.

- Sept. 8. Battle of Eutaw Springs, S. C. This was a severe battle which resulted in the British being driven from their camp by Gen. Greene. But while the Americans were scattared among the tents of the enemy, indulging in drinking and plundering, the British unexpectedly renewed the battle, and, after a bloody conflict of about four hours, the Americans were obliged to give way. That night the British retreated to Charleston, and the next day Greene took possession of the battle-field. American loss in killed, wounded and missing, 555. British loss, 693.
- Oct. 19. Surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. For ten days, the Americans kept up a heavy cannonade upon the Bristish works at Yorktown, hurled red-hot balls among the English shipping, and burned several vessels. Cornwallis despairing of receiving any aid, and perceiving his fortifications crumbling one by one under the terrible storm of iron from a heavy hundred cannon, attempted to escape by crossing to Gloucester, breaking through the French troops stationed there, and, by forced marches, reach New York. When the van of his troops embarked on York River, a storm arose as fearful and as sudden as a summer tornado, disbursed the boats, compelled many to put back, and the attempt was abandoned. Cornwallis surrendered 7,000 British soldiers to Washington, and his shipping and seamen into the hands of DeGrasse.
- Oct. 24. Congress, and the loyal people throughout the United States, join in rendering thanks to God for the great victory at Yorktown-the surrender of Cornwallis.
- British flee from Wilmington, N. C., at the approach of Gen. St. Clair.

Clinton and his army blockaded in New York by Washington.

- British House of Commons resolve to end the war.
- April 8. The United States vessel, Hyder Ally, carrying only sixteen guns, captured by the British ship, General Monk, with twenty-nine
  - May 3. George Washington indignantly refused to be made king.
  - May. Arrival of Sir Guy Carleton to treat for peace.
- British evacuate Savannah in accordance with a resolve of the British House of Commons to end the war and cease hostilities. First war ship constructed in the United States at Portsmouth, N. H.

- Oct. 8. Independence of the United States acknowledged by Holland.
- Nov. 30. A provisional treaty acknowledging the independence of the United States, signed by England, at Paris.

William IV., son of George III., came to the United States as a midshipman, in a fleet sent over to conquer us as a rebellious Colony. An attempt was made to capture him while his vessel was lying off New York, but the scheme failed.

- Dec. 14. British evacuate Charleston, S. C.
- Jan. 19, 1783. Society of Cincinnatus formed by many of the officers of the Continental army at Newburg, N. Y., for the purpose of promoting cordial friendship, and refreshing the memory, by frequent reunions, of the great struggles they had passed through. Slavery abolished in Massachusetts.
  - Jan. 20. French and English Commissioners sign a treaty of peace.
- Sept. 3. A definite treaty of peace signed at Paris, and England acknowledged the independence of the United States; allowed ample boundaries extending northward to the great lakes, and westward to the Mississippi.
- Continental army disbanded and returned to their homes. Of the 230,000 Continental soldiers, and the 56,000 militia, who bore arms during the war, scarcely any survive at the present day. Great Britain sent to America during the war 112,584 troops for the land service, and more than 22,000 seamen. Of this host, not one is known to be living. One of them (John Battin) died in the city of New York, June, 1852, at the age of 100 years and four months.

Nov. 25. British evacuate New York, and on the same day, General Knox entered the city with a small remnant of the Continental army, and took possession of the city. Before evening, the last British soldier passed from the shores of America.

Dec. 23. Washington, in the city of Annapolis, Maryland, resigns his commission in the army. During the war, the English employed to aid them in the subjection of the country over 11,000 Indians, whose mode of warfare was to take scalps, not prisoners, and to massacre women and children. As an evidence of this fact, Captain Gerrish, of the New England militia, captured on the frontier of Canada eight packages of scalps, properly cured and dried, which were to be sent to England as a present from the Seneca Indians to George III. The packages contained forty-three scalps of soldiers, 297 of farmers, eighty-eight of women, 190 of boys, 211 of girls, twenty-two of infants, and 122 assorted, making a total of 973 scalps.

THE WAR OF 1812.

1812. England insists upon continuing the right to search American vessels for suspected deserters from the British navy. American seamen were thus forced into the British service under the pretense that they were deserters. The British in persisting in this outrage upon American seamen brought on the war of 1812.

Treason of Burr. During the summer of this year, Aaron Burr organized military expeditions in the west, and the secrecy with which he carried on his operations, led the Government to suspect that he designed to dismember the Union, and establish an independent empire west of the Alleghenies, with himself at the head.

Feb., 1807. Aaron Burr, arrested on the Tombigbee river, in the State of Alabama, on the charge of treason. He was tried at Richmond, Va., but the testimony showed that his probable design was an invasion of Mexican provinces, and then to establish an independent government. He was acquitted.

June 22. The Chesapeake fired upon by the British frigate Leopard. The British demanded four seamen from the commander of the Chesapeake, claiming them as deserters from the British ship Melampus. Commodore Barron, not suspecting danger, and unprepared for an attack, surrendered the Chesapeake after losing three men killed and eighteen wounded.

July. Proclamation issued ordering all British armed vessels to leave the waters of the United States, and forbidding any to enter until full satisfaction is given for the outrage on the United States frigate Chesapeake, and security against future aggressions should be made.

Nov. 22. British in council issue an order prohibiting neutral nations trading with France, excepting upon paying a tribute to Great Britain; and France retaliates by issuing a decree, December 17, forbidding all trade with England, or her Colonies, and authorizing the confiscation of any vessel found in French ports which had submitted to English search, or paid the exacted tribute. These retaliating war measures between England and France almost destroyed American shipping trade abroad.

Dec. 22. Congress decreed an embargo, which detained all vessels, American and foreign, in our ports, and ordered American vessels home immediately, that the seamen might be trained for war.

The first steamboat built in the world was by Robert Fulton, in New York. It was named "Clermont," and made its first trip during this year from New York to Albany.

Jan. 1, 1808. The importation of African slaves into the United States, prohibited by Congress.

Commodore Barron, of the Chesapeake, tried and sentenced to be suspended for five years, on account of surrendering his vessel to the British in 1807.

March 1, 1809. Congress repeals the embargo on shipping, and at the same time passes a law forbidding all commercial intercourse with England and France until their obnoxious restrictions on commerce shall be removed.

March 4. James Madison inaugurated President of the United States, and George Clinton as Vice-President.

General Harrison concludes a treaty with the Miami Indians, by which the United States gets possession of a large tract of land on both sides of the Wabash, 1810. Third census of the United States. Population, 7,239,814.

March 23. France issued a decree which declared every American vessel which had entered French ports since March, 1810, or that might thereafter enter, as forfeited, and authorized the sale of the same, together with the cargoes, and money to be placed in the French treasury. Bonaparte justified this decree on the plea that it was made in retaliation for the American decree of non-intercourse.

May. Congress offers to resume commercial relations with either France or England, or both, on condition that they repeal their obnoxious orders and decrees before March 3, 1811. France feigned compliance, and the United States resumed commercial intercourse with that nation. But American vessels continued to be seized by French cruisers, and in March, 1811, Napoleon declared the obnoxious laws to still exist, and America thereafter ceased intercourse with that nation.

April 16, 1811. Engagement between the American frigate, President, Commodore Rogers commanding, and the British sloop-of-war, Little Belt, Captain Bingham. The Little Belt was preying upon American merchantmen when hailed by Rogers, of the President, and received a cannon shot in reply. A brief action ensued, when Captain Bingham, after losing eleven men killed and twenty-one wounded, gave a satisfactory answer to Rogers. At this time, the American navy numbered only twelve large vessels of war; the British near nine hundred.

May 19. A fire broke out near the corner of Chatham and Duane streets, New York city, and destroyed nearly one hundred buildings on both sides of Chatham street.

Nov. 11. Battle of Tippecanoe. At four o'clock in the morning, the Indians attacked the American camp, commanded by Gen. Harrison, but after a bloody battle, lasting until dawn, the Indians were repulsed. The battle of Tippecanoe was one of the most desperate ever fought with the Indians, and the loss was heavy on both sides. The British government declare the attack on the Chesapeake to have been unauthorized, and promised pecuniary aid to the families of those who were killed.

Dec. 27. Burning of the Theatre at Richmond, Va. There were about 600 persons in the audience when the fire was first discovered. There was but one door for egress, and men, women and children were pressing upon each other to get out, while the flames were surging upon those behind. It is supposed there were sixty-one persons burned to death. During this year, British orders for searching American vessels and impressing American seamen were rigorously enforced; insult after insult was offered the American flag, and the British press insolently boasted that the United States "could not be kicked into a war." A continuation of these outrages brought on the war of 1812.

War of 1812. Congress passed an act empowering the President to enlist 25,000 men, accept 50,000 volunteers, and to call out 100,000 militia. Henry Dearborn appointed commander-in-chief. British government declared the whole American coast to be in a state of blockade, except that of the New England States. The apparent sympathy of these States with Great Britain caused the enemies of our country to think that they would secede from the Union; but, as the war progressed, it proved that their patriotism was too strong to admit of such a catastrophe.

June. Mob in Baltimore. A newspaper, called the Federal Republican, was destroyed by a mob for uttering sentiments of censure on the conduct of the Government. Shortly after this affair, the paper made its appearance again, containing severe allusions to the mayor, police, and people of Baltimore for the depredations that had been committed upon the establishment. The office was again mobbed, and during the frequent discharge of muskets, Dr. Gale was killed, when the party in the office were finally escorted by the military to the county jail for protection against further violence. Shortly after dark, the mob assembled at the jail, carried the mayor away by force, and compelled the turnkey to open the door. General Lingan was killed; eleven were beaten and mangled with such weapons as stones, bludgeons, sledge-hammers, etc., and thrown as dead into one pile. Mr. Hansen, editor of the paper, fainting from repeated wounds, was carried away by a gentleman of opposite political sentiments, at the risk of his life. No effectual inquiry was ever made into this violation of the law, and the guilty escaped punishment.

- June 4. War with England. A bill declaring war to exist between the United States and Great Britain, passed the House of Representatives, by a vote of seventy-nine to forty-nine. On the 17th, it passed the Senate by a vote of nineteen to thirteen, and on that day it received the signature of the President. He issued his war manifesto two days afterward.
- July 12. Gen. Hull crosses the Detroit river to attack Fort Malden. He encamped at Sandwich, and by this fatal delay, lost every advantage which an immediate attack might have secured.
- July 17. Fort Mackinaw, one of the strongest posts of the United States, was surprised and captured by an allied force of British and Indians.
- Aug. 5. Maj. Van Horne, while escorting a supply party to camp, was defeated by some British and Indians, near Brownstown, on the Huron river.
  - Aug. 7. Gen. Hull retires from Canada and takes his post at Detroit.
- Aug. 13. The Essex, Captain Porter, captures the Alert, the first vessel taken from the British during that war.
- Aug. 16. Hull surrenders Detroit to the British. The English were commanded by Brock, consisting of 700 troops and 600 Indians.
- Aug. 19. U. S. frigate, Constitution, Commodore Isaac Hull, captures the British frigate, Guerriere. The contest lasted about forty minutes when the commander of the Guerriere surrendered his vessel, which was so completely wrecked that she was burned. The Constitution suffered little damage and was ready for action the following day.
- , Sept. 10. Perry's victory on Lake Erie.
- Oct. 13. Queenstown Heights on the Canada frontier, captured by 225 Americans under command of Col. Van Rensselaer. Van Rensselaer was wounded at the landing, and Capt. Wood took command and successfully assaulted and took possession of the Heights.
- Oct. 13. Gen. Brock, with 600 British troops, from Fort George, attempted to regain the battery at Queenstown Heights, but was repulsed and Brock was killed. In the meantime Gen. Stephen Van Rensselaer was using his utmost endeavors to send reinforcements, but only 1,000 undisciplined troops could be induced to cross the river. These were attacked by fresh troops from Fort George and nearly all killed or made prisoners, while at least 1,500 of their companions in arms cowardly refused to cross to their aid.
- Oct. 18. U. S. sloop-of-war, Wasp, Capt. Jones, captures the British brig Frolic, after a very severe conflict for three-quarters of an hour. Only three officers and one seaman, of eighty-four of the crew of the Frolic remained unhurt. The Wasp lost only ten men. The same afternoon the British ship Poictiers, carrying seventy-four guns, captured the Wasp.
- Oct. 25. The frigate United States, Commodore Decatur, captures the British frigate Macedonia. The fight lasted near two hours. The British lost more than 100 in killed and wounded, and Decatur lost only five killed and seven wounded. The frigate United States was very little injured. During this year, it is estimated that upwards of fifty British armed vessels and 250 merchantmen, with an aggregate of more than 3,000 prisoners, and a vast amount of booty, were captured by the Americans.
- Dec. 29. Commodore Bainbridge, commanded the frigate Constitution, after three hours fighting, captured the British frigate Java, off San Salvador. The Java had 400 men on board, of whom almost 200 were killed or wounded, and she was so badly crippled that Bainbridge, finding her incapable of floating, burned her three days after the action. The Constitution was very little damaged.
- Jan. 17, 1813. The British frigate Narcissus captured the United States schooner Viper.
- Jan. 22. Americans defeated at Frenchtown, about twenty-five miles south of Detroit. A combined force, under Proctor, of 1,500 British and Indians, fell upon the American camp, commanded by Gen. Winchester, at dawn. After a severe battle and heavy loss on both sides, Winchester, who was made prisoner by the Indians, surrendered his troops on condition that ample protection should be given. Proctor, fearing the approach of Harrison, immediately marched for Malden, leaving the sick and

- Feb. 22. Ogdensburg, N. Y., taken by the British.
- Feb. 24. United States sloop-of-war, Hornet, Capt. Lawrence, engages the British brig, Peacock, off the mouth of Demara river, South America. The Peacock surrendered after a conflict of fifteen minutes, and a few moments afterward she sunk, carrying down with her nine British seamen and three Americans. The loss of the Peacock in killed and wounded was thirty-seven; of the Hornet only five.
  - April 25. Mobile taken by a body of the American army.
- April 27. Americans capture York (now Toronto). The Americans landed about two miles west of the British works, and in the face of a galling fire from regulars and Indians, under Gen. Sheaffe, drove them back to their fortifications. The British retreated from the fort, but laid a train of wet powder to the magazine, and set fire to it, and while Gen. Pike was pressing forward, the fort blew up, causing great destruction of life among the Americans. Gen. Pike was mortally wounded, but he lived long enough to know that the American flag floated in triumph over the fort at Toronto. Gen. Sheaffe escaped with the principal part of the troops, but lost all his baggage, books, papers, and a large amount of public property.
- May 2. British repulsed at Fort Sandusky, Ohio. The garrison of the fort consisted of 150 young men, commanded by Major Croghan, was assaulted by 500 regulars and 800 Indians, under Gen. Proctor. The British recoiled, panic-stricken, and fled in confusion, leaving 150 of their killed and wounded. American loss, one man killed and seven wounded.
- May 3. Havre de Grace, Md., burned by the British blockading squadron.
- May. Unsuccessful siege of Fort Meigs, on the Maumee river, by the British. Gen. Clay, commanding 1,200 men, arrived with reinforcements for the fort and dispersed the enemy, but imprudently pursuing the fugitives, was surrounded and captured. Proctor returned to the siege, but his Indian allies under Tecumseh, becoming impatient, deserted him, and the siege was abandoned.
- May 27. Fort George, on the western shore of Niagara river, near its mouth, surrendered to the Americans.
- May 29. British repulsed at Sackett's Harbor. Sir George Prevost and 1,000 soldiers landed in the face of a severe fire from some regulars stationed there. Gen. Brown, commander, rallied the militia, and their rapid gathering so alarmed Prevost, that he hastily re-embarked, leaving almost the whole of his wounded behind.
- June 1. "Don't give up the ship!" Capt. Lawrence, now in command of the frigate Chesapeake, encountered the British frigate Shannon, about thirty miles from Boston. A furious action commenced, which lasted only fifteen minutes. In that short time the Chesapeake lost forty-eight killed and ninety-eight wounded; the Shannon twenty-three killed and fifty-six wounded. Lawrence, with his second officer in command, Ludlow, were among the slain at the beginning of the action; and, when Lawrence was carried below, he issued those brave and ever memorable words: "Don't give up the ship." During the contest the two vessels became entangled, and the British boarded the Chesapeake, and, after a desperate hand-to-hand struggle, hoisted the British flag. The remains of Lawrence, together with Ludlow's, were carried to Halifax and buried with the honors of war.
- June 6. British attack American camp at Stony Creek, Canada West, and were repulsed. It was very dark, and in the confusion both of the American generals (Chandler and Winder) were made prisoners. American loss in killed, wounded and missing, 154.
  - June 23. Admiral Cockburn defeated at Craney Island.
- June. Gen. Dearborn, on account of ill-health, retires from commander-in-chief of the army, and is succeeded by General Wilkinson.
- Aug. 14. British sloop-of-war Pelican captures the American brig. Argus.
- Aug. 30. Fort Mimms, on the Alabama river, surprised and captured by a large body of Indians, under Tecumseh, who massacred about 300 men, women, and children.

- Sept. 5. British brig Boxer, Captain Blythe, encounters American brig Enterprise, Lieut. Burrows, and after an engagement of forty minutes, off the coast of Maine, the Boxer surrendered. Both commanders were slain, and their bodies were buried in one grave at Portland.
- Sept. 10. Perry's victory on Lake Erie. The carnage of this engagement was very great. The Lawrence, Perry's flag ship, was soon disabled and became unmanageable, having all her crew, except four or five, killed or wounded. Perry then left her, in an open boat, and hoisted his flag on the Niagara. With this vessel he passed through the enemy's line, pouring broadsides right and left at half pistol-shot distance. The American loss, twenty-seven killed and ninety-six wounded. The British lost about 200 in killed and wounded, and 600 prisoners. The British were commanded by Commodore Barclay.
- Sept. 29. Detroit evacuated by Proctor, and taken possession of by the Americans.
- Oct. 5. Battle of the Thames in Canada. Gen. Harrison, with 3,500 men, overtook Proctor in his retreat from Detroit, about eighty miles from that city. A desperate battle ensued. Tecumseh was slain, and his followers, who fought furiously, broke and fled. Almost the whole of Proctor's command were killed or made prisoners, and the General himself narrowly escaped with a few of his cavalry.
- Nov. 3. Gen. Coffee, with 900 men, surrounds an Indian camp near where the village of Jacksonville, Benton county, Alabama, now stands, and killed 200 of them. Not a warrior escaped.
- Nov. 5. Americans again invade Canada, 7,000 strong, with the intention of co-operating with about 4,000 troops under Hampton, in an attack on Montreal.
- Nov. 11. Battle of Chrysler's Field, about ninety miles above Montreal, on the St. Lawrence river. This battle was fought by a detachment under General Brown, who was sent to disperse the British at Williamsburg, and cover the descent of boats carrying American troops on the St. Lawrence. Americans lost more than 300 in killed and wounded, and the British about 200.
- Dec. 10. General McClure, commanding at Fort George, burnt the Canadian village of Newark, and two days after was compelled by the British to abandon the fort.
- Dec. 19. Fort Niagara captured by a strong force of British and Indians, and, in retaliation for the burning of Newark, set fire and destroyed Youngstown, Lewiston, Manchester (now Niagara Falls), and the Tuscarora Indian village, in Niagara county.
- Dec. 30. Buffalo and the little village of Black Rock laid in ashes, and a large amount of public and private property destroyed.

The remains of Captain James Lawrence, who died from wounds received on board of the United States frigate, Chesapeake, in 1813, were removed from Halifax and interred in Trinity church yard, N. Y., with imposing ceremony.

Power loom introduced in the United States.

During the spring and summer Admiral Cockburn, with a small squadron, carried on a distressing warfare on the coast between Delaware Bay and Charleston. The shipping in the Delaware was destroyed, and Lewiston cannonaded; Frenchtown, Havre de Grace, Georgetown, and Fredericktown, on the Chesapeake, were plundered and burned.

March 27, 1814. General Jackson attacked and defeated the Indians at the Great Horse Shoe Bend, on the Tallapoosa river. The Indians had assembled there, in a fortified camp, 1,000 warriors strong, with their women and children, determined to make a desperate defense. They fought bravely, and almost 600 of their warriors were killed, as they refused to surrender. Only two or three were made prisoners, with about 300 women and children. Among those who bowed in submission was Weathersford, their greatest leader. He appeared suddenly before Jackson, in his tent, and standing erect said: "I am in your power; do with me what you please. I have done the white people all the harm I could. I have fought them bravely. My warriors are all gone now, and I can do no more. When there was a chance for success I never asked for peace. There is none now, and I ask for it for the remnant of my nation."

- March 28. United States frigate Essex, Captain Potter, was captured in the harbor of Valparaiso, by the British frigate Phœbe, and sloop of war Cherub. It was a desperate battle, the Essex loosing 154 men killed and wounded. Captain Porter, in acknowledging the defeat to the Secretary of the Navy, says: "We have been unfortunate, but not disgraced."
- April 21. The United States sloop of war Frolic was captured by the British frigate Orpheus and schooner Shelbourne.
- April 29. The Peacock captured the British brig Epervier, off the coast of Florida.
- May 5. Battle of Oswego. A British squadron, carrying 3,000 men, attacked Oswego, by land and water. The town was defended by about 300 men, under Captain Mitchell, and a small flotilla, under Captain Woolsey. They defended the place for two days, when they were compelled to yield to superior force. The British loss was 235 men in killed and wounded; the Americans lost 69. The object of the British in this expedition was to destroy or capture a large quantity of stores at Oswego Falls, but the determined resistance they met with caused them to abandon the project.
- July 3. Generals Scott and Ripley cross the Niagara river into Canada, and capture Fort Erie.
- July 5. Battle of Chippewa. General Brown met the British in the open fields at Chippewa, and repulsed the enemy with a loss of about 500 men; American loss, about 300. The British retreated to Burlington Heights, where they were reinforced by troops under Lieut-Gen. Drummond, who assumed command.
- July 25. Battle of Niagara Falls. The British force, under Drummond, was about one-third greater than Brown's. The battle commenced at sunset, and ended at midnight, when the Americans had lost 858 men in killed and wounded, and the British 878. The Americans were left in possession of the field, but were unable to carry away any of the spoils which they had captured. Generals Scott and Brown were wounded. The Americans retired to Fort Erie, where General Gaines took chief command.
  - Aug. 9-14. Com. Hardy makes an unsuccessful attack on Stonington.
- Aug. 15. Gen. Drummond, in command of 5,000 British, made an assault on Fort Erie, but was repulsed with a loss of almost 1,000 men.
- Aug. 24. Battle of Bladensburg. Capture of Washington, burning of the White House, and other public and private buildings. Ross, the British commander, first attacked Gen. Winder and Com. Barney at Bladensburg, in command of 3,000 undisciplined militia, seamen and marines. The militia fled, and the marines and seamen were made prisoners. Ross was in command of 5,000 men. He then pushed on to Washington, completed his destruction there, and retreated to his shipping on the 29th of August. In these exploits the British loss in killed, wounded and by desertion, was almost 1,000 men; that of the Americans, about 100 killed and wounded, and 20 prisoners. The President and his Cabinet were at Bladensburg when the British approached, but returned to the city when the conflict began, and narrowly escaped capture.
- Sept. 11. Battle of Plattsburgh. The British, 14,000 strong, in command of Prevost, marched to Plattsburgh, where, in conjunction with the navy, a battle ensued. The Americans, 1,500 strong, commanded by General Macomb, and a large body of militia, under Gen. Moores, retired to the south side of the Saranac. The land forces fought until dark, and every attempt of the British to cross the Saranac was bravely resisted. In the evening, Prevost retreated, leaving his sick and wounded, and a large quantity of military stores, behind him. The British loss, from the 6th to the 11th of September, in killed, wounded, and deserted, was about 2,500; that of the Americans, 121.
- Sept. 11. McDonough's victory on Lake Champlain. After an engagement of two hours and forty minutes, the British fleet, under Com. Downie, surrendered. The Americans lost in killed and wounded 116; the British 194, among whom was Commodore Downie, whose remains lie under a monument at Plattsburgh.
- Sept. 12. The British make an unsuccessful attack on Baltimore, where Gen. Smith was in command. Ross, with 8,000 British troops, was pressing forward, when he was met by Gen. Stricker; a slight skirmish ensues, in which Gen. Ross is killed. He is succeeded in command by Col. Brooke. A battle now commenced, which lasted an hour and a quarter, when the Americans fell back towards the city. Both parties slept on their arms that night. On the following morning the British advanced as if to attack the city. In the meantime a bombardment had been kept upon the fort, whose garrison, under command of Major Armisted, made a gallant defense. No less than 1,500 shells were thrown. On the morning of the 14th the British re-embarked, and silently withdrew from the city. It is estimated that the enemy lost between 600 and 700 in these engagements.

- Sept. 13. Key composes "The Star Spangled Banner."
- Sept. 15. British attack Fort Bower (now Fort Morgan) at the entrance to Mobile Bay. They are repulsed by Major Lawrence, with the loss of one ship and many men.
- Sept. 17. A successful sortie was made from Fort Erie, and the advanced works of the besiegers destroyed and the enemy driven toward Chippewa. Gen. Drummond then retired to Fort George, on the northwestern shore of the Niagara river, near its mouth.
  - Oct. 29. First steam war vessel was launched, and named the Fulton.
- Nov. 5. Americans abandon and destroy Fort Erie, cross the river and go into winter quarters at Buffalo, Black Rock, and Batavia.
- Nov. 7. Gen. Jackson, with 2,000 Tennessee militia and some Choctaw warriors, stormed Pensacola, Fla., drove the British to their shipping, and finally from the harbor, and made the governor beg for mercy and surrender the town and all its military works unconditionally. Jackson then returned to Mobile.
- Dec. 2. Gen. Jackson arrives at New Orleans and declares martial law.
- Dec. 14. British capture a flotilla of American gun-boats in Lake Borgne. The attack was made by the enemy in about forty barges, conveying 1,200 men. American loss in killed and wounded about forty; the British about 300.
- Dec. 15. Hartford convention. This convention consisted of delegates from Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island, and two members from New Hampshire, and one from Vermont. These last were appointed at county meetings. The object of the convention was opposition to the war, and a threaten of secession of the New England States, but failed to amount to anything.
- Dec. 23. Gen. Jackson attacked, in the night, about 2,400 of the enemy, on the Mississippi, nine miles below New Orleans. After killing or wounding 400 of the British, he withdrew. The American loss was about 100.
- Dec. 24. Treaty of peace between the United States and Great Britain, signed at Ghent. The articles of the treaty chiefly related to the disputes respecting boundaries, for the determination of which it was agreed that commissioners should be reciprocally appointed. Gen. Wilkinson repulsed on Canada frontier and superseded by Gen. Izard. Hull tried for cowardice and treason at Albany, N. Y., for the surrender of Detroit. He was found guilty of cowardice and sentenced to be shot, but was afterward pardoned by the President. The Wasp, Capt. Blakely, made a successful cruise, but after capturing thirteen prizes disappeared and was never heard of again. Probably lost in a storm.
- Jan. 8, 1815. Battle of New Orleans. Gen. Jackson, in command of 6,000 militia, concentrated his forces about four miles below the city within a line of entrenchments a mile long, extending from the river far into the swamp. He was attacked in this position by 12,000 British, under command of Gen. Packenham. As the British approached, a terrible cannonade was opened from the American batteries, yet they continued to advance until within rifle range, when volley after volley of deadly storm of lead poured into the ranks of the invaders. The British column soon wavered, Gen. Packenham fell, and the entire British army fled in dismay, leaving 700 dead, and more than 1,000 wounded on the field. The Americans were so safely entrenched that they lost only seven killed and six wounded. Joseph Bonaparte, brother of the Emperor, came to the United States as Count de Survilliers, and purchased 1,500 acres of land in Bordentown, N. J., and settled down to the life of an opulent gentleman. In 1830 he returned to France, and died in Florence in 1854.

- Feb. 18. Peace proclaimed by the President of the United States, and a day of thanksgiving to the Almighty was observed throughout the Union.
- Feb. 20. The Constitution, Commodore Stewart, had a severe action with the British frigate Cyane and sloop-of-war Levant, and captured both.
- 'Feb. 24. Robert Fulton, inventor of steam navigation, died in New York, aged fifty years.
  - April. Massacre of American prisoners at Dartmoor, England.
- April 10. The United States Bank rechartered for twenty years, with a capital of $35,000,000. The existence of the bank expired with this charter in 1836.
- $\mbox{\bf April}$  17. Commodore Decatur captures two Algerine vessels and 600 prisoners.
- June 30. The Dey of Algiers signs a treaty of peace, agreeing to restore all American prisoners to liberty, pay indemnity for all property destroyed, and to relinquish all claims of tribute from the United States.
- July. Commodore Decatur demanded and received $46,000 from the Bashaw of Tunis, in payment for American vessels he allowed the English to capture in his harbor. A demand of $25,000 and restoration of prisoners was made upon the Bashaw of Tripoli, which was complied with. This cruise to the Mediterranean gave full security to American commerce in those seas, and left the United States at peace.
- July 8, 1817. Remains of General Montgomery, after resting fortytwo years at Quebec, were brought to the city of New York and placed in a monument in front of St. Paul's church.

THE MEXICAN WAR.

- March 6, 1845. Mexican Minister protests against the admission of Texas into the Union and demanded his passport.
- July. The President, aware of the hostile feelings of the Mexicans, sent Gen. Taylor, with a force of 1,500, for the defense of Texas. At the same time a squadron, under command of Commodore Connor, sailed for the Gulf of Mexico, to protect American interests there.
- July 19. The Mexican government, by continued depredation upon American vessels and the confiscation of the property of the Americans within her border, brought on a crisis that required a settlement. The United States remonstrated, but the Mexicans continued their depredations, until the amount appropriated by them reached more than $6,000,000. The Mexican government finally acknowledged the debt, and agreed to pay it in installments of $300,000 each. Only three of the installments were paid, and the Mexican government refused to decide whether she would pay the remainder.
- April 24, 1846. War with Mexico. First blood of the war shed. Gen. Taylor, being informed that the Mexicans were crossing the Rio Grande, above his encampment, sent Capt. Thornton, with sixty dragoons, to reconnoitre. They were surprised and captured. Sixteen Americans were killed, and Capt. Thornton escaped by an extraordinary leap off his horse.
- May 3. Fort Brown, on the Rio Grande, attacked by the Mexicans. After suffering a bombardment of 160 hours, the garrison was relieved, and the Mexicans trembled for the safety of Matamoras. Major Brown (in whose honor the fort was named) was mortally wounded.
- May 8. Battle of Palo Alto. Gen. Taylor, with a little over 2,000 troops, met, in battle array, 6,000 Mexicans, under Gen. Arista. For five hours, a hot contest was maintained, when the Mexicans gave way and fled. American loss in killed and wounded, fifty-three. Among the wounded was Capt. Page, of Maine, who afterwards died on the 12th of July; and Major Ringgold. commander of Flying Artillery, who died four days afterward. The Mexicans lost about 600.
- May 9. Battle of Resaca de la Palma. This was a short and bloody conflict, but the Americans were again victorious. American loss in killed and wounded, 110; Mexican loss was at least 1,000. Gen. La Vega and 100 men were made prisoners. This was the second battle of the war fought between Gen. Taylor and Gen. Arista Arista saved himself by solitary flight, and made his way alone across the Rio Grande.

  - July 9. Commodore Montgomery takes possession of San Francisco.
- Aug. 15. Col. Fremont and Commodore Stockton take possession of Los Angeles, California.
- Aug. 18. Gen. Kearney takes possession of Santa Fe, the capital of New Mexico. The governor and 4,000 Mexican troops fled at his approach, and the people, numbering about 6,000, quietly submitted.
  - Aug. 22. Annexation of New Mexico to the United States.
- Sept. 21. Gen. Taylor, now in command of 6,000 men, commenced the siege of Monterey. The city was defended by Gen. Ampudia, and 9,000 troops. The conflict lasted four days, a part of the time within the streets of the city, where the carnage was fearful. Ampudia surrendered. American loss in killed, wounded and missing, 561. The number lost by the Mexicans was never ascertained, but it was supposed to be more than 1,000.
  - October. Tobasco and Tuspin captured by Com. Perry.
  - Nov. 14. Tampico surrenders to Com. Conner.
  - Nov. 15. Gen. Worth took possession of Satillo, capital of Coahuila.
- Dec. 22. Col. Doniphan, in command of 1,000 Missouri volunteers, while on his march to Chihuahua to join Gen. Wool, met a large force of Mexicans at Braceti, in the valley of the Rio del Norte, under Gen. Ponce de Leon. He sent a black flag to Doniphan with the message, "We will neither ask nor give quarters." The Mexicans then advanced and fired three rounds. The Missourians fell upon their faces, and the enemy, supposing them to be all dead, rushed forward for plunder. The Americans suddenly arose, and delivering a deadly fire from their rifles, killed 200 Mexicans and dispersed the remainder in confusion.
- Dec. 19. Gen. Taylor took possession of Victoria, capital of Tamaupilas.
- Jan. 19, 1847. A revolt in Mexico against the United States government; Gov. Bent and many other Americans murdered at Fernando de Taos, and massacres occurred in other portions of the country.
- Jan. 23. Col. Price, with 350 men, defeated the insurgents at Canada, and finally dispersed them at the mountain gorge, called the Pass of Embudo.
- Feb. 23. Battle of Buena Vista. Gen. Taylor's forces at this battle were only 5,000, while that of the enemy, under Santa Anna, numbered 20,000. The Mexican General, assuring Gen. Taylor that he was surrounded, ordered him to surrender within an hour. Taylor refused, and both armies prepared for battle. It was a desperate and bloody battle, commencing at sunrise and lasting until sunset; but finally the Mexicans fled in confusion, leaving their dead and wounded behind, and the Americans were left masters of the field. Americans lost 267 killed, 456 wounded, and twenty-three missing. The Mexicans lost almost 2,000. They left 500 of their comrades dead on the field.
- Feb. 8. Gen. Kearney proclaimed the annexation of California to the United States.
- Feb. 23. Captain Webster, with a small party of Americans, drove. Gen. Minon, with 800 cavalry, out of Satillo.
- Feb. 28. Col. Doniphan, when within eighteen miles from Chihuahua, was met by 4,000 Mexicans. These he completely routed, losing in killed and wounded only eighteen men, while the Mexicans lost about 600. He

- March 27. Surrender of Vera Cruz and Castle of San Juan de Ulloa to Gen. Scott and Com. Perry, with 5,000 prisoners and 500 pieces of artillery. The Americans lost forty-seven killed, and about the same number wounded. It is supposed 1,000 Mexicans were killed, and a great number of them wounded. During the siege it is estimated that 6,700 shot and shell were thrown by the American batteries, weighing in the aggregate more than 4,000 pounds.
- April 18. Battle of Cerro Gordo. This place was defended by Santa Anna, and 12,000 Mexicans, in a strongly fortified position, and many pieces of cannon. Gen. Scott, with 8,000 Americans, assaulted the enemy, and drove the Mexicans from their position. Santa Anna himself narrowly escaped capture by fleeing upon a mule taken from his carriage. More than 1,000 Mexicans were killed or wounded, and 3,000 made prisoners. Americans lost in killed and wounded 431.
- April 21. Battle of Churubusco. Gen. Scott advanced on Churubusco, where Santa Anna was in command of the main body of the Mexican army. The enemy were defeated, and Santa Anna abandoned the field and fled to the City of Mexico. This defeat of the Mexicans was the final destruction of an army 30,000 strong, by another labout one-third its strength in number, Full 4,000 of the Mexicans were killed or wounded, 3,000 made prisoners, and thirty pieces of cannon taken. Americans lost in killed and wounded about 1,100.
- April 22. Gen. Worth takes possession of the castle of Perote. This was considered one of the strongest fortresses in Mexico, yet it was surrendered without resistance. Fifty-four pieces of cannon and mortars were captured here, and a large quantity of munitions of war.
- May 15. Americans take possession of the city of Pueblo, a city of 80,000 inhabitants, without opposition.
- Aug. 21. Gen. Scott was now within three miles of the city of Mexico, when Santa Anna sent a flag of truce, asking for an armistice, preparatory to negotiations for peace. It was granted, but the propositions of the United States were spurned and scorned, and Santa Anna treacherously violated the armistice by strengthening the defenses of the city.
- Aug. 21. Battle of Contreras. General Smith attacked the Mexicans at sunrise, and, after a brief and sanguinary conflict, the Americans were victorious. Eighty officers and 2,000 private soldiers were made prisoners, and thirty-three pieces of artillery were captured. The Mexican force engaged was 6,000, under General Valencia.
- Sept. 8. Battle of El Molinos del Rey. About 4,000 Americans attacked 14,000 Mexicans, under Santa Anna, near Chapultepec. The Americans were first repulsed with great slaughter, but, returning to the attack, they fought desperately for an hour, and drove the Mexicans from their position. Both armies suffered dreadfully. The Mexicans lost about 1,000 dead on the field, and the Americans about 800.
- Sept. 13. Battle of Chapultepec. This was the last place to be defended outside the suburbs of the City of Mexico. The Americans, under Gen. Scott, made a furious assault and routed the enemy with great slaughter, and unfurled the Stars and Stripes over the shattered castle of Chapultepec. The Mexicans fled to the city, pursued by Gen. Quitman to its very gates. That night Santa Anna and his army, with the officers of government, fled the doomed city.
- Sept. 14. American army, in command of Gen. Scott, enter the City of Mexico without resistance.
- May 29, 1848. Gen. Scott superseded in Mexico by Gen. William O. Butler.
- July 4. Peace proclaimed between the United States and Mexico. By this treaty, the United States came into possession of California and New Mexico. The treaty stipulated the evacuation of Mexico by the American army within three months; the payment of $3,000,000 in hand and $12,000,000, in four annual installments, by the United States to Mexico, for the territory acquired by conquest; and, in addition, to assume debts due to certain citizens of the United States to the amount of $3,500,000; it also fixed boundaries.

THE BATTLES OF THE LATE CIVIL WAR.

THE CAUSES OF THE REBELLION.

Leaving desolation in its track, through many parts of the South, was a four years war, waged between the people of the Northern and Southern portions of the United States, extending over a period of time from April 12, 1861, to the surrender of Lee, April 9, '65. Among the causes that produced the war, briefly stated, were these: The staple productions of the South prior to the war were cotton and sugar. To sell these productions in the markets of the world at the highest figures, and purchase the necessaries of life at the lowest price, was regarded by the Southern people as legitimate. To have unrestricted commercial intercourse, therefore, with the people of all nations, being free to export their productions without hindrance, and import goods from abroad free of duty, was considered for the best interest of the South. There existed a decided difference of opinion between the people of the Northern and Southern States on this important and widespread question. A large body of people at the North believed that home industries could best be built up through the shutting out of foreign protection by a high Protective Tariff. This party favored the placing of a high tax on all goods from abroad. Protective Tariff against free trade, which became a sectional issue, was one of the causes of the great Rebellion; another was the black man. For generations the colored people had been regarded by most persons at the South as property that could be rightfully bought and sold.

In many parts of the North, in the early history of the country, slavery was common. Washington, as well as many other prominently great and good men, was the owner of slaves, and the institution of slavery having for generations been protected by legislation, a vast body of people at the South regarded it as perfectly right to buy, sell and own slaves. Gradually a public sentiment grew up in the North antagonistic to the idea of one class owning another class. This feeling extended into the halls of national legislation, and in time developed very bitter sectional feeling. The final result was that the Southerners, thinking of the triumph of the United States when they cut loose from England, and that the people of the South should have the right to make such laws as they deemed best for their own interests, inaugurated the work of separating the South from the North by the act of secession passed by the legislation of South Carolina, in which that State seceded from the Union Dec. 20, 1860. This example was followed by others of the Southern States in the following order, eleven States passing ordinance of secession between the fifteenth day of December, 1860, and June 10, 1861: Mississippi, January 9, 1861; Florida January 10, 1861; Alabama, January 11, 1861; Georgia, January 19, 1861; Louisiana, January 26, 1861; Texas. Feb. 1, 1861; Virginia, April 17, 1861; Arkansas, May 6, 1861; North Carolina, August 21, 1861; Tennessee by a vote of the people, June 8, 1861. The vectous portion of Virginia refused to seede and in 1863 was admitted western portion of Virginia refused to secede, and in 1863 was admitted into the Union as the loyal State of West Virginia. The people of the South were then desirous of having the authorities of the United States withdrawn from the seceded State, and in order to hasten and compel this an attack was made on Fort Sumter, April 12, 1861. This precipitated the war of the Rebellion-a four years struggle that caused a loss of near 500,000 lives and fastened upon the United States a debt at the close of the war of near $3,000,000,000.

July 4, 1859. A. H. Stephens, of Georgia, advocates the formation of a Southern Confederacy.

Oct. 17. A negro insurrection breaks out at Harper's Ferry. John Brown, with a score of followers, crossed the Potomac at Harper's Ferry and entered Virginia, where he incited the slaves to take up arms against their masters. After a short time, Brown was captured and tried for treason; found guilty, he bore his misfortune with the greatest composure, and when asked upon the scaffold to give a sign when he was ready, he answered, "I am always ready." He died in the midst of slaves and slave owners—his countrymen—and now no countryman of his can look at his place of execution and call himself a slave owner or a slave.

May 17, 1860. Abraham Lincoln nominated for President at Chicago, by the Republicans.

Aug. 23. A Democratic Convention assembled in Charleston, S. C., to secure the election of Stephen A. Douglas, President of the U. S.

President Lincoln shot by J. Wilkes Booth in Ford's April 14. Theatre, Washington; Mr. Seward and his son wounded.

April 15. Death of President Lincoln. Vice-President Johnson sworn in as President of the United States.

Mr. Stanton's letter to Charles Francis Adams, Minister to England:
"Washington, April 15th. Sir—It has become my distressing duty to announce to you that last night his Excellency Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, about the hour of half-past ten o'clock in his private box at Ford's Theatre, in this city, The President, about eight o'clock, accompanied Mrs. Lincoln to the theatre. Another lady and gentleman were with them in the box. About half-past ten, during a pause in the performance, the assassin entered the box, the door of which was unguarded hastily approaching the President from behind, and discharged a pistol at his head. The bullet entered the back of his head and penetrated nearly through. The assassin then leaped from the box upon the stage, brandishing a large knife or dagger, and exclaimed, 'Sic semper tyrannis!' and escaped in the rear of the theatre. Immediately upon the discharge the President fell to the floor insensible, and continued in that state until twenty minutes past 7 o'clock this morning, when he breathed his last."

May 26. Kirby Smith surrendered. The last armed Confederate organization has succumbed.

May 31. Confederate General Hood and staff surrendered.

Cost of the War.—In the Union armies probably 300,000 men were killed in battle, or died of wounds and disease, while doubtless two hundred thousand more were crippled for life. If the Confederate armies suffered as heavily, the country thus lost one million able-bodied men. The Union debt, Jan. 1, 1866, was nearly $2,750,000,000. At one time, the daily expenses reached the sum of $3,500,000. During the last year of the war, the expenses were greater than the entire expenditures of the Government from Washington to Buchanan. The Confederate war debt was never paid, as that Government was overthrown.

June 22. President Johnson rescinds order requiring passports from all travelers entering the United States, and opens Southern ports.

July 7. Execution of Payne, Atzerott, Harold and Mrs. Surratt, for complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln.

Oct. 11. Pardon of Alexander Stephens and other Southern officials. Nov. 9. Confederate privateer Shenandoah surrenders at Liverpool, having destroyed about thirty vessels; crew released.

OF THE

MEXICAN AND CIVIL WARS.

GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT.

This distinguished general, the central figure in the war with Mexico, and by many considered the leading figure in American military history. was born near Petersburg, Virginia, June 13, 1786. He received a good schooling, and after graduation at William and Mary College, studied law and was admitted to practice in 1806. Two years later he entered the army as captain of light artillery. While stationed at Baton Rouge, some differences of opinion with his superior officer, Gen. Wilkinson, when he expressed himself very freely, caused him to be court-martialed and suspended for one year. He devoted this time to the study of military tactics. In 1812 he was appointed lieutenant-colonel, and stationed on the Canadian frontier. He and his command were taken prisoners during the affair of Queenstown Heights, but after several months was exchanged. He was then connected with Gen. Dearborn's army, and was severely wounded by the explosion of a powder magazine during the attack on Fort George, May 27, 1813.

He was made brigadier-general in March, 1814, and stationed at Buffalo, establishing a camp of military instruction. It was here he made his name, on the 3rd of July, when, with Ripley's brigade and Heidman's artillery, he crossed the Niagara river and captured Fort Erie. Two days later the enemy was defeated, and on the 25th of the same month occurred the famous battle of Lundy's Lane. He had two horses shot from under him, and was twice severely wounded, so that for a time his life was despaired of, but he finally recovered, one arm, however, always remaining partially disabled. He received soon after a gold medal, with the thanks of Congress for his bravery, and was offered the cabinet position of Secretary of War, which he declined; later visiting Europe as a military and diplomatic representative.

Returning to the United States in 1816, he was the following year married to a Miss Mayo, of Richmond, Virginia.

To him was largely due the peaceful removal of the Cherokee Indians from Georgia to their reservation beyond the Mississippi

Scott was made commander-in-chief of the U.S. Army in 1841, after the death of Gen. McComb. The Mexican War afforded the first opportunity for the active exercise of his authority. In 1847 he laid siege to Vera Cruz. Its capitulation took place only four days later. The next advance was on Jalapa, and on the 17th of April he defeated Santa Ana's army most completely at Cerro Gordo Pass. Jalapa surrendered on the 19th, Persoti on the 22nd, and Pueblo on May 15th. He was obliged to wait for reinforcements till the 7th of August, when he began his advance on the City of Mexico. He captured Contreras and Chirubusco; on the 13th of September Chapultepec was captured, and the following morning Scott entered the city and occupied the National Palace.

In 1852 he was the Whig candidate for President, but was defeated by Pierce. He retired on account of infirmity October 31, 1861, and after a short trip in Europe returned to West Point, where he passed peacefully away on the 28th of May, 1866. He was buried according to his wish at that place.

GENERAL ULYSSES S. GRANT.

This great commander of the United States armies in the Civil War, who was also twice made President of the United States, was born at Point Pleasant, Clermont County, Ohio, April 27, 1822. His parents were Jesse R. and Hannah Simpson Grant, people who were in very moderate circumstances, and he was obliged in his youth to assist in the work of the farm, getting such education as he could from the district school.

He became a cadet at West Point Military Academy in the spring of 1839. Here it was that the Member of Congress who appointed him entered his name as "Ulysses S.," supposing that to be correct, and although he was christened "Hiram Ulysses," the error was never corrected, and he bore the name through life. He was graduated in 1843, and breveted second lieutenant 4th Infantry at Jefferson Barracks, near St. Louis. In 1845 he joined the army of Gen. Zachary Taylor at Corpus Christi, and rendered good service in several battles in Mexico under Gen. Scott and others. After the entrance into the city of Mexico, he was promoted to be first lieutenant. He returned to St. Louis after withdrawal of the troops, and August 22nd, 1848, was married to Miss Julia B. Dent, sister to a class-mate at West Point. For the next four years he was in service at several posts, and in 1853 was appointed captain of a company at Humboldt Bay, California. He became dissatisfied, however, and resigned his commission the following year, and engaged in farming and real estate business near St. Louis. The latter venture was a failure, and in 1860 he entered his father's hardware and leather store in Galena, Illinois.

When Fort Sumter was fired upon the following year he raised a company of volunteers, and went with them to Springfield, Illinois where he was appointed mustering officer, and later colonel of the 21st Illinois Regiment of Infantry by Governor Yates. In August he was made brigadier-general of volunteers, and a few days afterward was placed in command of the Southern Missouri district, with headquarters at Cairo.

mand of the Southern Missouri district, with headquarters at Cairo. The following year he conceived the idea of capturing Forts Donelson and Henry by the combined force of troops and gun-boats, but was only after persistent effort able to carry it out. This was done, however, on the first of February, and resulted in complete victory after several days fighting. Then followed the siege of Vicksburg, with a force of 71,000 men. Gen. Pemberton asked for an armistice, but Grant's reply was "unconditional surrender." This gained for him, as fitting the initials of his name, the title of "Unconditional Surrender Grant." The city was surrendered on July 4th, and shortly after Grant was made majorgeneral in the regular army.

From this time on he was in all the great battles of the war, having been made lieutenant-general, until the surrender of Lee's army at Appomattox, April 9th, 1865. Congress created the rank of general, and he was so appointed.

He was elected President in 1868, receiving 214 electoral votes to 80 for his opponent, Horatio Seymour. He was re-elected in 1872 over Horace Greeley by 286 to 66, after a most exciting and bitter contest.

His trip around the World was a continued triumph, and on his return but for the anti-third term tradition, he would have been again nominated for President.

His contributions to literature, his unfortunate financial losses through the Marine Bank (N. Y.) failure, and his long and painful illness which he bore so patiently, are still fresh in the public mind.

He died July 23, 1885, at Mount McGregor, near Saratoga, and is buried in "Riverside," N. Y. city, where it is proposed to erect a monument costing $1,000,000 to his memory.

graduated from West Point in 1829, ranking second in a class of forty-six. He was commissioned second lieutenant in the engineers. He was assigned with rank of captain in the Mexican War, with General Wood. Gen. Scott attributed the fall of Vera Cruz to his skill as engineer. He was three times breveted during this war, the last to rank of colonel.

He was assigned to command of West Point Academy in 1852, and remained three years, greatly to the advancement of the school. In 1861 (Apr. 20.) Lieut.-Col.Lee resigned, because of the secession of his native

State, Virginia, claiming that he was bound by that act.

He went to Richmond and was made commander-in-chief of the Virginia State forces, receiving his full commission as general in May, 1861. In the autumn he planned and partly constructed the lines of defense on the South Carolina coast, which stood against the attacks of the enemy till the close of the war. He was ordered to Richmond March 13, 1862, to conduct the military operations of the Confederacy. His first distinguished services were at the battles of Fair Oaks, and again in the "Seven Days' Battle," against Johnston and McClellan, respectively, in which he was successful, thus raising the siege of Richmond.

which he was successful, thus raising the siege of Richmond.

In order to cause apparent or real danger to Washington, Lee directed his movements towards the Capital. This culminated in the first battle of Bull Run Aug. 29, 1861. The National army was driven back to Centerville. The battle of Sharpsburg or Antietam followed. This has by some been called a "drawn battle," as it was not decisive for either side. Burnside then succeeded McClellan. His plan was to advance upon Richmond. Then occurred the battle of Fredericksburg in which the National loss was 13,000 and the Confederate only about 5,000.

Gen. Jos. Hooker then succeeded Burnside and planned to drive Lee from his intrenched position at Fredericksburg, May 1, 1863. Lee met Hooker's advance and repulsed it at Chancelorsville, and the Northern army was driven back with much loss.

The campaign of 1864 began with the crossing of the Rapidan by Grant with 120,000 men. Lee had only about 60,000, yet he promptly began the attack. Lee's plan of striking Grant's flank has been commended by all military men, but the superiority of numbers and the persistent work of Grant's army was too much. Recognizing the situation as hopeless, Lee resolved to surrender, saying to an objection by one of his men: 'If I permitted another man to be slain I would be a murderer.'

He laid down his sword at Appomattox, April 9th, 1865, like the manly, magnanimous soldier that he was. He never held self before duty, and is recognized as having been one of the great soldiers of the nineteenth century.

He died in 1870, and was buried beneath the Chapel of the University at Lexington. No funeral oration was pronounced according to his request.

GENERAL WILLIAM TECUMSEH SHERMAN.

The Civil War, and "Sherman's March to the Sea," are almost synonymous. Gen. Sherman is a lineal descendant of Rev. John Sherman, who came to this country with his brother and their cousin in 1634, setting in Connecticut. The descendants of these moved to Lancaster, Ohio, where William was born February 8th, 1820. His father was a lawyer; for five years judge of the supreme court. He raised a large family, eleven children in all, our subject being the sixth. After the death of his father, young Sherman was adopted by Thomas Ewing, and attended the Lancaster Public School till 1836, when he entered West Point Academy, graduating sixth in a class of forty-two, four years later. In the same year he was commissioned second lieutenant in the third artillery. His first service was in Florida, and in 1841 he was placed in command as first lieutenant at Picolata. In 1843 he studied law, not with any idea of practicing, but because he deemed the knowledge necessary to the well-informed soldier. In the Mexican War he acted as adjutant to Gens. Kearney, Smith and Mason, and was breveted captain for his service in California. In 1850 he returned to Washington. Here he married, on May 1st, Miss Ellen B., daughter of his foster father, then Secretary of the Interior. He was stationed shortly after at St. Louis and New Orleans in the commissary department. Times then being peaceful, he resigned his commission in September, 1853, and accepted an appointment as manager of a banking institution in San Francisco. The bank closed its affairs in 1857. The following two years he practiced law in Leavenworth, Kansas; the next year superintending the State Military Academy at Alexandria, Louisiana. He left there when that State seceded.

Schummers, F. F., Hardware. Osborne House, E. J. Cary, Prop. Phillips, Mrs. A. On the opening of the Civil War, Sherman at once allied himself with the Northern cause, and was commissioned colonel of the 13th regiment under Gen. Scott. He was in command of a brigade in Tyler's division, marching on Bull Run. He was made brigadier-general of volunteers in August following. In 1862, with Grant, he marched on Forts Henry and Donelson. He especially distinguished himself for bravery at the battle of Shiloh. Sherman was made major-general of volunteers, and ordered to the defense of Memphis. In the battle of Vicksburg which followed, Gen. Sherman again was distinguished, and was made brigadier-general in the regular army. His army was the center of the enemy's attack at Mission Ridge, where he again did splendid service. During the early part of '64 he was at Jackson and Meridian. In March he was placed in command of the Mississippi division. On the 10th of April he received final orders to move on Atlanta. Steadily and surely continued the famous march, till Savannah was reached, the northern forces being notably successful at every point, thus constituting the famous "March to the Sea."

In the grand review at the close of the war, Sherman received the homage due his valor. Since the war his life has been quiet. On February 8, 1884, he was placed on the retired list, being succeeded by Sheridan as commander-in-chief. The degree of LL. D, has been conferred upon him by no less than four colleges, in recognition of his scholarly and soldierly attainments. Gen. Sherman is a brother of Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Sherman, so distinguished in Grant's administration.

GENERAL PHILIP H. SHERIDAN.

Philip Henry Sheridan, succeeding Gen. Sherman, commander-inchief of the United States Army, was born in the capital city of the Empire State—Albany, on the 6th of March, 1831. His parents were plain people of Irish lineage, and his early education was derived from the public schools of his native place. Natural abilities were, however, superior to circumstances, and he had so far advanced himself that he was admitted as a cadet into West Point Academy in July, 1848. He was of the same class with Gens. McPherson, Schofield and Hood. Owing to a quarrel with a class-mate, he was suspended from the Acade ny, but was permitted to return, after due investigation, and was graduated July 1st, 1853; the same day being appointed brevet second lieutenant 3rd Infantry in Kentucky, Texas and Oregon. November, 1854, he became second lieutenant 4th Infantry, and in 1861 was promoted to be first lieutenant. The following May he was appointed captain of the 13th Infantry, in December being quartermaster and commissary of the army in Southwestern Missouri.

He was first in active service in the advance upon Corinth. In the raid upon Booneville he so distinguished himself that he was appointed brigadier-general of volunteers. In October following he commanded the 11th division of the army of the Ohio, and was prominent in the battles of that division, and to him is now generally accredited the chief honor due in that engagement. In the battle of Stone River, December 31st and January 1st, was his action again noticeable. He was acting under Rosecrans and Bragg, and stood the severest trial of the battle. For his valiant action he was made major-general of volunteers in 1862, and participated in the memorable battle of Winchester, and later assisted, in September, in the awful encounter at Chickamauga. Mission Ridge affords a good opportunity for judging Sheridan's bravery. From that time Grant recognized him as being one of his most valuable aides; in fact, the most important. On April 4th Grant placed Sheridan in command of cavalry, army of the Potomac, and with him he took part in the Battle of the Wilderness the following month. A series of successes followed, and in August he was appointed to command the army of the Shenandoah; a few days after was added to his forces the command of the middle military division. His duties were to route the enemy from the Virginia Valley. In this he was also successful, completely scattering the opposing forces and taking 5,000 prisoners. He was appointed brigadier-general in the regular army, and had gone to Washington, where the Confederate forces reinforced had crossed the Shenandoah on October 18, attacking a camp of Union soldiers, utterly surprising Sheridan's army and causing a retreat. Sheridan was at Winchester, 20 miles away. Hearing the sounds of battle he leaped into his saddle, meeting his retreating troops about 10 o'clock. A mighty cheer greeted him, to which he replied: "Face the other way, boys; we're going back!" A complete victory followed, and "Sheridan's Ride" will go down through all time as one of the most brilliant military exploits.

has been immortalized in prose, poetry and painting. He was made major-general in the regular army. He was active till the close. On Grant's election to the Presidency, Sherman was made commander and Sheridan lieutenant-general. When Sherman retired in 1883, he was made commander. In 1879 he married a daughter of Gen. D. H. Rucker, U. S. A. His death occurred after a few weeks' illness in June, 1888. No general ever left a nobler name, or was held in more affectionate remembrance.

GENERAL PIERRE G. BEAUREGARD.

Gen. Beauregard was born in St. Martin's Parish, in the State of Louisiana, in March, 1816. He was of French descent, his great-grandfather, of a noble family, having come to this country in the reign of Louis XV, and settled in Louisiana. The family name was originally Toutant de Beauregard, but the father of the subject of our sketch, James, discarded the first or titular portion on account of its being objectionable to his Republican views. James married Helene Reggio, also of an old family. Pierre was the second son of three sons and three daughters. Gen. Beauregard entered West Point Academy in 1834 as a cadet, and was graduated June 30, 1838, with the second honors in a class of forty-five. June 16, 1839, he was made first lieutenant in the engineer corps, serving in the Mexican War with distinction. On August 20, 1847, he was breveted captain for gallant conduct, and was thereafter engaged in the construction of the Mint and Custom House at New Orleans, and the fortifications at the mouth of the Mississippi river. At the beginning of 1861 he was appointed superintendent of West Point Academy, but only served 48 hours, on account of the secession speech of his uncle, Senator Slidell, for which President Buchanan removed him. He resigned his commission in the United States Army, and was shortly after called to the defense of Charleston with the rank of brigadier-general. He was a most enthusiastic believer in the sure victory of the Southern cause. April 11, 1861, Gen. Beauregard demanded the evacuation of Fort Sumter, which Major Anderson declined to do. The next day the first gun was fired, and the Fort surrendered on the 13th. He took a leading part in the first battle of Bull Run. When Gen. Johnston fell at the battle of Shiloh Gen. Beauregard took command of the army. He turned over his office to Gen. Bragg shortly after, in order to take a much needed rest, and President Davis, for some reason, ordered Bragg to retain permanent command. He was again prominent in the defense of Charleston and in several later engagements, and the evacuation of Charleston in February, 1865. He surrendered with his commanding general in April, 1865. Since the war he has resided in New Orleans, where he has been in active business, notably as manager of the Louisiana State Lottery. He wrote a work entitled "The Principles and Maxims of the Art of War."

GENERAL GEORGE B. McCLELLAN.

George B. McClellan was born in the city of Philadephia, December, 1826. His early education was had through private tutoring, and during 1840-42 he was a student at the University of Pennsylvania, sharing high class honors. When but fifteen years and six months of age he entered the West Point Military Academy, and was graduated July 1, 1846. He made a high record both in military and literary studies. He was immediately breveted lieutenant in the engineer corps, and served during the Mexican War, being in service at Malan, Camargo, Tampico, and Vera Cruz, taking an active part in the battle of Cerro Gordo. On April 24, 1847, he became second lieutenant, and was distinguished for bravery in the battles of Contreras and Chirubusco, and in the assault upon Chapultepec. For gallantry he was made captain in the regular army.

was placed in command of the Army of the Potomac, and in November, 1862, became commander of all the armies of the Union. His promotions will be seen to have been very rapid, and it did not give him the opportunity to prepare himself for so responsible a position. McClellan was accused of too much slowness, and perhaps with some reason, so that, his army still continuing to retreat, after the seven-days' battle, on July 11th, he was relieved by Gen. Halleck. After the second battle of Bull Run his services were again needed, and he went to the front. He was very popular with the soldiers and was received with enthusiasm. In the battle of Antietam which soon followed, he achieved a signal victory, though it did not gain for him the approval of the government. He waited at Warrenton for reinforcements which he believed absolutely necessary, and thus incurred the displeasure of the authorities at Washington, who appointed Burnside to succeed him. He took no further active part in the war, but his popularity was undiminished. He resigned his commission September 8, 1864. That year he had been nominated as Democratic candidate for President, but was of course defeated by Lincoln. He was elected governor of New Jersey in 1877. During his later years he contributed a number of interesting papers to the magazines.

He died suddenly of heart disease at his country residence, at Orange, N. J., Oct. 29, 1885.

GENERAL THOMAS T. JACKSON.

This Confederate leader was born January 21st, 1824. "Stonewall Jackson"-what a name to be handed down through the generations of his fellow men! When opinions differed as to the merits of the causes between the North and South, none questioned the loyalty or convictions of Thos. T. Jackson. With him it was that he was in the right, and he would carry those ideas to the end. His great-grandfather, an Englishman, emigrated to Maryland in 1748. From there, having married Elizabeth Cummins, he removed to West Virginia, where he raised a large family. His father was an engineer, and died while Thomas was a mere infant. His mother also passed away when he was only ten years of age. Cummins Jackson, an uncle, brought up the boy. He was at first delicate, but the vigorous West Virginia life was of much benefit to his constitution. At the age of 18 he entered West Point Academy. Owing to the disadvantages in his early attainment of an education, he did not graduate among the highest, which was in 1846. He was then ordered to Mexico and became a lieutenant in Macgruders' battery, in general Scott's advance from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico. After the army was withdrawn from Mexico he was stationed at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Harbor. He was elected professor of philosophy and artillery tactics at the Virginia Military Institute in 1851. Here, as in after life, he proved himself to be anything but a conventional man, and for his independence of character, was sometimes called eccentric. He was a most devout believer in a Supreme Ruler of the Universe, and it is related that on one occasion, when his wife remarked, "Don't you wish it would stop raining?" he smilingly replied: "Yes, if the Maker of the weather thinks best." His military life in the Civil War began at Harper's Ferry, but be became commander of a brigade in Johnston's army, and served at Bull Run. To him is there due the Confederate victory. It was here for his bravery that the title "Stonewall" was given him. It never became separated from his name. March, 1862, he was at Winchester, and in the following May he defeated General Banks there. The next day after his victory over Fremont, June 8th, he defeated McDowell's column. He maintained his position in the second battle of Bull Run against a dread-His name and the Battle of the Wilderness are one. ful onslaught. Here he was wounded in three places, and he died May 10th, 1863, from pleuritic-pneumonia, probably through exposure and the debilitating effects of his wounds. His career was unfinished, but enough had been done to stamp him a great general.

GENERAL WINFIELD S. HANCOCK.

Hancock, "The Superb," as his men were wont to call him, was one of the great Union generals. He was of sturdy Scotch lineage, and was born at Montgomery Square, near Philadelphia, February 14th, 1824. His early education was through his father's tutoring, the Public High School, and the Academy at Norristown, Pa., to which place his family had moved. His evident fitness for military life, and his ambition in that direction, led to influences which secured his admission to the Military Academy at West Point, from whence he was graduated in 1844. He was breveted second-lieutenant, and served at Fort Towson, Indian Territory, just prior to the difficulties that led to the Mexican War. In 1847 he had active service in the army of General Scott, and was brev eted first lieutenant. From 1848 to 1855 he was stationed at St. Louis as quartermaster and adjutant, in the latter year going into active service against the Seminoles in Florida.

From his position as acting chief quartermaster of the southern district of California, he was, at his own request, removed to the seat of war at the opening of the Rebellion. His first work was in the organizing of the army of the Potomac, and he took a prominent part in the battles of Williamsburg, Frazier's Farm, South Mountain, and Antietam.

In the battle of Fredericksburg he was distinguished for bravery in storming Maryes' Heights. In May, 1864, he took part in the battle of Chancellorsville, and in the following June President Lincoln appointed him in command of the second corps. General Meade relieved him, at his own request, but just here the Gettysburg battle took place, and he was recalled into the service, and to him is due the great credit for success in this battle. Hancock was wounded, but remained on the field until the enemy's lines were broken. After a period of necessary rest he was again actively engaged in the Campaign of the Wilderness, August 12th. After the battle of Cold Harbor, he was commissioned brigadiergeneral. His army met with reverses at Ream's Station, and after minor events he was made major general in the regular army, July, 1866.

Gen. Hancock was one of those mentioned as a candidate for President in 1868, '72 and '76, and in 1880 received the Democratic nomination, being defeated by James A. Garfield by a popular majority of only about 10,000 votes. He continued in active service to the time of his death, which took place on Governor's Island, New York Harbor, Feb. 9, 1886. His last important public act was the conducting of General Grant's funeral obsequies. In spite of political bitterness the name of Hancock remains pure and untarnished.

GENERAL JOHN A. LOGAN.

General Logan was of Irish parentage, his father having come to America when still a young man, and after a residence in several States, finally settling in Illinois. He served several terms as a representative of the Democratic party in the legislature. General Logan was born in Jackson County, Illinois, February 9th, 1826. He received his education first at the public school, then with a tutor, and finally finished it at Shiloh college. He volunteered as a private in the Mexican War, but soon rose to a lieutenancy in the 1st Illinois cavalry. He did good service throughout the war, and at its end returned to his native State, and began the study of law, also doing something in politics. He was elected clerk of Jackson County in 1849, and was graduated from Louisville University in 1851. He was admitted to the bar, and soon became popular He was elected both as a lawyer and political speaker. He was elected a member of the State legislature in the following year; was elected to Congress in 1858 by the Democratic party, and re-elected in 1860. He was a firm believer in Stephen A. Douglass; but also of Abraham Lincoln, whom he said he would support if he was elected. He joined the army of the North on the breaking out of the war, and took part in the first battle of Bull Run. He returned to the North in August, resigned his seat in Congress, and organized the 31st Illinois infantry, being made colonel. He did gallant service at Forts Henry and Donelson, being seriously wounded in the latter battle. March 5th, 1862, he was made brigadier general of Volunteers, and took an important part in the advance upon Corinth. He was urged to again run for Congress in that year, but declined, as he deemed his duty to his country required his services in the field. He was in constant action through the important battles of 1863. At the close of the war he was appointed Commander of the Army of the Tennessee, but resigned. In 1866 he was elected to Congress by the Republicans from Illinois, and was re-elected for the next two terms. He was a great orator, and many famous speeches while in Congress are well worth the perusal of the read-He was nominated by the Republican Convention of 1884, for Vice-President with Jas. G. Blaine. The ticket was defeated by Grover Cleveland and Thos. A. Hendricks by a close vote. He married Miss Cunning-ham Nov. 27, 1855. His death took place at Washington, D. C., Decem-ber 26, 1886. It has been aptly said of General Logan that he was a great general, but a Greater Statesman.

uated from West Point Academy in 1837; his rank being fifth in a class of fifty. He had for classmates such men as Besham, Hooker, Sedgwick and Townsend, later Union generals, and Early and Pemberton, subsesently allied with the Confederacy. He served mainly as lieutenant of artillery in Florida till 1843 in the war against the Seminole Indians. He was made brevet captain in May, 1846, for gallant conduct at Fort Brown, Texas. The following year he was breveted lieutenant-colonel on account of his gallantry at Buena Vista. From that time till 1855 he was stationed in frontier service at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri; he was then appointed major of cavalry, but declined to serve, and received leave of absence, and in January, 1856, resigned his commission, and retired to private life on his plantation in Louisiana, where for two years he officiated as commissioner of public works of the State. He was appointed brigadier general at the opening of the Civil War, and placed in command at Pensacola, Florida. In February, 1862, he was made major general. He distinguished himself at the battle of Shiloh, when General Sidney Johnston was killed, by holding the troops who were somewhat demoralized, and maintaining order and discipline at a critical period. Subsequently he held command of the entire Confederate army of the West, succeeding General Beauregard through President Davis' orders. The Federal garrison at Mumfordville surrendered to him in September, with over four thousand prisoners. He was confident of still greater successes, but this proved unwise, for in the fighting at and near Perryville he found the enemy stronger than he anticipated, and met with serious reverses. Later, January 3d, 1863, the Confederate army retreated to Tullahoma. He began the retreat from Chattanooga in September, which culminated in the great battle of Chickamauga. The cause of defeat has been attributed to the lack of confidence of the troops in their commander. After this he was displaced by General Joseph E. Johnston. He was later sent to defend Wilmington, which he did not succeed in doing; in fact, his career was about ended, and he did not again appear prominently in battle. He made many serious mistakes, which cost him dear in reputation and his cause in defeat. He died at Galveston, Texas, Sept. 27th, 1876.

ADMIRAL DAVID G. FARRAGUT.

George Farrgut, the father of the subject of this sketch, emigrated to this country in 1776. He traced his lineage back to Don Pedro Farragut, who served with James I, King of Aragon. George took an active part in the Revolutionary War. David was the second son of five children, and was born at Campbell's Station, near Knoxville, Tenn., July 5, 1801. He was accustomed to be upon the water from early childhood, his father overcoming a natural repugnance which the boy had by constant exposure to the sea and its dangers, until finally he formed a strong attachment for the sailor's life. When he was eight years of age he was adopted by Commodore Porter, who took him to Washington and placed him in school. During his stay in Washington he attracted the favorable notice of Paul Hamilton, Secretary of the Navy, who promised him a midshipman's warrant on the completion of his tenth year. He attended school at Chester, Pa., and on December 17th, 1810, he received the promised appointment. He served with Commodore Porter, going to the West Indies in 1812, and from the first showing a remarkable aptitude for his duties, and although but twelve years old he was given charge of one of the prize vessels of Commodore Porter. The diminutive size of the prize-holder incurred the anger of the captain of the vessel, but Farragut was undaunted, ordered the captain sent below, and took full command. He sailed in the Mediterranean in 1815, and again in 1819. In 1823 he married Miss Susan C. Marchant. In 1825 and '26 he again sailed in the Mediterranean, remaining thereafter, till 1828, at Norfolk, Va. His wife died in 1840, and in 1843 he married Miss Virginia Layall. During the Mexican War he commanded the "Saratoga." From 1854 to 1858 he established the navy yard on Mare Island, San Francisco Bay. In 1861 he was suddenly called to Washington to join the expedition against New Orleans. His fleet consisted of 47 vessels of the expedition against New Orleans. His neet consisted of 47 vessels of various kinds. He passed the Confederate lines, completely destroying their fleet, silencing Forts Jackson and St. Philip, and these surrendered on April 28th, leaving New Orleans at his mercy. He assisted in the siege of Port Hudson in 1863. August 5, 1864, he began the attack on Mobile. This resulted in the stoppage of blockade runners. In July, 1865, Congress created the grade of Admiral and assigned it to Farragut, which he retained amigine in Farrague, particularly in the proposer parters till his death, which technical control of the con which he retained, cruising in European waters till his death, which took place August 14, 1870. He was our grandest naval commander, and the Nation sadly mourned his death.

Major General Irwin McDowell was born in Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 15, 1818. He graduated at West Point in 1838, beginning a practical experience as second lieutenant on the Northern Frontier. He served with honor and distinction in the Mexican War, and was placed in command of the Army of the Potomac during the war of the rebellion, on May 29, 1861. In March, 1862, he was appointed a Major General of volunteers, and distinguished himself in the campaign of Northern Virginia. In 1866 he was commissioned Brevet Major General in the regular army, and in 1872 was promoted to the full rank. He retired from the army Oct. 15, 1882, and died in San Francisco, May 4, 1885.

General John Sedgwick was born at Cornwall, Conn., Sept. 13, 1813, and entered the Academy at West Point, in 1833, graduating four years later in the same class with Generals Hooker, Bragg and Jubal Early. His first service was in the Seminole War, in Florida. He was also a conspicuous figure in the Mexican struggle and the war of the rebellion. His whole service was of the most highly creditable and distinguished character. He was killed at Spottsylvania, by a bullet from a sharp-shooter's rifle, May 9, 1864.

Admiral David D.Porter was born at Chester, Pa., June 18, 1813, and entered the naval service in 1829. He was a lieutenant during the Mexican War, and at the breaking out of the Civil War, was placed in command of the Powhattan. In 1862 he was appointed Rear Admiral of the Mississippi squadron, in 1866 was promoted to Vice-admiral, and in 1870 was appointed Admiral of the Navy, which position he held until his death, Feb. 12, 1891.

General John C. Breckinridge was born in Lexington, Ky., January 21, 1821. He was one of that distinguished family of Kentuckians who have made that State famous in the military and legislative branches of our country. He was engaged in the practice of the law at the beginning of the Mexican War, and entered the service as major. He was elected to Congress in 1851, again in 1853, and Vice-President with Buchanan in 1856. In 1860 he was among the candidates defeated by Lincoln, and in the following year entered the U. S. Senate. At the breaking out of the war of the rebellion, he was appointed a Brigadier General, where he distinguished himself by many acts of bravery. At the end of the war he escaped to Cuba, went to Europe, and returned to his native country in 1868. He died in Lexington, Ky., May 17, 1875.

General George Edward Pickett was born in Richmond, Va., January 25, 1825. He graduated from the Military Academy in 1846, and served with honor and distinction in the Mexican war. He joined the Confederate forces in 1862, and soon thereafter became a Brigadier-General. He was a brave man, and no history of the "lost cause" would be complete without the record of his many deeds of valor. He died at Norfolk, Va., July 30, 1875.

General Jubal Anderson Early—This well-known fighting character was called by General Lee "his bad old man." This title was given him because of his proficiency in the use of "swear" words, effectual blows when in battle. He was born in Franklin County, Virginia, Nov. 3, 1816, and graduated from the Military Academy in 1837. He served in the Florida war in 1837-S, and in the latter year resigned from the army and took up the practice of the law in Virginia. He was elected to the Legislature in '41, and was Commonwealth Attorney in 1842 and served until 1847. He entered the service again at the breaking out of the Mexican war, and when the South seceded from the Union, joined the Confederate side. "Old Jube" was in his element again, and soon became one of the striking characters of the great struggle. Of late years he has resided in New Orleans, where he has again become a famous character as a manager of the Louisiana Lottery Company.

General John Bell Hood was born at Owenville, Kentucky, June 1, 1831, and graduated from the West Point Academy in 1853, at which institution he was cavalry instructor 1859-60. He entered the Confederate army at the commencement of the civil war with the rank of Colonel. He was in the thickest of many fights, and was shot down twice. At the end of the war he became a commission merchant in New Orleans. During the yellow fever epidemic of 1879 his wife and child diedwithin a few hours of each other, and he also succumbed to the disease.

General Richard Stoddart Ewell was born in Georgetown, D. C., Feb. 18, 1817. He graduated from West Point in 1840, and served in the Mexican war, for which he was promoted to the rank of Captain in

No. 554 Chenango Street, BINGHAMTON, N. Y. 1849. At the breaking out of the civil war he joined the Confederate army, where he distinguished himself in such a way as to win promotion to the rank of Major-General. He served in many of the largest battles of the rebellion, and died at Springfield, Tennessee, January 25, 1872.

General Edmund Kirby Smith was born in St. Augustine, Florida, May 16, 1824. He came of a family of brave soldiers, and entered West Point at the completion of his school education, graduating in 1845. He participated in the Mexican war. At the breaking out of the civil war he joined the Confederate side, where he quickly rose to the rank of Brigadier-General. At the close of the war he identified himself with educational work, and in 1875 was called to the professorship of mathematics in the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

General John Bankhead Magruder was born at Winchester, Va., August 15, 1810, and graduated from West Point in 1830. Because of his haughty, lordly manner he was known as "Prince John." He served under General Pillow in the Mexican war. When Magruder seceded, he resigned and became a Captain of Artillery. In June, 1862, he was promoted to Major-General. At the close of the war he escaped to Mexico and joined Maximillian's forces. After the execution of that leader he returned to the United States, settled in Houston, Texas, where he died February 19, 1871.

Lieutenant-General Leonidas Polk, known as the "soldier-bishop," was born at Raleigh, N. C., April 10, 1806, graduating from West Point in 1827. The opposition of Bragg to him affected the brilliancy of his record somewhat, but he had the courage of his convictions and did good service. He was killed at Pine Mountain, May 14, 1864.

General Sterling Price won the soubriquet during the Civil war of the "Hero of Missouri." He was born in Prince Edward County, Virginia, September 11, 1809. In 1831 he settled in Charlton County, Missouri. From 1840 to '44 he was Speaker of the Missouri Legislature. In '45 he was elected to Congress, but resigned in the following year to enter the Mexican war. From '53 to '57 he was Governor of Missouri. He joined the Confederate army, and at the end of the war escaped to Mexico He returned to Missouri in 1866, and died suddenly in St. Louis, September 29, 1867.

Major-General Oliver Otis Howard, the brave officer and Christian gentleman, was born in Leeds, Me., November 8, 1830. From Bowdoin College he went to West Point, graduating in 1850. He entered the war of the rebellion at the head of a Maine regiment. At Fair Oaks he lost his right arm. He has rendered invaluable military service to the country, and is one of the most beloved and popular generals in the service to-day.

General John Brown Gordon was born in Upson County, Georgia, February 6, 1832. He was a prominent figure in the Confederate service, fighting some hard battles and enduring some fearful service. At the close of the war he was elected Governor of Georgia, but counted out by Bullock, the Republican. In 1873 he was elected to the United States Senate; was re-elected in 1879. In 1880 he resigned, and was elected Governor of Georgia in 1886.

Major-General Quincy Adams Gillmore was born in Black River, Lorain County, Ohio, February 28, 1825, and graduated at the head of his class from West Point, July 1, 1849. He was a noted engineer, and rendered his country much valuable service in that direction during the civil war. He died in Brooklyn, N. Y., April 7, 1888.

"Fighting Joe Hooker" was born November 13, 1814, in Hadley, Mass. He graduated from West Point in 1837. In 1853 he resigned from the army. At the breaking out of the war of the rebellion he was made a Brigadier-General. He was badly wounded several times, and retired from the army with the rank of Major-General. He died at Garden City, near New York, October 31, 1879.

General Albert Sidney Johnston was known as one of the most gifted and daring of the officers in the Confederate service. He was born at Washington, Ky., February 3, 1803, and graduated from West Point in 1826. He had a long military service, and was a leader in the Rebel army. He was killed at the battle of Shiloh.

General John Hunt Morgan was born in Huntsville, Ala., June 1, 1826. He served in the Mexican war, and at the commencement of the civil strife became a Captain of Kentucky volunteers. He was a bold, dashing and fearless officer. He was shot and killed while making a dash for liberty after his capture by Union troops.

Major-General John Clifford Pemberton was born on August 10, 1814, in the city of Philadelphia. He graduated from West Point in 1837. He served in the Mexican war and in the war of the rebellion. He died at Penllyn, Pa, July 13, 1881.

Major-General Wade Hampton was born in Columbia, S. C., in 1818. When the civil war began he enlisted as a private in the Confederate service, doing much effective work for his cause in the Maryland and Peninsular campaigns At the close of the war he settled down to commercial pursuits, until elected to the United States Senate, where he proved himself a loyal and industrious legislator.

General Ambrose Everett Burnside was born May 23, 1824, at Liberty, Ind. He had learned the tailor's trade, but entered West Point in 1847, and graduated near the close of the Mexican war. He was one of the first in the field at the breaking out of the war of the rebellion, and participated in many of its leading battles. At the close of the war he was elected Governor of Rhode Island three successive terms, and two terms as United States Senator. He died at Bristol, R. I, Sept. 3, 1881.

Major-General William Starke Rosecrans was born at Kingston, Ohio, September 6, 1819. He was sent to West Point, from which institution he graduated in 1842, and remained as instructor until 1847. His military service is as long as the number of his years. During the war of the rebellion his record was a brilliant one. In 1867 he declined the Democratic nomination for Governor of Ohio. In the following year he was appointed Minister to Mexico, and in '69 resigned and was again nominated for Governor of Ohio, but declined again. In 1876 he was elected to Congress from Nevada, and served until 1885, and in the following year was appointed Register of the United States Treasury.

Lieutenant-General Ambrose Powell Hill was born in Culpepper County, Virginia, Nov. 9, 1825, near Petersburg, where he fought his last battle. He graduated from West Point in 1847, and served with great credit in the Mexican war. He identified himself with the Confederate cause. He was in the seven days' battle before Richmond, and covered himself all over with glory and distinction. He was wounded at Chancellorsville, but recovered, and fell before Petersburg in April, 1865.

General James Ewell Brown Stuart was a Virginian by birth, and graduated from the West Point Academy in 1854. He resigned from the army to join with the Confederates, and participated in many of the battles made famous by Stonewall Jackson. The daring deeds of Stuart's cavalry form a bright page of his military record and of southern history. He received a terrible wound in the Wilderness battle, and died in Richmond on May 11, 1864.

General Nathaniel P. Banks is one of the men known to history as a soldier-statesman. Born in Waltham, Mass., in January, 1816, he learned the trade of machinist became editor of the village newspaper. Gave it up to study law, and when he began its practice was elected to the Massachusetts legislature In 1851-52 he was speaker of the lower house, and in 1853 was sent to Congress, in the following year being elected presiding officer of the House of Representatives. He served three terms as Governor of Massachusetts. He was a Major-General during the war of the rebellion, and retired with credit to himself and the State he represented. He was a member of Congress for thirteen su cessive terms. Died in Waltham, Mass., September 1, 1894.

Rear-Admiral Andrew Hull Foote was born at New Haven, Conn., Sept. 12, 1806. He entered the naval service on his fifteenth birthday and steadily worked his way up to places of honor by his skill and ability. He died in New York City June 26, 1863.

General William J. Hardee was born in Savannah, Georgia, about the year 1817. He graduated from West Point in 1838. He served in all the wars up to the civil war, at the breaking out of which he joined the Confederate forces. Hardee's tactics were the standard for the United States Army at one time. He died at Hydesville, Va., in 1873.

General Joseph Eggleston Johnston was born in Longville, Va., February 3, 1809. He graduated in the class with General Robert E. Lee, in 1829, and remained in the army until 1837. After the Seminole he served in the Florida and Mexican wars, and became a conspicuous figure in the war of the rebellion. At its close he became president of an Arkansas railroad, and in 1887 he was appointed Commissioner of Railroads by President Cleveland.

General Nathaniel Lyon was born at Ashford, Conn., July 14, 1818. He entered West Point and graduated in 1841. He soon after went into the Seminole war in Florida, and in the Mexican war served under Generals Scott and Worth. In the war of the rebellion he was a conspicuous figure in Missouri. He was killed in battle, and by his will left his estate to the Government to aid the cause of freedom.

General Nathan Bedford Forrest was born in Bedford County, Tennessee, July 13, 1821. He was a typical southerner, had had few advantages, but was noted for his boldness and daring. He squandered a fortune in the Confederate cause. For bravery at Fort Pillow he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-General. He died in October, 1877.

Jews.

The seventy years captivity of the Jews began 606 before Christ; they about Cyrene, headed by one Andree, murdered nearly 100,000 Greeks and Romans; they ate their entrails, and covered themselves with the skins of those they assassinated, 115 after Christ; above 580,000 destroyed by the Romans, 135; first arrived in England, 1079; every Jew, who lent money on usury, was commanded to wear a plate upon his breast, signifying that he was an usurer, or quit the realm, 1274; 267 were hanged and quartered for clipping, 1277; the same year the Jews crucified a child at Northampton, for which fifty were drawn on horses' tails, and hanged; all the synagogues were ordered to be destroyed, 1282; all the Jews in England were apprehended in one day, their goods and chattels confiscated to the king, and they, to the number of 15,660, banished the realm, having only sustenance money allowed, 1287; they remained banished 364 years, till Oliver Cromwell restored them; a general massacre of them at Verdun by the peasants, who, from a pretended prophecy, conceived the Holy Land was to be recovered from the infidels by them; 500 of these Jews took shelter in a castle, and defended themselves to the last extremity, when, for want of weapons, they threw their children at the enemy, and then killed each other, 1317; driven out of France, 1394; driven out of Spain, to the number of 150,000, 1492; they retired to Africa, Portugal, and France. It was against them that the inquisition was there first established. There was not a Jew in this island from 1610 to 1624. Act passed to naturalize them, 1753, but repealed on the petition of all the cities in England in 1754.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

A DECLARATION BY THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterlyneglected to attend to

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise, the State remaining, in the mean time, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners, refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries. He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance. He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation-

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury: For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people. He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren.

We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts made by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in GENERAL CONGRESS assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And, for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of DIVINE PROVIDENCE, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

The foregoing declaration was, by order of Congress, engrossed and

Brief Biographical Sketches

OF THE SIGNERS OF THE

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

Benjamin Franklin, born in Boston in 1706, was bred a printer, and became agent in England for some of the Colonies. He was elected to Congress in 1775, signed the Declaration, and soon afterward went to France as American commissioner. He returned to his native country in 1785, and died in Philadelphia in April, 1790.

John Hancock, the great social and political leader in Massachusetts during the Revolution, was born at Quincy, Massachusetts, in 1737. He became a Boston merchant, was elected President of the Continental Congress in 1775, and held that position when the great Declaration was adopted. He was afterward for many years Governor of Massachusetts, and died in 1814.

Samuel Chase, of Maryland, was born in April, 1741, became an eminent lawyer of Annapolis, and was chosen a member of the Continental Congress in 1774. He was afterward made chief justice of the supreme court of Maryland, and was elevated to the United States Supreme Court bench in 1796. He died in June, 1811.

William Paca, was born at Hertford, Maryland, in 1740, was educated in Philadelphia, and studied law in Annapolis. He was a delegate from Maryland to the First Congress in 1774, and in 1774 was elected chief justice of Maryland. He became Governor of Maryland in 1782, a district judge in 1789, and died in 1799.

Thomas Stone was born in Maryland in 1740. He was a lawyer by profession, and entered Congress in May, 1775. He was on the committee for devising a plan for a national government in 1776, and was President of Congress, pro tempore, in 1784. He did good service for his State, and died in 1787.

Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, was born at Annapolis in 1731. All through the war he was one of the stanchest supporters of the cause of his countrymen. He entered Congress on July 4, 1776, and signed the Declaration the same day. He survived all the other signers of the Declaration of Independence, dying in 1826.

George Wythe, born in Elizabeth County, Virginia, in 1726, became one of the ablest lawyers of that State. He was one of the representatives of Virginia in Congress in 1775, and with Jefferson and others revised the laws of Virginia soon after the Declaration. He was Chancellor of Virginia for twenty years, dying in 1794.

Richard Henry Lee, of Virginia, distinguished as the author of the resolution declaring the independence of the Colonies, was a delegate to the First Continental Congress in 1774, and was in his forty-fourth year when he signed the Declaration. He was chosen President of Congress in 1784, and died at Chantilly ten years later.

Thomas Jefferson was just thirty-three years of age when, as a delegate from Virginia, he signed the Declaration of Independence, which was drawn up by his own hand. His splendid services to his country, as Governor of Virginia and as President of the United States, are as familiar to all Americans as household words.

Benjamin Harrison was born in Virginia in 1743, and began his political career in the Virginia Legislature in 1764. He was a delegate to the First Continental Congress in 1774, and remained in Congress until 1777. He was chosen speaker of the Virginia Assembly in 1778, Governor of Virginia in 1782, and died in 1791.

Thomas Nelson, Jr., was born at York, Virginia, in 1738. He was educated in England, and was elected a delegate to Congress in 1775. He succeeded Thomas Jefferson as Governor of Virginia in 1781, and was actively engaged in military life at the time when Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown. He died in January, 1789.

Francis Lightfoot Lee, of Virginia, the brother of Richard Henry Lee, was born in 1732. After serving in the Virginia House of Burgesses, he was elected to the Continental Congress in 1775, representing his State in that body until 1779. Mr. Lee, who was a general favorite, died of pleurisy at Richmond, Virginia, in April, 1791.

Robert Morris was born in England in 1733, was educated in Philadelphia, and early entered a commercial life. He was elected to Congress from Pennsylvania in 1776, and was the leading financier of the Revolution. He lost a vast fortune in his old age, was in a Philadelphia jail for debt, and died in 1806.

Benjamin Rush, born near Philadelphia in 1743, was educated at Princeton, and after pursuing his medical studies at Edinburgh and other European seats of learning, became a distinguished physician of Philadelphia. He entered Congress in 1776, was surgeon-general of the middle department in 1777, and continued active in public life till his death in 1813.

George Clymer was born at Philadelphia in 1739, and entered Congress late in July, 1776, as one of the representatives of Pennsylvania to fill the places of those who declined to vote for the Declaration of Independence. He signed the great national document on August 2, 1776. After filling many high offices, he died in 1813.

James Smith was born in Ireland about the year 1720, and was educated for the bar in Philadelphia. He raised the first volunteer company for the war, in Pennsylvania, in 1774, and signed the Declaration on August 2, 1776. He was droll and eccentric, but one of the most popular men of his time. He died in 1806.

George Taylor was born in Ireland in 1714, and began life in America as a laborer in an iron foundry at Durham, Pennsylvania, in 1734. He acquired a fortune, became county judge and colonel of militia, and was elected to Congress in July, 1776, signing the Declaration eleven days later. He died at Easton in 1781.

James Wilson was born in Scotland in 1742, and arrived in Philadelphia in 1766, where he became classical teacher in the college. He was admitted to the bar in 1768, and in 1775 entered Congress, being one of the strongest advocates of the Declaration of Independence. He became a supreme court judge, and died in 1798.

George Ross was born at Newcastle, Delaware, in 1730, and settled in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, as a lawyer. He was a delegate to the Continental Congress of 1774, and in the Congress of 1776 signed the Declaration. He was raised to the judicial bench of Pennsylvania in the spring of 1779, and died the same year.

George Read, who entered the First Continental Congress as the representative of the three lower counties of Pennsylvania, was born in Maryland in 1733. He drew up the constitution of Delaware on its organization as a State in 1776, and next year was elected its Vice-President. He was afterward chief justice, and died in 1798.

Thomas McKean, who represented what is now the State of Delaware in the Continental Congress during the entire war period, was born in 1733. He was made President of Congress in 1781, and was the first President of the State of Delaware. He was Governor of Pennsylvania from 1799 till 1808, and died in 1817.

William Floyd, of Long Island, whose name appears at the head of the signatures of the New York delegation affixed to the Declaration of Independence, was born in 1734. He was several times re-elected to Congress, and was for various terms a member of the senate of the State of New York. He died in 1821.

Philip Livingston, of New York, was born at Albany in 1716. He became one of the leading merchants of New York, and was a member of the First and Second Continental Congresses, and was sixty years of age when he signed the Declaration of Independence. He was elected to Congress in 1778, and died the same year.

Francis Lewis, of New York, was sixty-three years of age when he signed the Declaration of Independence. He was born at Landaff, Wales, in 1713, came to America when twenty-one years of age, and engaged extensively in foreign trade. Reduced from affluence almost to poverty through the persecution of the Tories, he died in 1803.

Lewis Morris, who signed the Declaration when a British army was within a few miles of his estate and three war-ships were within range of his dwelling, was born at Morrisania, New York, in 1726. His estate on Long Island was a special mark for the ravages of the invaders. He died in 1817.

Richard Stockton was born near Princeton, New Jersey, in 1730, and was one of the most brilliant lawyers of his time. He entered Congress in 1776, and his valuable estate was desolated by the loyalists toward the close of that year. He suffered severely in body from the brutal treatment of the enemy, and died in 1781.

John Witherspoon, a lineal descendent of John Knox, was born near Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1722. He served as chaplain to the Young Pretender, and was called to the presidency of Princeton College in 1767. He took a seat in Congress in time to sign the Declaration, and served faithfully for six years. He died in 1794.

Francis Hopkinson, no less noted as a poet, artist, and musician than as a statesman, was in his thirty-ninth year when he signed the Declaration of Incependence. He was one of the most enthusiastic patriots of his time, and made for himself a distinguished and honorable record in Congress. He died in 1791.

Abraham Clark, of New Jersey, was born in 1726. Entering the Continental Congress toward the end of June, 1776, he signed the Declaration the following month. Mr. Clark, who did efficient work for his country in the realms of finance, retired from public life in 1794, and died of sunstroke in the autumn of the next year.

Josiah Bartlett was born at Amesbury, Massachusetts, in 1729. He was a physician, and commenced practice at Kingston, New Hampshire. He was a member of the committee of safety in 1775, and signed the Declaration as a representative of New Hampshire. He subsequently was elected Governor of New Hampshire, and died in May, 1795.

William Whipple was born at Kittery, Maine, in 1730, and commenced business as a merchant in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, in 1759. He was elected to Congress from New Hampshire in 1776, was a brigadier of militia in 1777, and helped to escort Burgoyne's captive army to Boston. He was afterward a judge, and died in 1785.

Samuel Adams, born in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1722, was educated for the ministry, but took to politics from preference. He was elected a delegate to the First Congress in 1774, and was one of the stanchest supporters of his country's cause during the whole struggle. He was chosen Governor of Massachusetts, and died in 1803.

John Adams was born at Quincy, Massachusetts, in 1735. A lawyer by profession, he was elected to Congress in 1774, and was among the strongest advocates of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. He was the first United States minister to Britain, was elected Vice-President with Washington, and President in 1797. He died in 1826.

Robert Treat Paine was born in Boston in 1730. He studied theology, but afterward entered the legal profession. He was elected to Congress in 1774, and took a prominent part in its deliberations until 1778. He was attorney-general of Massachusetts, and afterward justice of the supreme court of that State. He died in 1814.

Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, was the fifth delegate to sign the Declaration. He was born in 1745, and after serving two years in the General Assembly of Massachusetts, he entered Congress in May, 1775. Mr. Gerry was elected Governor of Massachusetts in 1811 and Vice-President of the United States in 1812. He died in 1814.

Stephen Hopkins, of Rhode Island, was nearly seventy years of age when, with a hand shaking with palsy, he subscribed his name to the Declaration of Independence. Bred as a farmer, he rose step by step from town clerk to be Governor of his State, and, after a life of extraordinary usefulness, died in 1785.

William Ellery, of Rhode Island, one of the foremost patriots of that little Colony, was born in 1727. He was elected to the Continental Congress as the colleague of Stephen Hopkins in May, 1776. Mr. Ellery, who suffered much from the ravages of war, continued to represent his State until 1785. He died in 1819.

Roger Sherman was born at Newton, near Boston, in 1721. He was bred a shoemaker, but became a lawyer, and early in life was raised to the judicial bench of Connecticut. He entered Congress in 1775, and was a member of the committee that drafted the Declaration of Independence. He died at New Haven in 1793.

Samuel Huntington was born at Windham, Connecticut, in 1732. Educated as a lawyer, he was appointed king's attorney, and soon afterward was raised to the bench of the superior court. He was elected to Congress in 1775, and was chosen President of that body in 1779. He was afterward Governor of Connecticut, and died in 1796.

William Williams was born at Lebanon, Connecticut, in 1731, and was educated for the ministry. He preferred a military life, however, and took part in the frontier wars in New York, in 1755. He was a member of the Connecticut Legislature for forty-five years, was elected to Congress in 1776, and died in 1811.

Oliver Wolcott was born in Connecticut in 1726, and educated at Yale He entered Congress in 1776, and was one of the most active patriots of his time. While in command of the Connecticut volunteers he assisted in the capture of Burgoyne. He was elected Governor of Connecticut in 1796, and died the following year.

William Hooper was born in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1742. He commenced the practice of law at Wilmington, North Carolina, in 1767, was a member of the Legislature of that State in 1773, and represented North Carolina in the First Continental Congress in 1774. He resigned his seat soon after signing the Declaration, and died in 1790.

Joseph Hewes, the son of a New Jersey Quaker, was born in 1730, and about the year 1760 settled as a merchant at Edenton, North Carolina. After doing good service in the Colonial Legislature he was elected as the first representative of North Carolina to the Continental Congress. He died in Philadelphia in December, 1779.

Button Gwinnett was born in Wales in 1732. He emigrated to this country early in life, and was elected to Congress as a delegate from Georgia in 1776. A mortal animosity sprang up between him and General McIntosh, of the same State, which ended in a duel in which Gwinnett was killed on May 27, 1777.

Lyman Hall, born in Connecticut in 1781, was elected to the Continental Congress to represent a patriotic parish of Georgia at a time when many of the people of that State were bent on adhering to the crown. Much of his time was devoted to furthering the interests of education and religion. He died in 1791.

Edward Rutledge was born in Charleston, South Carolina, in 1749, and in 1775 was one of the representatives of that State in Congress. He was a member of the first board of war in 1776, and in 1780 was a prisoner of war at Charleston. He was Governor of South Carolina in 1798, and died in 1800.

George Walton was born in Frederick County, Virginia, in 1740. He learned the trade of a carpenter, but later became a lawyer in Georgia. He was a delegate to Congress from Georgia in 1776, and remained in that body until 1781. He was twice Governor of the State, and once United States Senator. He died in 1804.

Thomas Heyward, Jr., of South Carolina, was born in 1740. He was the son of a wealthy planter, and after completing his studies in Europe, was sent, on his return, to the Continental Congress in 1775. After years of untiring activity in civil and military duties, he withdrew from public life in 1791, and died in 1809.

Thomas Lynch, Jr., who was only twenty-seven years of age when he signed the Declaration, was born on the banks of the North Santee River in South Carolina. He took his dying father's seat in Congress in 1776. He was drowned, while on a voyage to St. Eustatia in search of health, in 1779, Arthur Middleton, of South Carolina, was born near the banks of the Ashley River in 1743, and graduated from Cambridge University, England, in 1765. He was a delegate in Congress in July, 1776, and signed the Declaration. He took up arms in 1780, but was early made prisoner. He again served in Congress, and died in 1788.

John Hart, of Hopewell, New Jersey, known to his farmer neighbors as "Honest John Hart," entered the First Continental Congress in 1774. Although an aged man, he was an object of special vengeance to the adherents of the crown, and was hunted in the forest like a wild beast. He died in May, 1779.

John Penn, who was born in Virginia in 1741, entered the Continental Congress as a delegate from North Carolina early in the autumn of 1775. He was a distinguished lawyer, orator, and patriot, and signed the Declaration with alacrity. He remained in Congress until 1780. After the war he retired to private life, and died in 1788.

John Morton was born at Chester, Pennsylvania, in 1724. He was a member of the "Stamp-Act Congress," and eleven years later signed the Declaration of Independence. He was speaker of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania and a justice of the supreme court of that State. He entered Congress in 1774, and died in April, 1777.

Carter Braxton, of Virginia, was the son of a wealthy planter. He was born in 1736, became a member of the last House of Burgesses of Virginia in 1774, and was elected to the Continental Congress in 1775, signing the Declaration of Independence the next year. He died of paralysis in his sixty-first year.

Cæsar Rodney, whose father came to America with William Penn, was born in Delaware about the year 1730. He was a member of the "Stamp-Act Congress," and was a delegate in the First Continental Congress in 1774, laboring hard for that independence, of which he signed the Declaration in 1776. He died in 1783.

Matthew Thornton was born in Ireland in 1714, and came to America at an early age. He studied medicine, and commenced its practice at Londonderry, New Hampshire. He was only in Congress for a short time late in the autumn of 1776, and was the last signer of the Declaration of Independence. He died in 1803.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

PREAMBLE.

WE, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America:

ARTICLE I. LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

SECTION I. Congress in General.

All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SECTION II. House of Representatives.

Clause 1. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States; and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

Clause 2. No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Clause 3. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

Clause 4. When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies

Clause 5. The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SECTION III.

Clause 1. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote.

*Clause 2. Immediately after they shall be assembled, in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the

UNITED STATES FLAG.

In June, 1776, a committee was appointed by the Continental Congress to design a flag for the new government about to go into operation. Col. Geo. Ross was on this committee, who, accompanied by George Washington, called upon an upholsterer residing at No. 239 Arch street, Philadelphia, named Mrs. Ross, to instruct her how to make the new flag. Washington himself made a drawing of the flag in her parlor, and, while doing this, took some suggestions from her as to its design. She said that the stars should be five-cornered, instead of six-cornered, as Washington had made them. This and other changes were accepted by Washington. This ingenious lady made the first flag, and several others afterward, finishing them up in a very artistic and superior manner, entirely satisfactory to those who had the honor of first lifting them to the breeze.

fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

Clause 3. No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

Clause 4. The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

Clause 5. The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

Clause 6. The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Clause 7. Judgment in case of impeachment shall not extend farther than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

SECTION IV. Both Houses.

Clause 1. The times, places, and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the place of choosing senators.

Clause 2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year; and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SECTION V.

Clause 1. Each House shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Clause 2. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Clause 3. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Clause 4. Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SECTION VI.

Clause 1. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Clause 2. No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SECTION VII. Mode of Passing Laws.

Clause 1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Clause 3. Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SECTION VIII.

The Congress shall have power—

Mause 1. To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States:

Clause 2.

To borrow money on the credit of the United States: To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the Clause 3. several States, and with the Indian Tribes:

Clause 4. To establish a uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States:

Clause 5. To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures:

Clause 6. To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States:

Clause 7. To establish post-offices and post-roads:

Clause 8. To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing, for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries.

To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court: Clause 10. To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations:

Clause 11. To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water:

Clause 12. To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years:

Clause 13. To provide and maintain a navy:

To make rules for the government and regulation of the Clause 14. land and naval forces:

Clause 15. To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws

- of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions:

Clause 16. To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress:

Clause 17. To exercise exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings: and,

Clause 18. To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SECTION IX. Powers denied to the United States.

The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight; but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

Clause 2. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

Clause 3. No bill of attainder, or ex-post-facto law shall be passed.

Clause 4. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census of enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

Clause 5. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in Clause 6. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

Clause 7. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign

SECTION X.

Clause 1. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex-post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

Clause 2. No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.—Section I.

Clause 1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Clause 2. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

Clause 3 has been superseded by the 12th Article of Amendments.

Clause 3 has been superseded by the 12th Article of Amendments.

Clause 3. "The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate ate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately chuse by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner chuse the President. But in chusing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a number of members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall chuse from them by ballot the Vice-President.)

Clause 3. The Congress may determine the time of choosing the Elect-

Clause 3. The Congress may determine the time of choosing the Electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

Clause 4. No person, except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen or the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

Clause 5. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the power and duties of said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

Clause 6. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Clause 7. Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation :-

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SECTION II.

Clause 1. The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

Clause 2. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

Clause 3. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SECTION III.

He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and, in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors, and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

Section IV. Impeachment of the President.

The President, Vice-President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III. JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

SECTION I. United States Courts.

The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior; and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

Section II. Jurisdiction of the United States Courts.

Clause 1. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States; and between a State or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

Clause 2. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

Clause 3. The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SECTION III.

Clause 1. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Clause 2. The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attained.

ARTICLE IV. SECTION I.

Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SECTION II.

Clause 1. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

Clause 2. A person charged in any State of treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall, on the demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

Clause 3. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SECTION III. New States and Territories.

Clause 1. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor shall any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the Congress.

Clause 2. The Congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular State.

SECTION IV. Guarantee to the States.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution; or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

Clause 1. All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation.

Clause 2. This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

Clause 3. The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII. RATIFICATION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in convention, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

THE PRESIDENTS

-OF THE-

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

(FIRST PRESIDENT-TWO TERMS.)

George Washington was born on the Potomac river, in Westmoreland county, Virginia, February 22d, 1732, and died December 14, 1799. In 1754 he was made Lieutenant-Colonel of the militia, and accompanied Braddock in his expedition against Fort Duquesne in 1755. In the same year he was made Commander-in-Chief of the military forces of the Colony of Virginia, and in 1787 he was unanimously chosen president of the Convention that met to frame a Constitution. He was inaugurated first President of the United States, April 30, 1789; and, being re-elected, he held the office until 1797. In 1788 and in 1792 he was again chosen President of the United States, but, conceiving it to be a dangerous precedent to serve more than two terms, he patriotically declined a third election. In early life he followed the occupation of an engineer. He was married to Miss Martha Custis, in January, 1759. Congress unanimously elected him commander of the revolutionary forces, and he took active command July 2, 1775, and held supreme military control throughout the struggle for independence.

With George Washington for our first President, we began our new experiment in the manner of choosing rulers, taking the surest possible mode, as all the world then thought, of selecting a good man and the one best adapted to the position.

Washington was left fatherless at eleven years of age; his education was directed by his mother, a woman of strong character, who kindly, but firmly, exacted the most implicit obedience. Of her Washington learned his first lessons of self-command. His favorite amusements were of a military character; he made soldiers of his playmates, and officered all the mock parades. His inherited wealth was great, and the antiquity of his family gave him high social rank. On his Potomac farms he had hundreds of slaves, and at his Mount Vernon home he was like the prince of a wide domain, free from dependence or restraint. He was fond of equipage and the appurtenances of high life. Although he always rode on horseback, his family had a "chariot and four," with "black postillions in scarlet and white livery." This generous style of living, added perhaps to his native reserve, exposed him to the charge of aristocratic feeling. While at his home he spent much of his time in riding and hunting. He rose early, ate his breakfast of corn-cake, honey, and tea, and then rode about his estates. He spent his evenings with his family around the blazing hearth, retiring between nine and ten. He loved to linger at the table, cracking nuts and relating his adventures. In personal appearance, Washington was over six feet in height, robust, graceful, and perfectly erect. His manner was formal and dignified. He was more solid than brilliant, and had more judgment than genius. He had great dread of public life, cared little for books, and had no library. Washington was a consistent Christian, and a regular attendant of the Episcopal church, of which he was a communicant. He was a firm advocate of free institutions, but believed in a strong government and strictly enforced laws. As a President, he carefully weighed his decisions, but, his policy once settled, he pursued it with steadiness and dignity, however great might be the opposition. As an officer he was brave, enterprising, and cautious. His campaigns were rarely startling, but they were always judicious. He was capable of great endurance. Calm in defeat, sober in victory, commanding at all times, but irresistible when aroused, he exercised equal authority over himself and his army. His last illness was very brief, and his closing hours were marked by his usual calmness and dignity. "I die hard," he said, "but I am not afraid to go." Europe and America vied in tributes to his memory. Said Lord Brougham, "Until time shall be no more, a test of the progress which our race has made in wisdom and virtue will be derived from the veneration paid to the immortal name of Washington." Washing-ton left no children. It has been beautifully said, "Providence left him childless that his country might call him father."

JOHN ADAMS.

(SECOND PRESIDENT.)

JOHN ADAMS was born in Braintree, Mass., October, 1735, and died 1826. He graduated at Harvard College in 1755, and abandoned the idea of becoming a minister of the gospel, was admitted to the bar in 1758. He was one of the delegates first sent to the Continental Congress from Massachusetts. In 1776 he was made President of the Board of War, and went to France as a Commissioner in 1777. He served as President of the United States from 1797 to 1801. He was a member of the first and second Congresses, and nominated Washington as commander-in-chief. Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, but Adams secured its adoption in a three days' debate. He was a tireless worker, and had the reputation of having the clearest head and firmest heart of any man in Congress. In his position as President he lost the reputation he had gained as Congressman. His enemies accused him of being a bad judge of men; of clinging to old unpopular notions, and of having little control over his temper. They also ridiculed his egotism, which they declared to be inordinate. He lived, however, to see the prejudice against his administration give place to a more just estimate of his great worth and exalted integrity. As a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, he was honored as one of the fathers of the republic. Adams and Jefferson were firm friends during the Revolution, but political strife alienated them. On their return to private life they became reconciled. They died on the same day—the fiftieth anniversary of American independence. Adams' last words were, "Thomas Jefferson still survives." Jefferson was, however, already lying dead in his Virginia home. Thus, by the passing away of these two remarkable men, was made memorable the 4th of July, 1826.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

(THIRD PRESIDENT.)

Thomas Jefferson was born at Shadwell, Virginia, April 2d, 1743; and died July 4, 1826. After graduating from William and Mary College, he adopted the profession of the law.

"Of all the public men who have figured in the United States," says Parton, "he was incomparably the best scholar and the most variously accomplished man." He was a bold horseman, a skillful hunter, an elegant penman, a fine violinist, a brilliant talker, a superior classical scholar, and a proficient in the modern languages. On account of his talent, he was styled "The Sage of Monticello." The immortal document, the Declaration of Independence, was, with the exception of a few words, entirely his work. He was an ardent supporter of the doctrine of State rights, and led the opposition to the Federalists. After he became President, however, he found the difficulty of administering the government dent, however, he round the difficulty of administering the government upon that theory. "The executive authority had to be stretched until it cracked, to cover the purchase of Louisiana;" and he became convinced on other occasions that the federal government, to use his own expression, "must show its teeth." Like Washington, he was of aristocratic birth, but his principles were intensely democratic. He hated ceremonies and titles; even "Mr." was distasteful to him. These traits were the more remarkable to one of his superior birth and education, and peculiarly endeared him to the common people. Coming into power on a wave of popularity, he studiously sought to retain this favor. There were no more brilliant levees or courtly ceremonies as in the days of Washington and Adams. On his inauguration day, he rode down to Congress unattended, and, leaping from his horse, hitched it, and went into the chamber dressed in plain clothes, to read his fifteen minutes' inaugural. Some of the sentences of that short but memorable address have passed into proverbs. The unostentatious example thus set by the nation's President was wise in its effects. Soon the public debt was diminished, the army and navy reduced, and the Treasury replenished. A man of such marked character necessarily made bitter enemies, but Jefferson commanded the respect of even his opponents, while the admiration of his friends was unbounded. The last seventeen years of his life were spent at Monticello, near the place of his birth. By his profuse hospitality, he had, before his death, spent his vast estates. He died poor in money, but rich in honor. His last words were, "This is the fourth day of July."

JAMES MADISON.

(FOURTH PRESIDENT.-Two TERMS.)

James Madison was born in King George county, Virginia, March 16, 1751, and died in 1836. He graduated at Princeton College in 1778, after which he studied law; and from 1809 to 1817 he was President of the United States. In Congress in 1789 he became one of the strongest advocates of the Constitution, and did much to secure its adoption. From his political principles he was obliged, though relucantly, to oppose Washington's administration, which he did in a courteous and temperate manner. He led his party in Congress, where he remained till 1797. The next year he drafted the famous "1798-99 Resolutions," enunciating the doctrines of State rights, which, with the accompanying "Report" in their defense, have been the great text-book of the Democratic party. He was Secretary of State to Jefferson. After his Presidential services, he retired from public station. Madison's success was not so much the result of a great natural ability as of intense application and severe accuracy. His mind was strong, clear, and well balanced, and his memory was wonderful. Like John Quincy Adams, he had laid up great store of learning, which he used in the most skillful manner. He always exhausted the subject upon which he spoke. "When he had finished, nothing remained to be said." His private character was spotless. His manner was simple, modest, and uniformly courteous to his opponents. He enjoyed wit and humor, and told a story admirably. His sunny temper remained with him to the last. Some friends coming to visit him during his final illness, he sank smillingly back on his couch, saying, "I always talk better when I lie." It has been said of him, "It was his rare good fortune to have a whole nation for his friends."

JAMES MONROE.

(FIFTH PRESIDENT.—Two TERMS.)

James Monroe was born in Westmoreland county, Virginia, April 28, 1758, and died in the city of New York, July 4, 1831. He filled the office of President of the United States from the year 1817 to 1825. As a soldier under General Washington he bore a brave record, and especially distinguished himself in the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, and Monmouth. Afterward he studied law, and entered political life. Having been sent by Washington as Minister to France, he showed such may be sympathy with that country as to displease the President and his cabilet, who were just concluding a treaty with England, and wished to preserve a strictly neutral policy. He was therefore recalled. Under Jefferson, who was his warm friend, he was again sent to France in 1803, when he secured the purchase of Louisiana. He is said to have always taken particular pride in this transaction, regarding his part in it as among the most important of his public services. Soon after his inauguration as President, he visited the military posts in the north and east, with a view to thorough acquaintance with the capabilities of the country in the event of future hostilities. This tour was a great success. He wore a blue military coat of home-spun, light-colored breeches, and a cocked hat, being the undress uniform of a Revolutionary officer. Thus was the nation reminded of his former military services. This, with his plain, unassuming manners, completely won the hearts of the people, and brought an overwhelming majority to the support of the administration. Monroe was a man more prudent than brilliant, who acted with a single eye to the welfare of the country. Jefferson said of him: "If his soul were turned inside out, not a spot could be found on it." Like that beloved friend, he died "poor in money, but rich in honor," and like him also, he passed away on the anniversary of the independence of the country he served so faithfully.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

(SIXTH PRESIDENT.)

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS was born at Braintree, Mass., July 11, 1767, and died at Washington, February 23, 1848. He was President from 1825 to 1829.

John Q. Adams was a man of learning, of blameless reputation and unquestioned patriotism, though as President he was hardly more successful than his father. This was, doubtless, owing greatly to the fierce opposition which assailed him from the friends of disappointed candidates, who at once combined to weaken his measures and prevent his re-election. Their candidate was Andrew Jackson, a man whose dashing boldness, energy and decision attracted the popular masses, and hid the more quiet virtues of Adams. To add to his perplexities, a majority of the House, and nearly one-half of the Senate, favored the new party; and his own Vice-President, John C. Calhoun, was also the candidate of the opposi-tion, and of course committed to it. To stem such a tide was a hopeless effort. In two years Adams was returned to Congress, where he remained until his death, over sixteen years afterward. Ten years of public service were thus rendered after he had passed his "three-score years and ten," and so great was his ability in debate at this extreme age, that he was called "the old man eloquent." Like his father, he was a wonderful worker, and his mind was a complete store-house of facts. He lived economically, and left a large estate. He was the congressional advocate of anti-slavery, and a bitter opponent of secret societies. His fame increased with his age, and he died a trusted and revered champion of popular rights. He was seized with paralysis while occupying his seat in Congress, after which he lingered two days in partial unconsciousness. His last words were, "This is the last of earth; I am content."

ANDREW JACKSON.

(SEVENTH PRESIDENT .- TWO TERMS.)

Andrew Jackson was born in Waxhaw settlement, North or South Carolina, March 15, 1767, and died at the Hermitage, near Nashville, June 8, 1845. He served as President of the United States from 1829 to 1837.

The nomination of Presidential candidates by "Convention," as the term is now understood and applied, dates from the year 1832. At the first election Jackson was nominated by the Legislature of Tennessee and other States, as well as by several bodies of citizens and Conventions, but the first regularly constituted Convention of a party as an organized body, and fulfilling all the assumed functions of the old Congressional Caucus, met at Baltimore, on the 22d of May, 1832, and nominated Jackson and Van Buren as the Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President. The Whig candidates, less "regularly" nominated, were Henry Clay and John Sergeant, of Pennsylvania, who were the anti-Masonic candidates. The leading issue of the campaign grew out of the question of the re-charter of the United States Bank, the Whigs favoring and the Democrats opposing it.

Jackson was of Scotch-Irish descent. His father died before he was born, and his mother was very poor. As a boy, Andrew was brave and impetuous, passionately fond of athletic sports, but not at all addicted to books. His life was crowded with excitement and adventure. At fourteen, being captured by the British, he was ordered to clean the commander's boots. Showing the true American spirit in his refusal, he was sent to prison with a wound on head and arm. Here he had the small-pox, which kept him ill for several months. Soon after his mother had effected his exchange, she died of ship-fever while caring for the imprisoned Americans at Charleston. Left entirely destitute, young Jackson tried various employments, but finally settled down to the law, and in 1796 was elected to Congress. His imperious temper and inflexible will supplied him with constant quarrels. Often they were passionate wordcontests, sometimes they became hand-to-hand encounters, and on one occasion a formal duel was fought, in which he killed his adversary, himself being severely wounded. The scars he bore upon his person were of wounds received in private battles, some of which left a mark for life. Jackson first distinguished himself as a military officer in the war against the Creek Indians, which he made a signal victory. His dashing successes in the war of 1812 completed his reputation, and ultimately won him the Presidency. His nomination was at first received in many States with ridicule, as, whatever might be his military prowess, neither his temper nor his ability seemed to recommend him as a statesman. However, his re-election proved his popular success as a President. His chief intellectual gifts were energy and intuitive judgment. He was thoroughly honest, intensely warm-hearted, and had an instinctive horror of debt. His moral courage was as great as his physical, and his patriotism was undoubted. He died at the "Hermitage," his home near Nashville, Tennessee. Jackson and Adams were born the same year, yet how different was their childhood! One born to luxury and travel, a student from his earliest years, and brilliantly educated; the other poor, hating books, and seeking any kind of work to escape from want. Yet they were destined twice to compete for the highest place in the nation. Adams, the first time barely successful, was unfortunate in his administration; Jackson, triumphing the second, was brilliant in his Presidential career.

MARTIN VAN BUREN.

(EIGHTH PRESIDENT.)

MARTIN VAN BUREN was born at Kinderhook, New York, December 5, 1782, and died, at the same place, July 24, 1862. He studied law, and was admitted to practice in 1803; was elected President of the United States, and served four years, from 1837 to 1841. He early took an interest in politics, and in 1818 started a new organization of the Democratic party in New York, his native State, which had the power for over twenty years. In 1831 he was appointed Minister to England, whither he went in September, but when the nomination came before the Senate in December it was rejected, on the ground that he had sided with England against the United States, on certain matters, and had carried party contests and their results into foreign negotiations. His party regarded this as an extreme political persecution, and the next year elected him to the Vice-Presidency. He thus became head of the Senate which a few months before had condemned him, and where he now performed his duties with "dignity, courtesy and impartiality."

As a President, Van Buren was the subject of much partisan censure.

The country was passing through a peculiar crisis, and his was a difficult position to fill with satisfaction to all. That he pleased his own party is proved from the fact of his renomination in 1840 against Harrison. In 1844 he was once more urged by his friends, but failed to get a two-thirds vote in the convention on account of his opposition to the annexation of Texas. In 1848 he became a candidate of the "Free Democracy," a new party, advocating anti-slavery principles. After this he retired to his estate in Kinderhook, N. Y. where he died.

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON.

(NINTH PRESIDENT.)

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON was born in Charles City county, Virginia, February 9, 1773. He entered the army in 1791, after graduating from Hampden-Sydney College. After reaching the grade of Captain he resigned in 1797; was chosen delegate to Congress from the Northwestern Territory in 1797; appointed Governor of Indiana in 1801, and continued to 1813. He was elected President of the United States in 1840, and had scarcely entered upon the duties of his office when he died at Washington, April 4, 1841. In 1812 he distinguished himself during the war, especially in the battle of the Thames. His military reputation made him available as a presidential candidate. His character was unimpeachable, and the chief slur cast upon him by his opponents was that he had lived in a "log cabin," with nothing to drink but "hard cider." His friends turned this to good account. The campaign was noted for immense massmeetings, long processions, song-singing, and general enthusiasm. "Hard cider" became a party watchword, and "log cabins" a regular feature in the popular parades. He was elected by a very large majority, and great. hopes were entertained of his administration. Though advanced in years, he gave promise of endurance. But "he was beset by office-seekers; he was anxious to gratify the numerous friends and supporters who flocked about him; he gave himself incessautly to public business; and at the close of the month he was on a sick bed." His illness was of eight days' duration. His last words were, "The principles of the government, I wish them carried out. I ask nothing more."

JOHN TYLER.

(TENTH PRESIDENT.)

John Tyler was born in Charles City county, Virginia, March 20, 1790, and died at Richmond, Va., January 17, 1862. He studied law, and was elected to Congress in 1816, and served some five years; was elected U. S. Senator in 1827; re-elected in 1833, and was President of the Peace-

Convention at Washington in 1861.

Mr. Tyler became President upon the death of Mr. Harrison as his constitutional successor as Vice-President of the United States. John Tyler was in early life a great admirer of Henry Clay, and is said to have wept with sorrow when the Whigs in convention rejected his favorite candidate for the presidency and selected Harrison. He was nominated Vice-President by a unanimous vote, and was a great favorite with his party. In the popular refrain, "Tippecanoe and Tyler too," the people sung praises to him as heartly as to Harrison himself. The death of Harrison and the succession of Tyler was the first instance of the kind in our history.

Tyler's administration was not successful. He opposed the measures of his party, and made free use of the veto power. His former political friends denounced him as a renegade, to which he replied that he had never professed to endorse the measures which he opposed. The feeling increased in bitterness. All his cabinet, except Webster, resigned. He was, however, nominated by a convention, composed chiefly of office-holders, for the next presidency; he accepted, but, finding no popular support, soon withdrew from the canvass. In 1861 he became the presiding officer of the Peace Convention in Washington. All efforts at reconciliation proving futile, he renounced his allegiance to the United States and followed the Confederate fortunes. He died in Richmond, where he was in attendance as a member of the Confederate Congress.

JAMES K. POLK.

(ELEVENTH PRESIDENT.)

James K. Polk was born in Mecklinburg county, North Carolina, November 2, 1795, and died at Nashville, June 15, 1849. He graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1816, and studied law; was elected to Congress in 1825, and several terms subsequently; chosen. Speaker of the House, 1835 and 1837, and governor of Tennessee in 1839. Mr. Polk was very unexpectedly nominated for President, in Baltimore, on the 27th day of May, 1844. He pleased his party as a candidate, and justified their fondest expectations as a man well worthy and well qualified to fill the office of Chief Magistrate of the United States, who surrounded himself with an able cabinet of counsellors. He served as President from 1845 to 1849.

Mr. Polk was one of the most conspicuous opposers of the administration of J. Q. Adams, and a warm supporter of Jackson. In 1839, having served fourteen years in Congress, he declined a re-election, and was chosen Governor of Tennessee. His presidential nomination, in connection with that of George M. Dallas, of Pennsylvania, as Vice-President, had the effect of uniting the Democratic party, which had been disturbed by dissensions between the friends and opponents of Martin Van Buren. However, the Mexican war, which in many States was strongly opposed, the enactment of a tariff based on a revenue principle instead of a protective one, and the agitation caused by the "Wilmot Proviso," all conspired to affect his popularity before the end of his term. He had, however, previously pledged himself not to be a candidate for re-election. He died about three months after his retirement from office.

ZACHARY TAYLOR.

(TWELFTH PRESIDENT.)

Zachary Taylor was born in Orange county, Virginia, November 24, 1784. He entered upon the duties of President in 1849, and died at the Presidential Mansion July 9, 1850, after an illness of five days. Soon after his birth his parents removed to Kentucky. His means of education were of the scantiest kind, and until he was twenty-four years of age he worked on his father's plantation. Madison, who was a relative, and at that time Secretary of State, then secured for him an appointment in the army as lieutenant. From this he rose by regular and rapid degrees to a major-generalship. His triumphant battles at Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma, Monterey, and Buena Vista, won him great applause. He was the popular hero of a successful war. The soldiers admiringly called him "Old Rough and Ready." Having been offered the nomination for President, he published several letters defining his position as "a whig, but not an ultra-whig," and declaring that he would not be a party candidate or the exponent of party doctrines. Many of the whig leaders violently opposed his nomination. Daniel Webster called him "an ignorant frontier colonel." The fact that he was a slaveholder was warmly urged against him. He knew nothing of civil affairs, and had taken so little interest in politics that he had not voted in forty years. But he was nominated and elected. His nomination caused a secession from the whigs, resulting in the formation of the free-soil party. He felt his want of qualifications for the position, and sometimes expressed his regret that he had accepted it; yet he maintained as President the popularity which had led to his election, and was personally one of the most esteemed who have filled that office.

MILLARD FILLMORE.

(THIRTEENTH PRESIDENT.)

MILLARD FILLMORE, being elected Vice-President to President Taylor, became his constitutional successor, and served the unexpired term from 1850 to 1853. Very exciting questions arose during his term of office; among them the slavery question, the admission of California into the Union as a free State, and the passage of the Fugitive Slave Law—providing for the return to their owners of slaves escaping to a free State. During the debate of these questions, for a while it seemed as if the Union would be rent asunder. Mr. Fillmore treated them with dignity, if not with statesmanship, till finally conciliatory measures prevailed, and the questions were amicably settled. In every respect Mr. Fillmore discharged the duties of President as a conscientious, sensible man, thoroughly acquainted with legislative and general political principles.

President Fillmore was born in Cayuga county, New York, January 7, 1800, and died March 8, 1874. He had not a very liberal education, and, when young, served as an apprentice to the fuller's trade. In the year 1821 he was admitted to the bar, and practiced law with success. From 1832 to 1840 he was a member of Congress; in 1842 he was nominated by the Whigs of New York for Governor, and was defeated; and in 1856 the Native American party run him for President, and he received only the electoral vote of Maryland.

Upon the death of President Taylor the entire cabinet resigned.

(FOURTEENTH PRESIDENT.)

FRANKLIN PIERCE was born at Hillsborough, New Hampshire, on the 23d of November, 1804, and died in 1869. He graduated at Bowdoin College, Maine, in 1824; studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1827.

He was President from 1853 to 1857.

Mr. Pierce had barely attained the requisite legal age when he was elected to the Senate. He found there such men as Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Thomas H. Benton, and Silas Wright. Nathaniel Hawthorn says in his biography of Mr. Pierce: "With his usual tact and exquisite sense of propriety, he saw it was not the time for him to step forward prominently on this highest theater in the land. He beheld these great combatants doing battle before the eyes of the nation, and engrossing its whole regards. There was hardly an avenue to reputation save what was occupied by one or another of those gigantic figures." During Tyler's administration he resigned. When the Mexican war broke out, he enlisted as a volunteer, but soon rose to the office of brigadier-general. He distinguished himself under General Scott, against whom he afterwards successfully ran for the Presidency, and upon whom, during his administration, he conferred the title of lieutenant-general. On the question of slavery, Mr. Pierce always sided with the South, and opposed anti-slavery measures in every shape. In a message to Congress in 1856 he characterized the formation of a free State government in Kansas as an act of rebellion, and justified the principles of the Kansas and Nebraska Act. He, however, espoused the national cause at the opening of the civil war, and urged a cordial support of the administration at Washington.

JAMES BUCHANAN.

(FIFTEENTH PRESIDENT.)

James Buchanan was born in Franklin county, Pennsylvania, April 13, 1791, and died at Wheatland, June 1, 1868. He was a graduate of Dickinson College, and was admitted to the bar in 1812. He was President from 1857 to 1861, and was so constantly in office from 1820 up to that time that he was known by the sobriquet of "Public Functionary." The "bachelor President," as Mr. Buchanan was sometimes called, was

The "bachelor President," as Mr. Buchanan was sometimes called, was sixty-six years old when he was called to the executive chair. He had just returned to his native country, after an absence of four years as Minister to England. Previously to that he had been well known in public life as Congressman, Senator, and as Secretary of State under President Polk. As Senator in Jackson's time, he heartily supported his administration. With Van Buren, he warmly advocated the idea of an independent treasury, against the opposition of Clay, Webster, and others. Under Tyler, he was urgently in favor of the annexation of Texas, thus again coming in conflict with Clay and Webster. However, he cordially agreed with them in the compromise of 1850, and urged its favor upon the people. Much was hoped from his election, as he avowed the object of his administration to be "to destroy any sectional party, whether North or South, and to restore, if possible, that national fraternal feeling between the different States that had existed during the early days of the Republic" But popular passion and sectional jealousy were too strong to yield to pleasant persuasion When Mr. Buchanan's administration closed, the fearful conflict was close at hand. He retired to his estate in Pennsylvania, where he died.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

(SIXTEENTH PRESIDENT.)

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was born in Hardin county, Kentucky, on the 12th of February, 1809. He was elected President in 1860, and was re-elected in 1864, and had entered upon the duties of his office for the second time when he was assassinated by John Wilkes Booth, April 14th, 1865, and died the following day.

His father was unable to read or write. Abraham's education consisted of a few years' schooling. When he was eight years old his father moved to Indiana, the family floating down the Ohio on a raft. When nineteen years of age the future President hired out as a hand on a flatboat at $10 a month, and made a trip to New Orleans. On his return he accompanied the family to Illinois, driving the cattle on the journey, and on reaching their destination helped them to build a cabin and split rails to enclose the farm. He was now in succession a flatboat hand, clerk, captain of a company of volunteers in the Black Hawk War, country storekeeper, postmaster, and surveyor, yet he managed to get a knowledge of law by borrowing books at an office, before it closed at night, and returning them at its opening in the morning. On being admitted to the bar, he rapidly rose to distinction. At twenty-five he was sent to the Legislature, and was thrice re-elected. Turning his attention to politics, he soon became a leader. He was sent to Congress; he canvassed the State, haranguing the people daily on great national questions; and, in 1858, he was a candidate for Senator, a second time, against Stephen A. Douglass. The two rivals stumped the State together. The debate, unrivalled for its statesmanship, logic and wit, won for Lincoln a national reputation. He lost the election in the Legislature, as his party was in the minority. After his accession to the presidency, his history, like Washington's, is identified with that of his country. He was a tall, ungainly man, little versed in the refinements of society, but gifted by nature with great common sense, and everywhere known as "Honest Abe." Kind, earnest, sympathetic, faithful, democratic, he was only anxious to serve his country. His wan, fatigued face, and his bent form, told of the cares he bore and the grief he felt.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

(SEVENTEENTH PRESIDENT.)

ANDREW JOHNSON was born near Raleigh, North Carolina, December 29, 1808. He was Vice-President when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, and by his death Mr. Johnson became the constitutional President of the United States. He died in 1875, while serving as United States Senator from Tennessee.

When only ten years of age, Mr. Johnson was bound apprentice to a tailor of Raleigh. Never having been a day at school in his life, he yet determined to secure an education. From a fellow-workman he learned the alphabet, and from a friend something of spelling. Thenceforth, after working ten or twelve hours per day at his trade, he spent two or three every night in study. In 1826 he went West to seek his fortune, with true filial affection, carrying with him his mother, who was dependent on his labor for support. After his marriage, at Greenville, Tenn, he continued his studies under the instruction of his wife, pursuing his trade as before by day. His political life commenced with his election as Alderman. He was successively chosen Mayor, member of the Legislature, presidential elector, State Senator, twice Governor, and for fifteen years United States Senator. Remaining true to the Union when his State seceded, his loyalty attracted general attention. A lifetime Democrat, he was elected on the Republican ticket as Vice-President, in reward for his faithfulness. Coming into office with a Republican Congress, it is not strange that his way was hedged with difficulties and his presidential career a most unhappy one.

ULYSSES S. GRANT.

(Eighteenth President—Two Terms.)

ULYSSES S. GRANT, eighteenth President of the United States, was born at Point Pleasant, Ohio, April 27, 1822. He graduated from West Point in 1843, serving in the Mexican War, and was breveted Captain for bravery at Chapultepec. In 1853 he was commissioned full Captain, but resigned in 1854. In 1861 he became Colonel of the Twenty-first Regiment of Illinois Volunteers, and on August 7th was commissioned a Brigadier-General of Volunteers. In July, 1862, he was placed in command of the Department of Teunessee. In January, 1863, he took command in person of all the troops of the Mississippi Valley, and on the 4th of July received the surrender of Vicksburg, and was shortly afterwards made a Major-General in the regular army. In February, 1864, the rank of Lieutenant-General was created for him by Congress, and on March 17th he assumed command of the armies of the United States. He took personal command of the Army of the Potomac, and marched from the Rapidan to the James and began the siege of Richmond. He captured Petersburg April 2d and Richmond April 3d, and received the surrender of Lee's army on April 9, 1865, at Appomattox Court House. On July 25, 1866, he was commissioned General of the United States Army, a rank specially created for him. He was Secretary of War ad interim from August 12, 1867, to January 14, 1868. He was elected President of the United States in 1868, and was inaugurated from the eastern portico of the Capitol March 4, 1869, the oath being administered by Chief-Justice Chase. He was re-elected in 1872, and inaugurated from the eastern portico of the Capitol on March 4, 1873, Chief-Justice Chase administering the oath. He retired from the presidency March 5, 1877. In 1848 he married Miss Julia F. Dent; he has a number of children. General Grant died at Mount McGregor, Saratoga, N. Y., July 22, 1885.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

(NINETEENTH PRESIDENT.)

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES was born at Delaware, Ohio, October 4, 1822. He graduated at Kenyon College, Ohio. He commenced the practice of law in Cincinnati in his thirty-fourth year, when he received his first official position as City Solicitor, which he held till the war broke out in 1861. Very near its opening he enlisted in the Twenty-third Ohio volunteers, and served with the regiment until he received the command of a brigade in 1864. His first appointment was as Major, his first promotion came within less than a year, and in September of 1862 he held a commission as Lieutenant-Colonel, and was in command of his regiment, which he led into the battle of South Mountain. During the battles of the Army of Potomac, Colonel Hayes received a severe wound in the arm, but remained with his regiment to the last, and was the first officer whose command established a position at South Mountain. Two years later he had become Brigadier-General Hayes, and was elected to Congress from the second Ohio district by the Republicans. In the fall of 1866, Mr. Hayes was nominated and elected to Congress a second time by the Republicans, but Congress had held but one session when he was nominated and elected Governor of Ohio by the same party. During his political career, ne was three times elected Governor of Ohio, and twice a Member of Congress. A reference to the "Important Events" in 1876-77, will be found the particulars of his election to the Presidency of the United States in 1877. Mr. Hayes took the oath of office on Saturday, the 3d of March, and was inaugurated President of the United States Monday, the 5th of March. Pending the time of the election and before the meeting of the electoral commission, the country was greatly agitated and seemed threatened with civil war, but immediately after his inauguration quiet and confidence was restored, and peace reigned throughout the United States.

JAMES A. GARFIELD.

(TWENTIETH PRESIDENT.)

James A. Garfield was born in Orange, Cuyahoga County, Ohio, November 19, 1831. He graduated from William's College in 1856. He studied law and was a member of the Ohio Senate in 1859-60; entered the army in 1861 as Colonel of the Forty-second Ohio Volunteers; was promoted to Brigadier in 1862; was made chief of staff under Rosecrans in 1863; and after the battle of Chickamauga was made a Major-General. He entered Congress in 1863, and remained a member of the lower house until elected to the United States Senate in the early part of 1880. Although elected to the Senate, he never took his seat in that body, having been elected President of the United States in November of the same year. He was inaugurated from the eastern part of the Capitol, March 4, 1881, the oath being administered by Chief Justice Waite. On July 2, four months after he was inaugurated, he was shot by Charles J. Guiteau, and died September 19, at Elberon, New Jersey. He married Miss Lucretia Rudolph, November 11, 1858. Several children, boys and girls, survive him.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

(TWENTY-FIRST PRESIDENT.)

CHESTER A. ARTHUR was born in Fairfield, Franklin County, Vermont, October 5, 1830. He graduated from Union College in 1849; was admitted to the bar in 1852, and in 1861 was appointed Inspector-General of New York State National Guard, and later, Quarter-Master-General of New York State. He was appointed United States Collector of the Port of New York in 1871, which position he retained until July 12, 1878, when he returned to the practice of law. He was elected Vice-President of the United States in 1880, and on the death of President Garfield, September 19, 1881, he became President. In 1859 he married Miss Ellen Lewis Herndon, now deceased. He has two children, a son of nineteen and a daughter of twelve years of age (1884). Arthur died at New York, November 18, 1886.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

(TWENTY-SECOND AND TWENTY-FOURTH PRESIDENT.)

GROVER CLEVELAND was born in the town of Caldwell, Essex County, New Jersey, in the year 1837. When he was three years old his parents moved to Fayettville, New York. Here they settled down, and here he first began his schooling. At fourteen he expressed a desire to go to an academy. To this his father, who was a Presbyterian minister, was opposed. Money was hard to get, and he wanted the boy to become a self-made man. To that end he placed him in the village store, at a salary of $50 for the first year and $100 for the second, if he proved trustworthy. The pastoral labors soon called the father to Clinton. This was Grover's opportunity. There was a high school there. He entered it at once and was soon making a great record for himself. Again the family moved—this time to Holland Patent. His venerable father had officiated at but three services when he suddenly expired. Young Grover then started out for himself, and, reaching the City of New York, was not long in securing a place as an under teacher in an asylum for the blind. He remained at this work two years, and

This gentleman was a noted stock breeder, and he soon had the boy at work with his books. But it did not suit him, and, unaided, he secured an opening in the law office of Rogers, Bowen & Rogers, where he remained four years.

for District Attorney, being defeated by the Hon. Lyman K. Bass. In 1869 he was nominated and elected Sheriff of Eric County. At the close of his term he formed a law partnership with Lyman K.

Bass and Wilson S. Bissell.

ELECTED MAYOR OF BUFFALO.

In 1882 a reform movement was set on foot in municipal affairs Grover Cleveland was placed at its head and triumphantly elected Mayor of the city. It was while serving in this capacity that he wrote the famous veto message, which brought him into national prominence.

ELECTED GOVERNOR OF THE STATE.

His success, and the force and power of his words in knocking out the iniquitous street-cleaning contract, gave him a new kind of prominence. The Democratic party took him up, nominated him, and placed him in the gubernatorial chair by the largest majority ever given in the history of the State.

ever given in the history of the State.

It was while holding this office that his party pressed him into the national service and elected him President of the United States over James G. Blaine.

In the following election he was defeated by Benjamin Harrison, whom he in turn defeated in 1892.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

(TWENTY-THIRD PRESIDENT.)

Benjamin Harrison was born at North Bend, Ohio, August 20, 1833. At sixteen he entered Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, graduating two years later. Going to Cincinnati, he took up the study of law, and in 1854 began practice in Indianapolis. At the outbreak of the rebellion he was one of the best-known lawyers in the State. In July, 1862, Gov. Morton asked him to assist in recruiting a regiment. He served through the war to its close, and with his command participated in the first review of the Union forces at Washington. On his return to Indianapolis he at once became a conspicuous figure in the political affairs of the State. He was first elected Supreme Court Reporter. In 1876 he was nominated and defeated for Governor. In 1880 he was elected to the United States Senate to succeed the Hon. Joseph E. McDonald.

Senator Harrison's principal speeches were made upon the Civil Service, the Blair Educational bill, and on the Mississippi River scheme of improvement. He voted for the Civil-service bill, and, later on, after President Cleveland became the appointing power, he vigorously criticised the Administration for departing from the letter and spirit of the law. In 1887 an effort was made by the Republicans of Indiana to control the Legislature in order that he might be chosen to succeed himself. The Republicans won in the State, but the Democrats carried the Legislature by a small majority, electing David Turpie as Senator. General Harrision resumed the practice of his profession at Indianapolis.

He was and is one of the most approachable of men, ready to talk upon all public subjects freely, and having something to say on most subjects that it is worth while to hear. As an orator he was one of the best of the Senate, speaking clearly, without fatigue, and with no merely perfunctory zeal, and with a voice of silvery resonance and great penetration.

The growing popularity of President Cleveland had alarmed the Republican leaders, and they cast about them for a foeman worthy of his steel. Benjamin Harrison was the nominee and victor. At the close of his presidential term he returned to Indianapolis where he took up the practice of his profession.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

TWENTY-FIFTH PRESIDENT.

About the middle of the last century, probably in 1750, there came to the American colonies, from the north of Ireland, two brothers of Scotch-Irish stock, James and William McKinley. James settled in southern Pennsylvania, married, and his son David took part in the Revolution. It is from James McKinley that the present William McKinley is descended. In 1812 David McKinley moved from Pennsylvania, and, seeking a new home, settled in Columbiana county, Ohio. David McKinley married Mary Rose. Among their children was William McKinley, who in time became the head of an iron foundry at Fairfield. This William took for wife Nancy Allison, and to them came eight children, and among these was William McKinley, to-day President of the United States. William McKinley was born at Niles, Trumbull County, Ohio, on the 29th of January, 1843.

YOUNG M'KINLEY GOES TO COLLEGE.

William McKinley, the father, being then fairly well-to-do, the younger William was sent to a school at Niles. The family having removed to Poland, the boy was given such educational advantages as might be had at the Poland Academy. William McKinley was to be sent to college—at 16 was matriculated in the Allegheny College, of Meadville, Pa. His father having been just then somewhat restricted for means, it became necessary that the lad should give up his college career, and so he taught in a district school near Poland, receiving $25 a month.

IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

William McKinley was 18 when the War of the Rebellion broke out. In June, 1861, he enlisted in Company E of the Twenty-third Regiment of Ohio, and served as a private for over a year. For courage and ability when taking part in the West Virginia campaign he rose rapidly in the line of promotion. He was a second lieutenant September 24, 1862; first lieutenant February 7, 1863, and a captain July 25, 1864. His service was an extended one, for he was with Sheridan in the Shenandoah campaign, took part in the actions at Winchester, Kernstown, Floyd Mountain, Berryville, and in all the battles of the Twenty-third Regiment. He served on the staffs of General Hancock, Hayes, Crook and Carroll. When the regiment he had joined was mustered out, July 26, 1865, Captain and Brevet-Major William McKinley received an honorable discharge. Unquestionably the man had through four years of arduous service shown his soldier-like qualities.

ENTERS A LAWYER'S OFFICE.

William McKinley was 22 years of age, and might have entered the regular service of the United States, but the young man's father was opposed to his son receiving a commission. William McKinley now studied law, and entered the office of Charles E. Glidden and David Wilson, then the leading practitioners of the Mahoning County bar. In 1867 he attended the legal course at Albany, N. Y., and was admitted to practice in 1867.

HIS DEBUT IN POLITICS.

Going to Canton, he entered into partnership with Judge Belden. In 1869 he was elected by the Republicans as Prosecuting Attorney of Stark County, and this is looked upon as the time when he made his debut in politics.

A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS.

From that time on Mr. McKinley took an active part in political affairs. In 1876 he was announced as the candidate for the Congressional nomination, and was elected. This was his first entrance into National politics. In 1878 he was again elected to the same position. In 1890 he became a conspicuous figure, as he ran in opposition to Lieutenant-Governor John W. Warwick. It was during this year that the tariff bill to which his name is attached became a national topic. The election resulted in the defeat of McKinley. This fight was an exceedingly bitter one, but brought the Republican candidate markedly before the public.

HIS WORK IN CONGRESS.

In Congress Mr. McKinley served on several committees—on the Judiciary, Revision of Laws, Post-office Expenditures, and Rules. When Mr. Garfield accepted the Presidential nomination, Mr. McKinley took his place on the Committee of Ways and Means, and served continuously in that position. As its chairman, he was in the front, in the contest over tariff revision, in pushing forward what is known as the McKinley bill.

NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR.

In 1891 Mr. McKinley was nominated for Governor of Ohio, and and was elected by a plurality of 21,511 votes. Running for the same office in 1893, he defeated the Hon. L. T. Neal by a majority of nearly 81,000 votes. The nominee of the Republican party has had a great deal to do with political conventions.

AT THE NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

In 1884 he was the delegate of the Republican National Convention, and supported Blaine. In 1888 he was one of the four Ohio delegates at large, and cast his vote for Sherman. During this convention the chances of Mr. McKinley becoming a Presidential candidate were considered as possible. In 1892 McKinley was once more a delegate at large to the National convention, and occupied the position of chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, and then was the permanent chairman of the convention. When during that contest it was apparent that the struggle would be between Harrison and Blaine, an endeavor was made to effect a compromise, the opposition inclining toward McKinley.

HIS WIDE EXPERIENCE.

Few men within the recollection of this generation have attained the highest office in the gift of the American people whose experience in public matters, in the system of our government and the great machinery which moves it, has been so complete as that of William McKinley.

Grover Cleveland had been Sheriff, Mayor and Governor, but as to the great work that was before him at Washington he knew absolutely nothing. President McKinley has been a conpicuous figure in the halls of Congress, has crossed steels with the brightest and best, and brings to the office a knowledge of public men and public affairs that will serve him well in his high and responsible position.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

President McKinley recognizes himself as the servant of the people in the true conception of the term. He walks out daily, and without any bodyguard. He rides his saddle-horse, the same as any citizen. He has no airs or frills, and likes to mingle with the masses so far as the dignity of his office will permit.

How to Measure Corn in a Crib, Hay in a Mow, etc.

This rule will apply to a crib of any size or kind. Two cubic feet of good sound, dry corn in the ear will make a bushel of shelled corn. To get, then, the quantity of shelled corn in a crib of corn in the ear, measure the length, breadth and height of the crib, inside of the rail; multiply the length, by the breadth, and the product by the height; then divide the product by two, and you have the number of bushels of shelled corn in the crib.

To find the number of bushels of apples, potatoes, etc., in a bin, multiply the length, breadth and thickness together, and this product by 8, and point off one figure in the product for decimals.

To find the amount of Hay in a Mow, allow 512 cubic feet for a ton, and it will come out very generally correct.

GLADSTONE'S IRISH HOME RULE BILL.

Mr. Gladstone Explains His Great Bill.

COERCION CONDEMNED.

Eighty Irish Representatives in the Imperial House with Limited Voting Power—Constitution of the Irish Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly—The Financial Problems Ably Dealt with.

HON. WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE, Born December 29, 1809.

FEBRUARY 13, 1893.

Mr. Gladstone spoke as follows in a clear, strong and resonant voice: I may, without impropriety, remind the House that the voices which usually pleaded the cause of Irish self-government in Irish affairs, have, within these walls, during the last seven years, been almost entirely mute. I return therefore to the period of 1886, when a proposition of this kind was submitted on the part of the Government of the day, and I beg to remind the House of the position then taken up by all the promoters of these measures. We said that we had arrived at a point in our transactions with Ireland where the two roads parted. You have, we said, to choose one or the other. One is the way of Irish autonomy according to the conceptions I have just referred to; the other is the way of coercion. That is our condition. It will be the recollection of the House how that contention was most stoutly and largely denied. It was said over and over again by many members opposite, "We are not coercionists; we do not adopt that alternative, and neither can we adopt it." (Ministerial cheers.)

That assertion of theirs was undoubtedly sustained by the proposals, especially from the dissentient Liberals, of various plans dealing with Irish affairs. Those plans, though they fell entirely short in principle and in scope of Irish self-government, yet were of no trivial or mean importance. They went far beyond what had heretofore been usually proposed in the way of local self-government for Ireland. Well, what has been the result of the dilemma as it was then put forward on this side of the House and repelled by the other? Has our contention that the choice lay between autonomy and coercion been justified or not? (Liberal cheers.) What has become of each and all of these important schemes for giving Ireland self-government in provinces, and giving her even a central establishment in Dublin with limited powers? All vanishes into thin air, but the reality remains. The roads were still there—autonomy or coercion. The choice lay between them, and the choice made was to repel autonomy and embrace coercion.

You cannot always follow coercion in an absolutely uniform method. In 1888, for the first time, coercion was imposed on Ireland, in the shape of a permanent law added to the statute book. This state of things constituted an offending against the harmony and traditions of self-government. It was a distinct and violent breach of the promise on the faith of which union was obtained. That permanent system of repression inflicted upon the country a state of things which could not continue to exist. It was impossible to bring the inhabitants of the country under coercion into sympathy with the coercive power.

Mr. Gladstone proceeded to debate at length upon the circumstances under which the act of union was passed, the promise of equality in the laws and of commercial equality under which union was effected. It was then prophesied confidentially, he said, that Irishmen would take their places in the Cabinet of the United Kingdom, but it had been his honored destiny to sit in Cabinets with no less than sixty to seventy statesmen, of whom only one-the Duke of Wellington-was an Irishman, while Castlereagh was the only other Irishman who had sat in the Cabinet since the union. Pitt promised equal laws when the union was formed, but the broken promises made to Ireland were unhappily written in indelible characters in the history of the country.

Coming to 1832, when the resurrection of the people began, and thence down to 1880, Ireland could present here only a small minority in favor of restoring to her something in the nature of constitutional rights and practical self-government. It is to me astonishing that so little weight is attached by many to the fact that before 1886, before 1885 in fact, Irish wishes for self-government were represented only by a small minority. Since 1885, when the wide extension of the franchise was protected by secret ballot, Ireland's position has been improved in Parliament. In 1886 there were 85 Nationalists, or more than fiveeighths. (Cheers.) They have been reduced from 85 to 80 under circumstances somewhat peculiar (hear, hear), and, I must frankly own, to myself and others, for reasons totally and absolutely unintelligible.

(Loud cheers.)

Let us look at the state of the case as it now stands. There are but 80 out of 101; that is to say, the wishes of Ireland for Irish self-government in Irish matters are represented only by four-fifths. (Laughter.) Honorable gentlemen seem to have no respect for such a majority as that. Do they recollect, sir, that never in England has there been such a majority? (Cheers.) No Parliament of the last 50 years has come within reasonable distance of it. If there be anything in the great except through the machinery and by the laws of representation; at any rate, the voice of the Irish people, the persistency of the Irish people in delivering that voice and the peaceful constitutional circumstances under which it has been delivered—(Ministerial cheers and Opposition laughter) - constitute a great fact in history. It is said, opposition laughter)—constitute a great fact in instance. It is said, and I admit with truth, that Ireland is not a united country. I do not deny that the division which exists is a fact of great moment. In truth, were Ireland united, anything that can render Ireland formidable would become much more formidable. Were Ireland united, all opposition would vanish as a shadow. (Hear, hear.) Ireland is not united in this same that in one position of the country pot a mere majority of the sense that in one portion of the country not a mere majority of the higher classes, but a considerable popular feeling is opposed to the present national movement. I will not attempt to measure this numerical strength of the minority. It is said by the party opposite that the minority in the North of Ireland is arrayed in unalterable opposition to Home Rule. Unhappy at the successful instigation of those whose plot it was to divide the people of Ireland when they were united at the close of the last century, through the medium mainly of Orange lodges, and through religious animosity, there was an alteration of feeling, but the Protestants of Ireland, during the period of the independent Irish Parliament, were themselves not only willing, but zealous, enthusiastic supporters of Irish nationality. Inasmuch as their political life was at that period more highly developed, they led on the Roman Catholic population in the political inovement which distinguished that period. (Cheers)

This is written broadcast upon the history of the time. Genuine national sentiment in the sense of national unity had at one time prevailed among North of Ireland Protestants. We, who have seen them alter, not through their own fault, are not ready to be persuaded that they will not alter back again to the sentiments of their own ancestors— (cheers)-and with their own blood and their own people form one in noble, glorious unity. Alluding to English feeling toward Irish Home Rule, Mr. Gladstone said he would refrain from urging that England would find herself exhausted, her work made unpracticable by resistance to Irish demands. He could well conceive England maintaining, if so minded, resistance to Irish demands, but England's conversion to Home Rule had been rapid. In 1886 England's majority adverse to Home Rule was 211. It had now declined to 71. In the face of such a fact, who would guarantee the permanency of the opposition of the remainder? (Cheers.) He would now ask the patient indulgence of the House while giving an account of the bill. (Cheers.) He would not undertake to supply a mere table of contents. The bill, if he did, would probably bewilder his hearers. He would rather seek to present the salient points, hoping to leave a living impression on the minds and memories of his hearers. He begged them to wait and consult the bill itself, which he hoped would soon be in their hands. It would be remembered that the bill of 1886 laid down five propositions as cardinal principles to which he had endeavored to closely adhere. Change there was, but not a trenchant change from the principles of 1886. The object of the bill remained as in 1886—to establish a legislative body in Dublin for the conduct of both legislation and administration in Irish as distinct from Imperial affairs. (Cheers.) The limiting conditions which were then observed, and have since, so far as we were able to do so, been sedulously and closely served were these: We were to do nothing inconsistent with Imperial unity. Of this I will say, whatever our opponents may say, that so far as our convictions and intentions are concerned, they would be but feebly stated by being couched in the declaration that we do not mean to impair it. We wish to give it greater intensity than it has ever yet (Cheers.) possessed.

First, then, Imperial unity is observed, and the equality of it is observed. Secondly, the equity of all the kingdoms would be borne in mind; and thirdly, there would be equitable reparation of Imperial charges. Fourthly, any and every practicable provision for the protection of minorities would be included. The plan proposed ought to be such as to present the necessary characteristics of a real and contented settlement. In the first place we have made it a desire to meet what we thought was no unreasonable demand for express mention of the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament. There were two methods in which that might be done—it might be done by clauses; it might be done in the preamble. We have chosen the preamble as the worther and better, for if it were done by clause it would be too much in the character of a mere enactment. It is not necessary to say many words for such a purpose. Our words are, "Whereas it is expedient without impairing or restricting the supreme authority of Parliament." And then the preamble goes on to declare the creation of the Irish Legislature. With reference to the charge, frequently with good faith made against us, that we are destroying the Act of Union, I wish to challenge inquiry upon this fundamental point. What is the essence of the Act of Union? (Hear, hear.) That essence is to be appreciated by comparing the condition of the things found in the country before 1800 with the condition of things now existing in England. Before 1800 we had two sovereignties in the country. One of these was collectively lodged in the King, the Houses of Lords and Commons of Ireland.

Then coming to exclusive powers we retain the vice-royalty of Ireland, but we divest it of the party character heretofore borne by making the appointment run six years, subject to the revoking power of the Crown. Then also the post is freed from all religious disability. (Cheers.)

There was no more right in a true historical and legal sense in the sovereignty residing in Great Britain to interfere with the sovereignty of Ireland than there was in the sovereignty of Ireland to interfere with the sovereignty of England. The bill respects and maintains these rights of sovereignty equally throughout the entire range of the three kingdoms. The bill constitutes the Irish Legislature. Power is granted to the Irish Legislature, which consists, first, of a legislative council; secondly, of a legislative assembly, to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Ireland in respect to matters exclusively relating to Ireland or a part thereof.

That power is subject to a double limitation. First of all it is subject to necessary and obvious limitations, imposing certain incapacities on the Irish Parliament, including all that relates to the Crown regency or vice-royalty. The subjects of peace and war, public defence, treaties and foreign relations, dignities, titles, law and treason do not belong to the Irish Legislature.

The law of allegiance does not belong to it, nor everything that belongs to external trade, the coinage and other subsidiary subjects. Other incapacities are imposed similar to those contained in the bill of 1886. These provide for the security of religious freedom, the safeguard of education, and for security of personal freedom, in which we endeavored to borrow one of the modern amendments of the American constitution

Then comes a clause which may be considered formal, although it is of great importance, providing for the full devolution of the executive power from the sovereign upon the viceroy. Then comes an important provision for the appointment of an executive committee of the Privy Council of Ireland. We propose to make this an executive council for the ordinary affairs of the Cabinet of the viceroy. The question arises, shall there be any legislative council? All decided that there ought to be such a council. It has appeared to us to be highly inconvenient to alter the members of the legislative assembly.

If we were to increase the number we do not know what the increase ought to be. If we were to reduce it we run serious risks of causing practical inconvenience in Dublin, especially at the time when the functions of internal government come to be newly exercised, and then probably there will be a great deal to do. We therefore leave the number at 103. and we fix the term at five years. We leave the constituency as it is Next, as to the legislative council, Mr. Gladstone said he did not think they would have been warranted without some strong necessity in establishing the system of a single chamber; but in Ireland, he added, far from finding any such necessity we look to the legislative council as enabling us to meet the expectation that we shall give to the minority some means of freer and fuller consideration of its views. The next thing is, shall the legislative council be nominated or elected? We came to the conclusion that a nominated council would be a weak council. (Ministerial cheers.) If it should be made weak the council would probable enjoy a very short term of existence. We therefore propose an elective council, believing it to be the only form wherein we can give any great force to the vitality of the institution. Well, then, how do we differentiate this council from that popular assembly? We propose to fix the number at 48, with an eight years' term of office, the term of the popular assembly being lesser. We then constitute a new constituency. The council constituency must, in the first place, be associated with a ratable value of £20 whereby to secure an aggregate constituency, approaching 170,000 persons, including owners as well as occupiers, but subject to a provision that no owner or occupier has a vote in more than one constituency. Then there is no provision in the bill making the legislative council alterable by Irish acts. Regarding the legislative assembly these 103 members must be elected for Irish legislative business by the constituencies in Ireland. We make these provisions in regard to the assembly alterable in respect to electors and constituencies after six years, but in altering the constituencies the power of the assembly will be limited by the declaratory act to the effect that due regard must be had to the distribution of the population. The bill must include a provision for the meeting what is called a dead lock. In a case where a bill has been adopted by the assembly more than once, and where there is an interval of two years between the two adoptions or a dissolution of Parliament, then upon its second adoption the two assemblies may be required to meet, the fate of the bill to be decided in joint assembly. (Cheers.) Next, all appeals shall lie to the Privy Council alone, not to the council and lords. The Privy Council may try the question of the invalidity of any Irish act that is to try it judicially and with reasonable judgment under the initiative of the viceroy or Secretary of State, this judicial committee is now recognized by us as the only approach we can make to the Supreme Court of the United States. In composing this judicial committee due regard must be had to the different elements of nationality. (Cheers.) We have not apprehended any difficulty there. BUFFALO.—Continued.

judges and officers. Then there is a clause intended to correspond with the colonial validity law. Two exchequer judges shall be appointed. It is provided that for six years all judges shall be appointed as now. The Assembly shall meet on the first Tuesday in September. We propose a gradual reduction and the ultimate dissolution or disappearance of the constabulary. It is contemplated that they will be replaced by a force owing existence to Irish authorities in local areas. As to the retention of Irish members in the Imperial Parliament, there are strong arguments which may be alleged in defence of the retention, but there is one argument I must put aside as most dangerous and quite untenable. The argument of these who say unless you retain the Irish members there is no Parliamentary supremacy over Ireland. I entirely decline to admit that argument. I say if you do admit it at a stroke you shatter Parliamentary supremacy in this country. Although I do not at all admit that Parliamentary supremacy depends upon the retention of Irish members has great practical importance, because it visibly exhibits that supremacy in a manner intelligible to the people. It gives Ireland a voice and a full voice in all Imperial matters. (Hear, hear.) It has this advantage. We cannot in our financial arrangement get rid of all financial connection between the two countries. Ireland should have something to say about British budgets. Retention involves two points. Firstly, as to numbers; and secondly as to voting power. Now as to the first question—that of numbers—is Ireland to be fully represented in the House? What is full representation for Ireland? In 1884 the House treated Ireland in a wise and liberal spirit by assigning 103 members to that country. The population of Great Britain has increased, while that of Ireland has diminished, and has now reached a point that whereas formerly entitled to 103 members it would according to this same ratio now have 80. I imply that the representation in the House from Ireland would be composed of 80 Irish gentlemen. Of course it follows that there would have to be an election. We endeavored to arrange the schedule of the bill in such a manner that this Imperial representation would practically not clash with representation in the Legislature at Dublin.

Mr. Gladstone continued: Now comes the greater difficulty—what voting power are these 80 members to have? Ireland is to be represented here fully; that is my first postulate. My second postulate is that Ireland is to be invested with separate powers, subject, no doubt, to Imperial authority. Yet still, as we must from experience practically separate a certain independent power as has been done in other legislatures of the Empire, Ireland is to be endowed with separate powers over Irish affairs. Then the question before us is, is she or is she not to vote so strongly upon matters purely British? It would be a great anomaly if these 80 Irish members should come here continually to intervene in questions purely and absolutely British. Inserted in the bill are limitations on the voting power of the Irish members, to exclude them—(1) from voting on a bill or motion expressly confined to great Britain; (2) from voting on a tax not levied on Ireland; (3) from voting on a vote or appropriation of money otherwise than for the Imperial service; (4) from voting on any motion or resolution exclusively affecting Great Britain.

voting on any motion or resolution exclusively affecting Great Britain.

The conclusion at which we have arrived of unity of the commercial legislation for three kingdoms includes customs and excise duties, postoffice and telegraphs. By adopting this key note we can attain to the most valuable results and will be likely to avoid the clashing friction of agents of the Imperial and agents of the Irish Government. make under cover of this proposal a larger and more liberal transfer to Ireland in the management of her own affairs than we could make if we proceeded on any other principle. We hope to escape in this way all collection in the interior of Ireland of any revenue whatever by Imperial authority. The principle to which we are bound to give effect in Ireland is Ireland has to bear a fair share of the Imperial expenditure. (Hear, hear.) The method which we adopt is that of deducting from the Irish revenues the amount due England. We provide that the revenue levied in Ireland shall be the revenue really belonging to Ireland that is revenue from goods consumed in Ireland. It is not so with the customs. With the customs there is a large debt from Ireland to this country. It comes up to several hundred thousands. To appropriate a particular fund to be taken by us and stand in acquittal of all obligations of Ireland for Imperial services will sweep away all the difficulties. We have the fund practically in our hands in the management of the customs revenue of Ireland, which must be British. Consequently we shall be receivers of a fund which will never go near the Irish exchequer. The amount is £2,430,000 yearly gross. £60,000 allowed for collection leaves £2,370,000

With the Imperial expenditure at £59,000,000, £2,370,000 is a sum that drops between a charge of four per cent. and a charge of five per cent. The Irish members will observe that everything of a practical nature we will hand over to them. Though the rates of excise and the post and telegraph rates will be a fixed amount, the authority and the whole control over them will be absolutely in the hands of Irish officers. Questions may arise such as we are assured we shall obtain from Ireland a fair share of assistance in a great Imperial emergency. I myself am bound to say that I think there is very little to fear from trusting the patriotism and liberality of the Irish Legislature. The Irish balance sheet stands thus: On the credit side would appear excise, £3,220,000; while taxation which goes over the stamps, income tax, excise license which are £1,495,000; postal revenue, £740,000; crown lands, £65,000; miscellaneous, £140,000; making a total of £5,660,000. On the other side Ireland takes over the whole of the civil charges with the exception of the constabulary charges of £3,110,000; inland revenues, £160,000; and postal service, £790,000. We propose that Ireland shall take part of the constabulary charges amounting to £1,000,000. This would bring the Irish charges to £5,160,000. We propose that she shall receive against that the items I have put to her credit amounting to £5,660,000. Thus she will have a clear surplus of £500,000 with which to start on her mission. I submit that the plan may be imperfect, but I hope it will receive impartial consideration.

Mr. Gladstone concluded an eloquent peroration by saying: It would be misery for me if I had foregone or omitted in these closing years of my life any measure it was possible for me to take towards upholding and promoting the cause which I believe to be the cause—not of one party or one nation-but of all parties and all nations.

Brief Sketch of Mr. Gladstone's Life.

The Grand Old Man of England has passed his eighty-third birthday, hale and hearty. Upon each succeeding anniversary the love and veneration for the brave old defender of the people's liberty increases. He has again been remembered by numerous friends from all parts of the British possessions. Mr. Gladstone was the son of a merchant of Liverpool, and was born in that city, December 29, 1809, graduated at Oxford in 1831, and was elected to Parliament as a Conservative in 1832. He was in 1834 appointed by Sir Robert Peel a junior Lord of the Treasury, and in 1835 Under Secretary for Colonial Affairs. In 1845 he became Vice-President of the Board of Trade, Master of the Mint, and member of the Privy Council. Mr. Gladstone was appointed President of the Board of Trade in 1834, and soon afterward made Secretary of State for the Colonies, and in 1847 was elected to Parliament for the University of Oxford. He left the Conservative party in 1851, and in the same year, after a severe contest, was again returned to Parliament for Oxford. He became in 1852 Chancellor of the Exchequer, which position he held under different administrations for some years. About 1865 he succeeded Lord Palmerston as Leader of the House of Commons. and in 1868 advocated the disestablishment of the Irish Church. December of the same year he succeeded Disraeli as First Lord of the Treasury and Prime Minister of England. Numerous important measures were carried out during his administration. He reigned as Premier in 1874. He again became Prime Minister of England in 1880, and for the third time in 1886, when he soon encountered defeat on his famous. Home Rule Bill, since which time he has acted as a leader of the opposi-

The next struggle for supremacy was a fierce and bitter one; Salisbury led his forces on the one side and Gladstone on the other as before. The question at issue was the Home Rule for Ireland, and it is safe to say the electors were never so stirred and thrilled as during this campaign. Salisbury had been making all kinds of overtures to the doubtful forces and the Grand Old Man—Gladstone, put his greatest confidence in his personal and direct appeals to the people. Gladstone scored the victory, and as a result his Home Rule Bill as revised and amended was presented to the House of Commons, Monday, February 13th. Mr. Gladstone is an accomplished scholar, and is the author of numerous works. May he live to see Ireland triumph.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS AND CONVENTIONS.

First President.—George Washington was unanimously elected first President of the United States in February, 1789, and John Adams was chosen Vice-President. They were inaugurated on April 30, 1789, in Federal Hall, New York City.

The Second Presidential Campaign, in 1792, resulted in the re-election of George Washington as President and John Adams as Vice-President. The anti-Federalists supported George Clinton, Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr for Vice-President. Washington and Adams were inaugurated March 4, 1793, each for a second term.

Third Presidential Campaign, 1796.—The Federalists supported John Adams, of Massachusetts, for President, and Thomas Pinckney, of Maryland, for Vice-President. The Democrat-Republicans supported Thomas Jefferson, of Virginia, and Aaron Burr, of New York. Of the electoral votes John Adams had 71, Thomas Pinckney 59, Thomas Jefferson 68, Aaron Burr, 30. According to the Constitution, John Adams was elected President and Thomas Jefferson Vice-President. They were inaugurated March 4, 1797.

Fourth Presidental Campaign.—The fourth occurred in 1800. John Adams, of Massachusetts, and C. C. Pinckney, of South Carolina, were nominated by a Congressional caucus of Federalists. Thomas Jefferson, of Virginia, and Aaron Burr, of New York, received a similar Democrat-Republican nomination. The two latter received 73 votes apiece, but, being equal in number, it devolved upon the House of Representatives to choose which should be President. Adams had 65, Pinckney 64, and Jay 1 vote. Feb. 17, 1801, on the 36th ballot, the House of Representatives elected Thomas Jefferson President and Aaron Burr Vice-President. They were inaugurated March 4, 1801.

Fifth Presidential Campaign.—In 1804 Thomas Jefferson, of Virginia, and George Clinton, of New York, were the candidates of the Democrat-Republicans, and C. C. Pinckney, of South Carolina, and Rufus King, of New York, of the Federalists. The former received 162, and the latter 14 electoral votes. Thos. Jefferson, as President, and George Clinton, as Vice-President, were inaugurated March 4, 1805.

Sixth Presidential Campaign was in 1808. James Madison, of Virginia, and George Clinton, of New York, were the successful candidates of the Democrat-Republicans, and C. C. Pinckney, of South Carolina, and Rufus King, of New York, were supported by the Federalists. Madison received 122 and Clinton 113 electoral votes. Pinckney and King received 47 votes. The inauguration of James Madison, of Virginia, and Rufus King, of New York, as President and Vice-President of the United States took place March 4, 1809. Madison were a suit of American broadcloth on the occasion.

Seventh Presidential Campaign.—First Political Convention.—In May, 1812, at a Congressional caucus, James Madison was renominated for President, and Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, for Vice-President, by the Democrat-Republicaus. A political convention, in which eleven States were represented, the first ever held in the United States, assembled in New York and nominated, as opposition candidates, De Witt Clinton, of New York, and Jared Ingersoll, of Pennsylvania, for President and Vice-President. Madison received 128, Gerry 131, Clinton 89, and Ingersoll 86 electoral votes. James Madison, of Virginia, as President, and Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, as Vice-President, were inaugurated March 4, 1813.

Eighth Presidential Campaign, 1816.—In Congressional caucus the Democrat-Republicans nominated James Monroe, of Virginia, for President, and Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York, for Vice-President. The Federalists nominated Rufus King, of New York, and J. E. Howard. Monroe and Tompkins received 183 electoral votes, King 34, and Howard 22. James Monroe as President, and Daniel D. Tompkins, as Vice-President were inaugurated March 4, 1817.

Ninth Presidential Campaign in 1820.—Monroe and Tompkins were re-elected with but slight opposition. Out of 235 electoral votes Monroe received 231. Three electors had died and one voted for John Q. Adams. The inauguration of James Monroe, of Virginia, as President, and Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York, as Vice-President, occurred March 4, 1821.

Tenth Presidential Campaign.—In 1824 four candidates were in the field: John Quincy Adams of Massachusetts, William H. Crawford of Georgia, Henry Clay of Kentucky, and Andrew Jackson of Tennessee. Neither candidate received a majority of the electoral vote, hence the election devolved upon the House of Representatives, by whom John Quincy Adams was elected President, and John C. Calhoun, Vice-President. The popular vote stood as follows: Andrew Jackson, 155,872; John Q. Adams, 105,321; Henry Clay, 46,587; William H. Crawford, 44,282. The inauguration of John Quincy Adams, of Massachusetts, as President, and John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina, as Vice-President, occurred March 4, 1825.

Eleventh Presidential Campaign in 1828 resulted in the election of Andrew Jackson, of Tennessee, and John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina. They were the candidates of the Democrats, as they now called themselves. Their opponents, the National Republicans, supported John Quincy Adams, of Massachusetts, and Richard Rush, of Pennsylvania. General Jackson received 178, and Calhoun 171 electoral votes; Adams and Rush 83 votes each. The popular vote was 647,231 for Jackson and 509,097 for Adams. The inauguration of Andrew Jackson, of Tennessee, as President, and John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina, as Vice-President of the United States occurred March 4, 1829.

Political National Convention.—The second in the country (the first was in 1812), was held at Philadelphia in September, 1830, by the Anti-Masons.—Ninety-six delegates were present. The presiding officer was Francis Granger, of New York. It adjourned to hold another the following year to nominate Presidential candidates.

National Anti-Masonic Convention was held in Baltimore, Md., in 1831. It nominated William Wirt, of Maryland, for President, and Amos Ellmaker, of Pennsylvania, for Vice-President of the United States.

National Republicans assembled in convention at Baltimore, December 12, 1831, and nominated Henry Clay, of Kentucky, for President, and John Sergeant, of Pennsylvania, for Vice-President of the United States.

Democratic Convention assembled at Baltimore in May, 1832, and nominated Martin Van Buren, of New York, for Vice-President of the United States. They made no nomination for President because Jackson was the unanimous choice of the party for re-election.

Twelfth Presidential Campaign, 1832.—Andrew Jackson of Tennessee, and Martin Van Buren, of New York, were the Democratic candidates, except in South Carolina, where they supported John Floyd, of Virginia, and Henry Lee, of Massachusetts. The National Republicans supported Henry Clay, of Kentucky, and John Sergeant, of Pennsylvania. The Anti-Masons supported William Wirt, of Maryland, and Amos Ellmaker, of Pennsylvania. Jackson had 219 electoral votes, Van Buren 189. Their popular vote was 687,502. Clay and Sergeant had 49 electoral, and 530,189 popular votes. Floyd and Lee had 11 electoral votes, Wirt and Ellmaker had 7, and their combined popular vote was 33,108. The inauguration of Andrew Jackson, of Tennessee, as President, and Martin Van Buren, of New York, as Vice-President of the United States, occurred March 4, 1833.

Democratic National Convention was held at Baltimore, Md., in May, 1835, which nominated Martin Van Buren for President, and Richard M. Johnson, of Kentucky, for Vice-President. The two-thirds rule was first adopted in this convention.

Thirteenth Presidential Campaign occurred in 1836. The Democratic candidates were Martin Van Buren, of New York, and Richard M. Johnson, of Kentucky. The National Republicans, now known as Whigs, supported General William H. Harrison, of Ohio, and Francis Granger, of New York. The result gave Van Buren 170 electoral votes, Johnson 147, and a popular vote of 761,549. General Harrison had 73 electoral votes, and Granger had 77. The popular Whig vote was 736,656. The inauguration of Martin Van Buren, as President, and Richard M. Johnson, as Vice-president, occurred March 4, 1837.

Liberty Party Convention was held at Warsaw, New York, November 13, 1839, by the Abolitionists, who nominated James G. Birney, of New York, for President, and Francis J. Lemoyne, of Pennsylvania, for Vice-President.

Whig National Convention.—The first was held December 4, 1839, at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and nominated General William Henry Harrison, of Ohio, as President, and John Tyler, of Virginia as Vice-President.

Democratic National Convention at Baltimore, held May 5, 1840, nominated Martin Van Buren for President, but made no nomination for Vice-President.

Fourteenth Presidential Campaign.—In 1840 General William Henry Harrison, of Ohio, and John Tyler, of Virginia, were the Whigcandidates, Martin Van Buren and R. M. Johnson were the Democratic, and James G. Birney and Francis J. Lemoyne were the "Liberty" party, or Abolition condidates. This was known as the "log cabin and hard cider" campaign. Gen. Harrison had 294, and John Tyler 234 electoral votes, and a popular vote of 1,275,015. Van Buren had 60, and Johnson 48 electoral and 1,128,702 popular votes. The "Liberty" party cast a popular vote of 7,059. General William Henry Harrison, of Ohio, and John Tyler, of Virginia, were inaugurated as President and Vice-President of the United States March 4, 1841.

Presidential Inauguration of John Tyler.—William Henry Harrison, President of the United States, died on April 4, 1841, and John Tyler, Vice-President, was inaugurated President on April 6, 1841.

Whig Convention met at Baltimore on May 1, 1844, and nominated Henry Clay, of Kentucky, for President, and Theodore Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, for Vice-President.

Democratic Convention met at Baltimore on May, 27, 1844, and nominated James K. Polk, of Tennessee, for President, and George M. Dallas, of Pennsylvania, for Vice-President.

Fifteenth Presidential Campaign.—In 1844 James K. Polk and George M. Dallas, the Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President, received 170 electoral and 1,337,243 popular votes. Clay and Frelinghuysen received 105 electoral and 1,299,068 popular votes. Birney and Morris, supported by the Liberty party, received 62,300 votes. The inauguration of James K. Polk, of Tennessee, as President, and George M. Dallas, as Vice-President of the United States, occurred March 4, 1845.

Democratic National Convention met at Baltimore May 22, 1848, and nominated Lewis Cass for President, and William O. Butler for Vice-President. This convention split in two sections, the "Barnburners," or free-soil Democrats, who opposed the extension of slavery, and the "Hunkers," who wished to let slavery alone. The former finally withdrew from the party.

Whig National Convention met at Philadelphia July 7, 1848, and nominated General Zachary Taylor, of Louisiana, for President, and Millard Fillmore, of New York, for Vice-President.

Sixteenth Presidential Campaign.—In 1848 Lewis Cass, of Michigan, and William O. Butler, of Kentucky, were the nominees of the Democrats for President and Vice-President. The Whigs supported General Zachary Taylor, of Louisiana, and Millard Fillmore, of New York. The candidates of the Free-Soilers were Martin Van Buren, of New York, and Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts. The votes were as follows, viz.: Taylor and Fillmore, 1,360,101 popular, and 163 electoral; Cass. and Butler, 1,220,544 popular, 127 electoral; Van Buren and Adams, 291,263 popular, and no electoral votes. The inauguration of Zachary Taylor, of Louisiana, as President, and Millard Fillmore, of New York, as Vice-President of the United States, occurred March 4, 1849.

Millard Fillmore was inaugurated President of the United States, July 10, 1850; Vice-President, Taylor, who died July 9, 1850.

Democratic Convention met at Baltimore June 1, 1852, and nominated Franklin Pierce, of New Hampshire, for President, and William R. King, of Alabama, for Vice-President.

Whig Convention met June 16, 1852, and nominated General Winfield Scott, of Virginia, for President, and William A. Graham, of North Carolina, for Vice-President. This was the last Whig convention.

Free-Soil Party, August 11, 1852, nominated John P. Hale, of New Hampshire, for President, and Geo. W. Julian, of Indiana, for Vice-President. It denounced slavery as a "sin against God and a crima against man," Seventeenth Presidential Campaign.—In 1852 the campaign occurred with the following result, viz.: Pierce and King, Democrats, had 1.601,474 popular, and 254 electoral votes; Scott and Graham, Whigs, had 1,386,578 popular, and 42 electoral votes; Hale and Julian, Free-Soilers, had 156,149 popular votes. The right of succession had been discussed in several Southern conventions this year. The inauguration of Franklin Pierce, of New Hampshire, as President of the United States took place March 4, 1853. William R. King was in Cuba, and was sworn in as Vice-President, March 24th, by United States Consul Sharkey.

Republican Convention met at Philadelphia, June 17, 1856, and nominated John C. Fremont, of California, as President, and William L. Dayton, of New Jersey, as Vice-President. It declared in favor of internal improvements, the right to prohibit slavery and polygamy in the Territories, and of admitting Kansas as a free State.

Know-Nothing Convention met February 22, 1856, and nominated Millard Fillmore, of New York, for President, and Andrew J. Donelson, of Tennessee, for Vice-President. This party was a secret organization, opposed to foreigners, and favored a naturalization only after 21 years' residence. This was the only campaign in which the party presented candidates for President and Vice-President.

Democratic Convention met at Cincinnati June 2, 1856, and nominated James Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, for President, and John C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, for Vice-President.

Eighteenth Presidential Campaign of 1856 resulted as follows, viz.: Buchanan and Breckinridge had 1,838,169 popular, and 174 electoral votes; Fremont and Dayton had 1,341,264 popular, and 114 electoral votes; Fillmore and Donelson had 874,534 popular, and 8 electoral votes. The latter carried the State of Maryland. The inauguration of James Buchanan, as President, and John C. Breckinridge, as Vice-President of the United States, took place March 4, 1857.

Republican Convention met at Chicago, May 16, 1860, and nominated Abraham Lincoln, of Illinois, for President, and Hannibal Hamlin, of Maine, for Vice-President.

Constitutional Union Party, at its convention in Baltimore, May 19, 1860, nominated John Bell, of Tennessee, for President, and Edward Everett, of Massachusetts as Vice-President.

Democratic National Convention, held at Charleston, S. C., April 23, 1860, split upon the doctrine of "popular sovereignty." The delegates from several slave States seceded and adjourned to meet at Richmond, Va.; the Northern delegates adjourned to meet at Baltimore, Md. The latter held their convention at Baltimore, June 18, 1860, and nominated for President, Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinois, and for Vice-President Hershel V. Johnson, of Georgia. The Democratic seceders met in convention at Baltimore, June 28, 1860, and nominated John C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, for President, and Joseph Lane, of Oregon, for Vice-President.

Nineteenth Presidential Campaign, November 6, 1860.—As the result of this election Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin were the successful candidates, receiving 180 electoral votes, and a popular vote of 1,866,352; Breckinridge and Lane, 72 electoral, and 845,763 popular votes; Bell and Everett, 39 electoral, and 589,581 popular votes, and Douglas and Johnson 12 electoral, and 1,375,157 popular votes. Lincoln and Hamlin carried all the Northern States except New Jersey, which cast three electorals for Lincoln, and four for Douglas. The inauguration of Abraham Lincoln, as President, and Hannibal Hamlin, as Vice-President of the United States, took place at Washington, D. C., March 4, 1861, notwithstanding fears of violence.

Republican National Convention, held at Baltimore, June 7, 1864, nominated Abraham Lincoln, of Illinois, for President, and Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, for Vice-President. It took a decided stand and opposed any compromise upon the question of the rebellion.

Democratic National Convention met at Chicago, August 29, 1864, and nominated George B. McClellan, of New Jersey, for President, and George H. Pendleton, of Ohio, for Vice-President of the United States.

Twentieth Presidential Campaign, November 8, 1864, resulted in the election of Lincoln and Johnson, who received 2,216,067 popular, and 212 electoral votes; McClellan and Pendleton had 1,808,725 popular, and 21 electoral votes. Eleven States in the Confederacy had 81 electoral votes, which would not have changed the result if they had all been cast for the defeated candidates. Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated as President, and Andrew Johnson, as Vice-President of the United States, March 4, 1865.

Andrew Johnson was sworn in as President of the United States, April 15, 1865, by Chief Justice Chase. President Lincoln was assassinated on April 14, 1865.

Republican National Convention met at Chicago, Ill., May 20, 1868, and nominated U. S. Grant, of Illinois, for President, and Schuyler Colfax, of Indiana, for Vice-President of the United States.

Democratic National Convention met at New York, July 4, 1868, and nominated Horatio Seymour, of New York, for President, and Francis P. Blair, of Missouri, as Vice-President of the United States.

Twenty-first Presidential Campaign.—November 3, 1868, General Grant and Schuyler Colfax, the Republican nominees, were elected President and Vice-President of the United States. They received 214 electoral and 3,015,071 popular votes; Seymour and Blair received 80 electoral, and 2,709,613 popular votes. Nine of the electoral votes cast for the latter candidates were from the State of Georgia. U.S. Grant was inaugurated President, and Schuyler Colfax, Vice-President of the United States March 4, 1869.

Liberal Republican Convention.—Horace Greely, of New York, and B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri, were nominated May 1, 1872, for President and Vice-President of the United States, by the "Liberal Republicans," in convention at Cincinnati, Ohio, National Democratic Convention was held at Baltimore, July 9, 1872, and adopted the candidates and platform of the Liberal Republicans.

National Republican Convention met at Philadelphia, June 5, 1872, and nominated U. S. Grant for President, and Henry Wilson of Massachusetts for Vice-President of the United States.

Twenty-second Presidential Campaign, November 5, 1872, resulted in the election of Grant and Wilson, Republicans. They received 286 electoral, and 3,597,070 popular votes. The Democrats and Liberals received 47 electoral, and 2,834,079 popular votes. U. S. Grant and Henry Wilson were inaugurated President and Vice-President of the United States March 4, 1873.

Republican National Convention met at Cincinnati, Ohio, June 14, 1876, and nominated Rutherford B. Hayes, of Ohio for President, and William A. Wheeler, of New York, for Vice-President of the United States.

National Greenback Convention met at Indianapolis, Ind., May 17, 1876, and nominated Peter Cooper, of New York, for President, and Samuel F. Carey, of Ohio, for Vice-President of the United States.

Democratic National Convention met at St. Louis, Mo., June 27, 1876, and nominated Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, for President, and Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, for Vice-President of the United States.

Twenty-third Presidential Campaign, November 7, 1876.—The votes were as follows, viz.: Tilden and Hendricks, Democrats, received 184 electoral, and 4,284,885 popular votes. Hayes and Wheeler, Republicans, received 166 electoral votes. Peter Cooper, Greenback, 81,740 popular votes, and Green Clay Smith, Prohibitionist, 9,522. Louisiana, Florida, and South Carolina were in doubt. If the electoral vote of any one of the doubtful States should be given to Tilden and Hendricks, it would elect them, but if all of the doubtful States should be given to the Republicans, Hayes and Wheeler would have 185 electoral votes, and would be elected President and Vice-President.

Electoral Commission Bill.—To settle the dispute of the doubtful States, and to avoid all further controversy, Congress passed a bill January 29, 1877, which was signed by the President, entitled the "Electoral Commission Bill." It provided that in the case where double returns were made by several States they should be referred to a commission composed of five Senators, five Congressmen, and five Justices of Republican National Convention met at Chicago, Ill., June 26, 1888, and nominated Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, for President, and Levi P. Morton, of New York, for Vice-President.

Twenty-Sixth Presidential Campaign.—The election took place November the 4th, 1888; the Republicans succeeded in electing Benjamin Harrison, President, and Levi P. Morton, Vice-President. Harrison and Morton secured 233 electoral and 5,540,329 popular votes; Cleveland and Thurman received 168 electoral and 5,439,853 popular votes; Fisk, the Prohibitionist, 257,243; Labor Vote, 114.623 and no electoral vote. The inauguration of Benjamin Harrison, President, and Levi P. Morton, Vice-President, occurred on March 4, 1889.

Twenty-Seventh Presidential Campaign.—The election took place November 8th, 1892. The Democrats elected Grover Cleveland President and A. E. Stevenson Vice-President. Cleveland and Stevenson secured 5,556,533 popular votes and 277 electoral votes. Harrison and Reid received 5,175,577 popular votes and 145 electoral votes. Weaver, People's Party, 1,122,045, and 22 electoral. Wing, Labor, 21,191. Bidwell, Prohibition, 2,179,191. Total popular vote, 12,154,542.

Twenty-eighth Presidential Campaign.—The election was held November 3, 1896. The Republicans elected William McKinley, President, and Garrett A. Hobart, Vice-President. McKinley and Hobart received 7,106,199 popular votes and 271 electoral votes. William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall, the Democratic-Populist Candidates, received 6,502,685 popular votes and 176 electoral votes. John M. Palmer and Simon B. Buckner, National (or Gold) Democrats, received 132,171 popular votes and no electoral votes

POLITICAL PARTIES IN THE UNITED STATES.

The French and Indian war, which lasted from 1754 to 1760, created a communistic interest among the thirteen English colonies which then existed along the Atlantic coast, inasmuch as they had made common cause with each other in assisting the mother country to dispossess the French of their American possessions, and to hold the savages in check who were their allies. At the close of this war, of the two opposing political parties in England,—the Whigs and the Tories,—the latter were in the ascendency, and their policy toward the American colonies was to govern them by coercive measures, and tax them according to the option of the Crown, as supposed necessities, required. The policy of the Whig party was opposed to these arbitrary measures, and in favor of a more conciliatory rule of government for the colonies. Each party had its supporters among the colonists. The Tories had theirs among the Governors and their subordinates, and the Whigs had theirs among the people, and these were the first two political parties in America. It was the American Whigs who were instrumental in calling together the old Continental Congress, which planned the American Revolution, and the American Tories who exerted themselves to make this plan miscarry.

The Federalists.—They were the first political party known after the Revolution. Before the war, they had been Whigs. They had framed the articles of confederation which went into force in November, 1777, and had carried the colonies triumphantly through the struggle. And this party had the unanimous support of the nation and the people, till it came to be seen that the old articles of confederation were insufficient to bind a great nation together, and a constitution must be substituted for it.

This constitution was framed under their guidance, and went into force in 1789, after being ratified by nine States, the required number. But during the heated debates in framing this constitution, jarring interests were brought to the surface, and in 1797 a new political party was formed, called

The Republicans, or Anti-Federalists.—The gravity, dignity, wisdom and conservatism, all combined, of the old Federal party, had been taxed to its utmost to meet the exigency in quelling insubordination while morally enforcing the constitution upon the nation. At the head of the list of their names stood Washington, Adams, Hamilton, Jay and Madison; and, while the new party was, at least ostensibly, favorable to the recent constitution, it was in favor of construing it with as strict a license as possible for State sovereignty, and of lessening and mitigating its binding force on the States as to financial policies or any other separate State interest.

Two administrations by Washington and one by Adams governed the nation under the Federal policy; but in the fourth administration, the Republicans, or Anti-Federalists, came into power. This was in 1801, with Jefferson as President, and Aaron Burr as Vice-President. Jefferson used his authority with moderation, turning no Federalists out of office except such as had been extreme partisans; but he did effect a repeal of a judiciary law, by which the Federalists had established twenty-four courts, officered from their own ranks. By this act he undermined the only remaining foundation of Federal power, and this party never again elected a President, though it rallied its forces to vie with its opponents for the next five Presidential elections, during which time Jefferson had served two terms, Madison two, and Monroe one. Monroe was elected also for the next term, without any opposing candidates in the field. The old Federal party was extinct, and perhaps it is not too much to say that it had died for want of an active issue. The principles on which it stood were positive ones; but, as no voice or arm was raised against them, they had gone into disuse, and the necessity for them had disappeared.

John Quincy Adams was next elected President, but by the House of Representatives, as no constitutional choice had been made by the people, there being so many candidates in the field. They were J. Q. Adams, Henry Clay, Wm. H. Crawford and Andrew Jackson, and it is significant of the unsettled or rather immatured theories in the minds of the people, that none of these candidates fully represented any party. The most vital issue then before the country was the construction to be put on the constitution as to State rights; and on this subject fallow ground had to be broken, for no such issue had ever come up before in the history of any nation. The terms "Loose Constructionists" and "Strict Constructionists" now came into use.

The Democratic Party.—The candidates for the next Presidential election succeeding that of John Quincy Adams, were himself and Andrew Jackson. Adams took the field as a Republican, and Jackson as a Democrat, he being the first candidate under that name, albeit his party claimed to be the representatives of the Anti-Federals or Republicans par excellence. This Democratic party was composed of Young America in the heyday of his glory, rough and ready, sanguine, and defiant to opponents. Its standard-bearer was a man successful in war, and inflexible in purpose. He had taken summary vengeance at the battle of New Orleans, on the British army that had humiliated our flag at Washington. He was elected by a large majority, and he it was who practically laid the foundation for the success that gave his party such a strong hold on the affections of the popular heart. This party was opposed to high tariff, unfriendly to banks, and parsimonious with the public funds as to appropriations for public improvements. It made high pretentions as to equal rights, and broke down every vestige of that official dignity which the old Federal party had inherited from regal formalities. direct cause of the decline of Democratic power was the political favor which the party showed to the slave interest when the anti-slavery issue came up.

The Nullification Party.—This party which dated from 1830, composed the rump of the Anti-Federal party. They were its extremists. They held that any State in the Union had a right to absolve itself from obligations to the Federal Government. Calhoun stood at its head, and, while he was cherished by his own peculiar constituency, he never succeeded in making his policy national, but did succeed in spreading a treacherous snare, in which the Southern States set their feet, after his death, by rebelling against the government.

The Whig Party.—This party was made up from the opposing elements averse to the party that had held the reins of government since the days of Jefferson. It was in favor of a liberal system of public improvements, a tariff, and banking. John Quincy Adams was practically its first standard bearer, though not at first a Whig by name. He was a liberal constructionist when he was first a candidate for the Presidency, and was elected as such. After the election of Jackson, the Whigs, though defeated, continued to contend against the Democrats, and were successful in the memorable campaign of 1840, when General Harrison was elected President by a large majority over Van Buren. At the next Presidential election the Whigs were defeated by the Democrats, who elected James K. Polk; but they again rallied, and beat their oponents in the Presidential contest of 1848, and elected Zachary Taylor. At the next election, in 1852, the Whigs chose the venerable Winfield Scott for their standard bearer; but the Democrats beat them by taking up a much less noted man,—Franklin Pierce. This was the last effort the Whigs ever made to come into power. Their ranks were full of Abolitionists, and any attempt to cope with their adversaries only as Whigs was found to be hopeless.

The Abolition Party.—This party was organized in 1840, and chose James G. Birney as its candidate for President. It only obtained a few votes, but continued to advocate its doctrines till it ultimately succeeded in all it aimed at, but under a new organization, in connection with a new party,—the Republicans.

The Republican Party of 1856.—This party was organized in opposition to the Democrats, with the chief plank in its platform to prohibit the spread of slavery in the Territories. It did not advocate the abolition of slavery where it existed, but spread its political sails to the abolition breeze unofficially through the press of the country, and the Abolitionists were unanimous in its support. It was unsuccessful in its first attempt to elect a President in the campaign of 1856, but chose Abraham Lincoln for its champion in 1860, and elected him by a large majority. Mr. Lincoln took his position before the country with misgivings and doubt. If moderate and wise counsels could have saved a nation from war, he certainly would have succeeded in preserving peace; but this was impossible, and a four-years war followed, with the liberation of the slaves as its chief result.

The Greenback Party.—This party took its rise in the currency and paper money discussions during the war. In 1864, a convention of farmers at Bloomington, McLean county, Illinois, adopted a Labor and Greenback platform.

Age of Union Generals in Service During the Civil War.

"Gen. Grant won his campaign of the Tennessee, and fought the battles of Henry, Donelson and Shiloh when he was thirty-eight years of age. Sherman entered upon his onerous work in the Southwest when he was forty-one, and accomplished the march to the sea when he was forty-four. Thomas began his splendid career in Kentucky when he was forty-three, and fought the critical and victorious battle of Nashville when he was forty-six. Sheridan was but thirty-three when he confirmed a reputation, already enviable by his great campaign of 1864 in the Shenandoah Valley. Meade won the decisive battle of Gettysburg when he was forty-seven. McClellan was but thirty-five when he succeeded Gen. Scott in command of the army. McDowell was forty-five when he fought the first battle of magnitude in the war. Buell was forty-two when he joined his forces with Grant's army on the second day's fight at Shiloh. Pope was scarcely over forty when he attained the highest credit for his success in the Southwest. Hancock was forty-one when he proved himself one of the most brilliant commanders in the army by his superb bearing on the field of Spottsylvania. Hooker was forty-six when he assumed command of the Army of the Potomac.

"General Schofield was thirty-four when he commanded with signal ability and success in the battle of Franklin. John Reynolds was forty-three when he fell at the head of his corps in the first day's fight at Gettysburg, Rosecrans was forty-two when he gained the important victory at Stone River. Burnside was thirty-seven when he made the admirable record of his North Carolina campaign. Howard was thirty-two when he was assigned to the command of a corps, and only a year older when he succeeded McPherson in the command of the Army of the Tennessee. McPherson was thirty-five when he gave up his heroic life on the bloody field before Atlanta. Slocum was an able corps commander at thirty-two. William F. Smith was thirty-eight when he handled his division with consummate skill at White Oak Swamp. Joseph J. Reynolds was a Major-General before he was forty. Parke was at the head of a corps when he was thirty-five. Hazen was thirty-four when he led in the important capture of Fort McAllister. McKenzie, Custer, Kilpatrick and Ames had each won his star before he had passed his twenty sixth year. The only West Point man who became conspicuous in the command of troops after he was fifty years of age was David Hunter. He entered upon his sixtieth year on the day of the unfortunate battle of Bull Run."

ASTRONOMICAL DATA.

DISTANCES, PERIODS, DIMENSIONS AND GRAVITY OF THE SUN AND PLANETS, ETC.

The Sun is 852,900 miles in diameter, and weighs 750 times as much as the earth, moon and all the planets, asteroids, etc., together; but its substance is much lighter than that of the earth, one cubic foot being only one-fourth as heavy as the same quantity of earth.

Mercury is 35,392,000 miles from the sun. Its year\* is 87 days 23 hours 15 minutes and 46 seconds long, and its day  $\dagger$  a little more than 24 hours. It is 3,058 miles in diameter; it weighs about  $\frac{65}{100}$  as much as the earth, but its substance is  $\frac{12}{100}$  heavier than that of the earth.

Venus is 66,134,000 miles from the sun. Its year is 224 days 16 hours 49 minutes and 7 seconds; it turns on its axis once in every 23 hours 21 minutes and 23 seconds, is 7,510 miles in diameter, weighs about  $\frac{89}{100}$  as much as the earth, and its substance is 3-10 heavier than that of the earth.

The Earth is 91,430,000 miles from the sun. It makes one complete revolution around the sun in a year of 365 days 6 hours 9 minutes  $10^{-7.5}_{-1.00}$  seconds, turns on its axis once in 23 hours and 56 minutes, is about 7,926 miles in diameter, and weighs 6,069,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

The Moon is 238,793 miles from the earth, measuring from centre to centre. It makes one complete apparent revolution around the earth in 29 days 12 hours 44 minutes 3 seconds, though it requires only 27 days 7 hours 43 minutes and 11½ seconds to complete its revolution in its orbit. This variation is due to the motion of the earth around the sun. The commonly received "lunar month" is 28 days. The diameter of the moon is  $\frac{2729}{10000}$  that of the earth, or 2,153 miles; it turns on its axis in about 273 days; its volume is about  $\frac{1}{49}$  that of the earth, or 5,200,000,000 cubic miles.

Mars is 139,311,000 miles from the sun, and at its nearest point of approach is 34,000,000 miles from the earth. Its diameter is 4,363 miles, it turns on its axis once every  $24\frac{1}{2}$  hours, makes one revolution around the sun in 687 days, and its substance is  $\frac{9.48}{1000}$  as heavy as that of the earth.

The Asteroids and Minor Planets thus far discovered are 146 in number, and occupy the interval between Mars and Jupiter. They are located at distances varying from 200,000,000 to 315,000,000 miles from the sun, around which they revolve in periods varying from 3 years 3 months and 17 days (the period occupied by the asteroid Flora) to 6 years 3 months and 28 days (the period of Maximiliana). The most important of them, Pallas, is estimated to be 600 miles in diameter, while others are not more than 20 miles, or less.

* A "year" on the earth measures the time which it takes for this planet to make one revolution around the sun. Mercury completes its revolution in 87 days 23 hours 15 minutes and 46 seconds; therefore this is the length of a year on that planet.

† A "day" on the earth measures the time which it takes for this planet to turn once on its axis. Mercury turns on its axis once every 24 hours 5 minutes and 30 seconds; therefore this is the length of a day on that planet.

Jupiter is 475,692,000 miles from the sun, has four moons, revolves around the sun in about 12 years, is 1,233 times as large as the earth, and its diameter is 85,000 miles. It revolves on its axis in 9 hours 55 minutes and 26 seconds, and its substance is estimated to be only  $\frac{5}{25}$  as heavy, in proportion, as that of the earth. Its four moons are respectively 3,436 miles, 2,929 miles, 2,352 miles and 2,099 miles in diameter; and taken together, they would form a body nine times the size of our moon, and about one-fifth the volume of the earth.

Saturn is 872,137,000 miles from the sun, around which it revolves in 29 years and 167 days; it turns upon its axis once every 10 hours 29 minutes and 17 seconds. Its diameter is about 70,100 miles, and its substance is about  $\frac{13}{100}$  as heavy, in proportion, as that of the earth. It has eight moons, the largest of which, Titan, is about 4,380 miles in diameter. The planet is also surrounded by a series of rings, 166,920 miles in diameter.

Uranus is 1,753,869,000 miles from the sun, yet, from its great size, is sometimes visible to the naked eye. It revolves around the sun once in about every 84 years, is 74 times larger than the earth, and is 32,250 miles in diameter. It is known to have four moons, and is supposed to have eight. Its substance is only one-sixth as heavy, in proportion, as that of the earth.

Neptune is 2,745,998,000 miles from the sun, around which it revolves in about 165 years, and is 37,236 miles in diameter. It has one moon, which revolves around it at a distance of about 220,000 miles. Its substance is only  $\frac{4}{25}$  as heavy, in proportion, as that of the earth.

An alien must declare upon oath, before a circuit or district court of the United States, or a district or supreme court of the Territories, or a court of record of any of the States having common law jurisdiction, and a seal and clerk, two years at least prior to his admission, that it is, bona fide, his intention to become a citizen of the United States, and to renounce forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince or State, and particularly to the one of which he may be at the time a citizen or subject.

OATH ON APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION.

An alien must, at the time of his application to be admitted declare on oath, before some one of the courts above specified, "that he will support the Constitution of the United States, and that he absolutely and entirely renounces and abjures all allegiance and fidelity to every foreign prince, potentate, State or sovereignty, and particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate. State or sovereignty of which he was before a citizen or subject," which proceedings must be recorded by the clerk of the court.

CONDITIONS FOR CITIZENSHIP.

If it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court to which the alier has applied that he has resided continuously within the United States for at least five years, and within the State or Territory where such court is at the time held one year at least, and that during that time "he has behaved as a man of good moral character, attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same," he will be admitted to citizenship.

TITLES OF NOBILITY.

In case the applicant has borne any hereditary title or order of nobility, he must make an express renunciation of the same at the time of his application.

SOLDIERS.

Any alien of the age of twenty-one years and upward, who has been in the armies of the United States and has been honorably discharged therefrom, may become a citizen on his petition, without any previous declaration of intention, provided that he has resided in the United States at least one year previous to his application, and is of good moral character.

MINORS.

Any alien under the age of twenty-one years who has resided in the United States three years next preceding his arriving at that age, and who has continued to reside therein to the time he may make application to be admitted a citizen thereof, may, after he arrives at the age of twenty-one years, and after he has resided five years within the United States, including the three years of his minority, be admitted a citizen; but he must make a declaration on oath and prove to the satisfaction of the court that for two years next, preceding it has been his bona fide intention to become a citizen.

CHILDREN OF NATURALIZED CITIZENS.

The children of persons who have been duly naturalized, being under the age of twenty-one years at the time of the naturalization of their parents, shall, if dwelling in the United States, be considered as citizens thereof.

CITIZEN'S CHILDREN WHO ARE BORN ABROAD.

The children of persons who now are or have been citizens of the United States are, though born out of the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, considered as citizens thereof.

NATURALIZED CITIZENS' PROTECTION ABROAD.

Section 2000 of the Revised Statutes of the United States declares that "all naturalized citizens of the United States, while in foreign countries, are entitled to and shall receive from this government the same protection of persons and property which is accorded to native-born citizens"

Your Political Duty as a Citizen.

It is your duty, if you are of age and a man, to vote at all elections, and to inform yourself beforehand what measures and men you ought as a good citizen to support.

It is your duty to act generally with some political party, and to exert your influence upon its leaders to induce the nomination of capable and honest men for office. And it is your duty if your party nominates a bad man, to vote against him, and thus keep the public and general good before your eyes, and set an example of true public spirit before your fellows.

If you have political rights of which, even by your own will, you cannot divest yourself, and which are therefore properly called inalienable. so you have political duties which also you cannot justly neglect or lay aside.

It is your duty to watch the conduct of public officers, to see that they perform their duties and observe their constitutional limitations; and if they do not, then it is your duty to help expose them, and at the elections to punish them. For it is only by such vigilance that a nation can preserve its liberties unimpaired.

It is your duty as an American citizen to obey the laws, even if they are, in your belief, unjust or unwise. It is your right to expose the folly and injustice of a law, to demand its repeal, and to try to get a majority to repeal it.

It is your duty to insist upon the prompt execution of the laws; to be ready, even at much personal inconvenience, to aid in their enforcement, if you are called upon by proper officers; and to resent with indignation every sign of lawlessness and violence, and require its vigorous suppression.

It is your duty, if you are a voter, and qualified, to serve, when called on, as a grand or petit juror; and this at even great inconvenience.

It is your duty to serve in the militia, if the law commands it; and every American voter ought to have a sufficient knowledge of the manual and use of arms to enable him to act efficiently if called out to help put down a riot.

These are your political duties, which you cannot neglect or abjura without disgrace to yourself and harm to the country.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

(FROM A PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN IN 1889.)

Jefferson Davis is one of the most notable characters on the pages of America's political history. As a statesman he held high rank, and as the leader of an army, who believed in the doctrine of State Rights, he won for himself the esteem of all who loved the South, or who believed in or espoused her cause.

Jefferson Davis was born in what is now known as Todd County, Ky., June 3, 1808. His father was a revolutionary hero, and when Jefferson was an infant removed to Mississippi. Young Davis entered Transylvania College, where he remained until appointed by President Monroe to the U.S. Military Academy. On his graduation in 1828 he was to the U.S. Military Academy. On his graduation in 1828 he was assigned to the 1st Infantry and served on the frontier, taking part in the Black Hawk war of 1831-32. He was promoted to First Lieutenant of Dragoons on March 4, 1833, but after more service against the Indians, abruptly resigned on June 30, 1835, and having married, after a romantic elopement, the daughter of Zachary Taylor, then a colonel in the army, settled near Vicksburg, Miss., and became a cotton planter. Here he passed a life of study and retirement until 1843, when he entered politics in the midst of an exciting gubernatorial contest. In 1844 he made a great reputation as a public speaker, and was chosen an elector on the Polk and Dallas ticket. In December of the following year he was sent to Congress, where he at once took an active part in the debates, speaking on the Tariff, the Oregon question, and matters concerning the preparations for war with Mexico. In June, 1846, he resigned his seat to accept the Colonelcy of the 1st Mississippi Volunteer regiment, which regiment he joined at New Orleans and led it to re-enforce General Taylor on the Rio Grande. He was severely wounded in 1847, the same year his regiment was ordered home. President Polk then made him a Brigadier General, but he declined the commission, on the ground that a militia appointment by the Federal executive was unconstitutional. In August of the same year he was appointed to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate, and in 1848 was elected for the full term, and in 1850 was honored with a re-election. He at once took a prominent place in committee work, and was considered one of the ablest debaters on the floor of that eminent body. In 1851 he resigned his seat to take part in his canvass for Governor of the State, which office he only escaped being elected to by a few thousand votes. In the Presidential contest of 1852 he supported Franklin Pierce, and on his election was made Secretary of War in his Cabinet. His long service in the army fitted him well for these duties, and his administration tended toward the building up that important branch of the public service.

Mr. Davis was a firm believer in the doctrine of State Rights, and his whole public life was consecrated to the advancement of the cause and the education of the people up to it. On January 10, 1861, he made a speech in the Senate, asserting the right of secession, denying that of coercion, and urging the withdrawal of the garrison from Fort Sumter. Mississippi had seceded the day before, and on the 24th day of the same month Mr. Davis withdrew from the Senate and went to his home, having taken leave of his associates in a speech in which he defended the cause of the South, and, in closing, begged pardon of all whom he might have offended. He was then made Commander-in-Chief of the army of Mississippi, which office he shortly after resigned to become President of the Confederate States. This office he held until the close of the war, when he was arrested on the charge of treason, but the case was never pressed, and the indictment was subsequently quashed. During the war he was driven from his home with his family, and endured many hardships. He returned to Vicksburg at its close, and after a controversy with the officers of the Freedman's Bureau, regained possession of his estate, but continued to reside in Vicksburg. He was noted for his benevolence, and many youths of both sexes were indebted to him for a liberal education. He died on the sixth day of December, 1889, surrounded by his family, with the exception of his daughter, Winnie, who was traveling in Europe for her health. His last hours were peaceful, and he passed away painlessly.

As soon as his death was known the South began to take on the garb of mourning. Telegrams of condolence to Mrs. Davis were sent by Governors Lee, of Virginia; Fowle, of North Carolina; Lowry, of Mississippi; Ross, of Texas; Richardson, of South Carolina, and Nichols, of Louisiana; Justice Lamar, of the United States Supreme Court; Senators Walthall and George, of Mississippi, and Reagan, of Texas; Henry W. Grady, of Atlanta, and from Confederate veterans and public officials in all parts of the South.

On Wednesday, December 11th, the Confederate Chieftain was laid to rest amid the peace and quiet of a summer's day, and mourning thousands followed his remains in tearful sorrow to their final resting place. entire people of the South regarded his memory with feelings of the highest respect, esteem and affection, and they did not cease to show it until the green sod had been placed upon the new-made grave. His was indeed an eventful life, and one replete with personal reminiscences and thrilling incidents, which will be found on the pages of our American political history, and which will be read so long as there is a union of states and patriotism is the guiding star of the Republic.

TO DETECT COUNTERFEIT MONEY.

The following simple rules, laid down by Bank Note Examiner George R. Baker, will be found of service in the detection of counterfeits:

1. Examine the form and features of all human figures; if graceful and features distinct, examine the drapery. Notice whether the folds lie naturally, and observe whether the fine strands of the hair are plain and distinct.

2. Examine the lettering. In a genuine bill it is absolutely perfect. There has never been a counterfeit put out but was more or less defective in the lettering.

3. Counterfeiters rarely, if ever, get the imprint or engraver's name correct. The shading in the background of the vignette and over and around the letters forming the name of the bank, on a good bill, is even and perfect, on a counterfeit it is uneven and imperfect.

4. The die work around the figures of the denomination should be of the same character as the ornamental work surrounding it.

5. Never take a bill deficient in any of these points.

DATES OF COUNTERFEIT COINS.

Doubie Eagle, $20.—1850, '51, '80, '84. Eagle, $10.—Extensively counterfeited prior to 1805; '01, '02, '10, '41, '47, '49, '52, '55, '58, '61, '71, '75, '79, '80, '81. Note.—The population of Chinese cities, other than Canton, Pekin and Shanghai, is omitted, because reports respecting it are altogether untrustworthy. There are forty or more Chinese cities whose inhabitants are numbered by rumor at from 200,000 to 1,000,000 each, but no official censuses have ever been taken; and setting aside theOriental tendency to exaggeration, there is no reason to believe that the estimates of population in many instances covered districts of country bearing the same names as the cities, instead of definite municipalities.

Ireland and India.

The population of Ireland, as fixed by the census of April, 1891, is 4,720,160. This shows a loss of population of a million during the last thirty years, and of three and a half millions during the last fifty years; for in 1841, the total population was 8,199,853—the largest number shown by any census during the century. During the last ten years Ireland's population has decreased 454,676.

Nothing could speak more eloquently than these figures of the failure of the old English plan of governing Ireland on the principle of first ascertaining what the Irish people don't want and then doing it. Other parts of the British Empire have not been depopulated in this manner. India has prospered under British rule. As shown by the census of February, 1891, the population of British India amounts to 220,500,000 souls. In all India there are 286,000,000. That is, in addition to the  $220,500\,000$ directly under British rule, there are a trifle over 65,500,000 more people over whom the British Government exercises a quasi and semi-feudal authority. During the past decade the increase of population in India has been 26,000,000, or ten per cent. These figures are as eloquent as to the comparative benefits of British rule in India as the Irish census is eloquent in condemnation. They show that famine, internecine wars and pestilence are not the frightful scourges in India that they were under native rule.

The enumeration of the 220,000,000 people in India was accomplished on February 26, 1891, on which day no less than 1,000,000 census-takers were employed. So far as appears the business was done well.

OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE FAIR.

The general and operating expenses of conducting the Exposition from May 1 to October 31 are compared in this table:

Months.	Receipts.	Expen's	Net.	Months.	Receipts.	Expenses.	Net.
May June July August	1,967,194	630,505 598,319	1,017,049 1,368,874	October		610,000

The average daily receipts, exclusive of Sunday, were $89,501.53, and the average daily expenditures, $22,405.30. Construction proper of the Exposition cost $18,322,622.56. The total operating expenses were $7,127,240.32. The director-general's department cost $13,136. The Columbian guard service cost $1,194,189, and the fire department $249,332.

The auxiliary congresses cost $74,014, the ceremonies committee spent $343,851, and the public amusement features cost $122,493, of which fireworks took $103,088. For insurance, $249,332 was spent; legal expenses, $36,988; medical service, $44,035, and the public comfort establishments, $29,310, with an offset of $1,900. The general expenses of the Fair, including salaries, rent, advertising and other expenditures, amounted to $1,294,565.92. Electrical service and apparatus cost $1,911,857.04, and Machinery Hall, $2,786,684.91. The terminal station and its accessories and service cost $1,247,101.48. Bands were paid $172,303.25.

It appears that the souvenir coins were profitable, despite the expense connected with their sale and disposal. The profit was $391,626.65, or about 75 cents each. Those unsold were returned to the government for reminting.

MECHANICS' LIEN LAW OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

(LAWS OF 1885.—CHAPTER 342.—AS AMENDED 1888.—MAY 27.)

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:-

SECTION 1. How and by Whom Lien acquired-Any person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association, who shall hereafter perform any labor or service, or furnish any materials which have been used or which are to be used in erecting, altering or repairing any house, wharf, pier, bulkhead, bridge, vault, building or appurtenances to any house, building or building lot, including fences, sidewalks, paving, fountains, fish-ponds, fruit and ornamental trees, or who shall hereafter perform any labor or services, or furnish any materials which have been used or which are to be used in improving or equipping any house, building or appurtenances, with any chandeliers, brackets, or other fixtures or appurtenances for supplying gas or electric light, with the consent of the owner, as hereinafter defined, or his agent or any contractor, or sub-contractor, or any other person contracting with such owner to erect, alter, repair, improve or equip, as aforesaid, within any of the cities or counties of this State, may upon filing the notice of lien prescribed in the fourth section of this act, have a lien for the principal and interest of the price and value of such labor and material upon such house, wharf, piers, bulkheads, bridges, vault, building or appurtenances, and upon the lot, premises, parcel or farm of land upon which the same may stand or be intended to stand, to the extent of the right, title, and interest at that time existing of such owner, whether owner in fee or of a less estate, or whether a lessee for a term of years, or vendee in possession under a contract existing at the time of the filing of said notice of lien, or of the owner of any right, title or interest in such an estate, which may be sold under an execution under the general provisions of the statutes in force in this State relating to liens of judgment and enforcement thereof, and also to the extent of the interest which the owner may have assigned by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days prior to the time of filing the notice of lien specified in the fourth section of this Act.

But in no case shall such owner be liable to pay by reason of all the liens filed pursuant to this act, a greater sum than the price stipulated and agreed to be paid in such contract, and remaining unpaid at the time of filing such lien, or in case there is no contract, than the amount of the value of such labor and material then remaining unpaid except as here-

- Payments in Advance or by Collusion.—If the owner or such person in interest as aforesaid, of any house, wharf, pier, bulkhead, bridge, vault, building or appurtenances, for or toward the construction, altering, repairing or improvement of which labor and service have been performed or materials have been furnished by contract, whether oral or written, shall for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this act or in advance of the terms of any contract, pay by collusion any money or other valuable thing on such contract, or give a mortgage or make any other lien or incumbrance upon said house, wharf, vault, building or appurtenances, lot, premises, parcel or farm of land upon which the same may stand or be intended to stand, or said improvement shall be made, and the amount still due or to become due to the contractor, subcontractor or assignee after such payment has been made, shall be insufficient to satisfy the claims made in conformity with the provisions of this act, the owner or other person in interest as aforesaid, shall be liable to the amount that would have been unpaid to said contractor, subcontractor or assignee, had said owner or other person in interest made no such payment or given no such mortgage, or effected no such lien or incumbrance, at the time of filing the notice of lien prescribed in the fourth section of this act, in the same manner as if no such conclusive payment, mortgage, lien or incumbrance had been made, given or effected.
- Demand upon Owner for Terms of Contracts.—Any person or § 3. persons firm or firms, corporation or association, performing any labor or service, or furnishing any materials for any of the purposes specified in the first section of this act, to or for any person other than the owner, may at any time demand of such owner or his authorized agent, the terms of the contract or agreement by which said house, wharf, pier, bulkhead, bridge, vault, building or appurtenances is being erected, altered, repaired or improvements made to any such house, building or building lot, and the amount due or unpaid the person or persons, firm, corporation or association, erecting, altering, repairing or improving the same; and if such owner or his said agent at the time of said demand shall neglect or refuse to inform the person making such demand of the terms of the contract or agreement under which the same are being terms of the contract of agreement and the amount due and unpaid upon such contract or agreement therefor, or shall intentionally and knowingly falsely state the terms of said contract or agreement, or the amount due or unpaid thereon; and if the person, persons, firm or firms, corporations or associations furnishing such materials or performing such labor or service shall sustain loss by reason of such refusal or neglect or false statement, the said owner shall be liable to them in an action therefor and the return unsatisfied of an execution against the party to whom such materials were furnished, or for whom such labor and service were performed, in an action for the collection of the value thereof, shall be presumptive proof of such loss, and the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association furnishing such materials or performing such labor and service or making such improvement, shall by filing within the time and in the manner the notice of lien prescribed by this act, have a lien upon the horse, wharf, vault, pier, bridge, bulkhead, building or appurtenances, and upon the lot, premises, parcel or farm of land upon which the same may stand or be intended to stand, or improvement is made, as in this act provided, for all materials furnished and labor and service performed after such neglect, refusal or false statement.

§ 4. Notice of Lien, Filing and Requisition of Notice upon Owner-At any time during the performance of the work, or the furnishing of the materials, or within ninety days after the completion of the contract or the final performances of the work, or the final furnishing of the material for which a lien is claimed, dating from the last item of work performed, or from the last item of material furnished, the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association furnishing such materials or performing such labor or service, may file a notice of lien in writing in the clerk's office in the county where the property is situated against which the lien is assessed, containing the names and residences of the claimants, the nature and amount of the labor and service performed, or the materials furnished or to be furnished, with the name of the owner, lessee, general assignee or person in possession of the premises against whose interest a lien is claimed; the name of the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association by whom he was employed, or to whom he furnished or is about to furnish such materials, or whether all the work for which the claim is made has been actually performed or furnished, and if not, how much of it, and also a description of the property to be charged with a lien sufficient for identification, and if in a city or village the situation of the building or buildings by street and number, if the street and number be known. But the failure to state the name of the true owner, lessee, general assignee, or person in possession shall not impair the validity of the lien. The said notice of lien must be verified by the person or one of the persons, member of a firm or firms, an officer of the corporation or association making the claim or his, its or their agent, to the effect that the statements therein contained are true to the knowledge or information and belief of the person making the same. The county clerk of each county shall provide and keep a book in his office to be called the "lien docket," which shall be suitably ruled in columns headed "claimants," "against whom claimed," "owners and parties in interest," "premises," "amount claimed;" in which he shall enter the particulars of such notice of lien together with the date, hour and minute of filing of the notice of lien, and what proceedings have been had, the names of the owners and persons in interest, and other persons against whom the claims are made shall be entered in said book in alphabetical order. A fee of twenty cents shall be paid to said clerk on filing such notice of lien. Every claimant shall within ten days after filing his notice of lien as herein provided, serve a copy of such notice upon the owner, or other person in interest by delivering the same to him personally or by leaving a copy thereof at his last known place of residence in the city or town in which said lands or part thereof are situated, with some person of suitable age and discretion, or if such owner or person in interest has no such residence, or such person cannot be found, by affixing a copy thereof conspicuously on said premises described in said notice of lien, between the hours of nine o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon. And after such service, such owner or the person in interest shall not be protected in any payment made to such contractor or other claimant.

§ 5. Priority of Liens—Building Contract—The liens provided for in this act shall be preferred as prior liens to any conveyance, judgment or other claim which was not docketed or recorded at the time of filing the notice of lien prescribed in the fourth section of this act, and prior to advances made upon any mortgage on the premises after the filing of such notice of lien, and prior to the claim of any creditor who has not furnished materials or performed labor upon any land, or towards the rection or improvement of premises, described in said notice of lien and which have been assigned by the owner, lessee or person in possession thereof, by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors within thirty days before the filing of the notice of lien provided for in the fourth section of this act. But nothing in this act shall affect the priority of the amount actually owing on a mortgage given for purchase-money. In cases in which the owner has made an agreement to sell and convey the premises to the contractor or other person, such owner shall be deemed to be the owner within the intent and meaning of this act, until the deed has been actually delivered and recorded, conveying said premises pursuant to such agreement.

§ 6. Limitations and Continuance of Lien—Lis Pendens—No lien provided for in this act shall bind the property therein described, for a longer period than one year after the notice of lien has been filed, unless within that time an action is commenced to enforce the same; and if the action is in a court of record, a notice of the pendency of such action is filed with the county clerk of the county in which such notice of lien is

Or unless an order be made by a court of record continuing such lien and a new docket be made stating such fact. And when a claimant is made a party defendant to any action brought to enforce any other lien, such action shall be deemed an action-to enforce the lien of such defendant, who is a claimant within the provisions of this act. The neglect to file the notice of pendency, provided for by this act, shall not abate any action which may be pending to enforce the lien, but such action may be prosecuted to judgment against the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or associations liable for the debt.

- § 7. Action to Enforce Lien—Any claimant who has filed the notice of lien mentioned in the fourth section of this act, may enforce his claim against the property therein mentioned, and against the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association, liable for the debt, by a civil action in a court of record in the city or county where the property is situated, which would have jurisdiction to render a judgment in an action founded upon a contract for a sum equal to the amount of the lien.
- § 8. Procedure to Enforce—Pleading—The manner and form of instituting and prosecuting any such action to judgment, or an appeal from such judgment shall be the same as in actions for the foreclosure of mortgages upon real property, except as herein otherwise provided. A certified copy of the notice of lien filed, as herein provided, shall be entitled to be read in evidence, with the same force and effect as if the original were provided [produced], and such copy shall be prima facie evidence of the execution and filing of the original.
- § 9. Jurisdictions of Courts not of Record, Summons and Complaints—An action to foreclose a lien, provided for in this act, may be brought in a court not of record, which would have jurisdiction to render a judgment in an action upon a contract for a sum equal to the amount of the lien, and shall be commenced by the personal service anywhere within this State, of a summons and a complaint verified according to the provisions of section five hundred and twenty-six of the Code of Civil Procedure, upon the owner or other person in interest as described herefore in this act. The complaint must set forth substantially all the facts contained in the notice of lien filed with the clerk of the country as provided in section five of this act, and the substance of the contract. The form and contents of the summons shall be the same as prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the commencement of an action in a court not of record. The summons must be returnable not less than twelve nor more than twenty days after the date when it is issued.
- § 10. Service of Summons by Publications in Courts not of Record—When the summons in an action in a court not of record cannot be served personally on the owner or party in interest, by reason of absence from the State or concealment therein, such service may be made by leaving a copy of such summons at the last place of residence of such owner or person in interest, as aforesaid, and by publishing a copy of such summons for three weeks in succession in a newspaper published in the city or county where the property is situated. If the service of the summons is made by publication, the time when said summons is returnable shall commence to run from the day of the last publication.
- Procedure in Courts not of Record-At the time and place specified in the summons for the return thereof, issue must be joined if both parties appear, by the owner or other person in interest filing with the justice an answer in writing verified as herein provided for verifying the complaint, and which may contain a general denial of each allegation of the complaint or a specific denial of one or more of the material allegations thereof; it may also set forth any legal or equitable defense or counterclaim to such complaint. If the owner or other party in interest fails to appear on the return day of the summons on proof by affidavit of the service of the summons and complaint, if personal service thereof be made, or if by publication or [on] proof of the service of summons by advertisement, judgment may be entered for the amount claimed in the complaint with the cost; execution may thereupon be issued for the collection of said judgment and costs, the same as upon judgments in action on contract in such courts, except that the execution shall direct the officer to sell the right, title and interest of the owner or other person in interest as aforesaid in the premises, upon which the claim set forth in the complaint was a lien at the time of filing the notic of lien prescribed in the fourth section of this act.

§ 12. Trial of Issues in Courts not of Record—The issue joined as provided in the preceding section, must be tried the same as other issues are tried in the respective courts in which the action is brought, and the judgment thereon be enforced; if for the claimant, as provided in the preceding section; if for the owner or other person in interest, it must be enforced the same as in actions arising on contracts in the respective courts.

§ 13. Appeals from Courts not of Record—Appeals may be taken from such judgments rendered in courts not of record, in the same manner and according to the same provisions provided by the statute for appeals from judgments in actions in such courts arising on contract for the recovery of money only.

§ 14. Costs-Costs and disbursements, except in courts not of record, in which they shall be the same as allowed in civil actions in such courts, shall rest in the discretion of the court, and may be awarded to or against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, defendant or defendants, or any or either of them as may be just and equitable except as provided in section nineteen of this act, and shall be included in the judgment recovered therein. The expenses incurred in serving the summons by publication may be allowed in courts not of record, and added to the amount of costs now allowed in said courts. When an action is brought in a court of record such direction shall be made in the discretion of the court as to the payment of costs as shall be just and equitable, and the judgment entered shall specify to whom and by whom the costs are to be paid.

§ 15. Personal Judgment—Whenever in any action brought under the provisions of this act, any claimant shall fail, for any reason, to establish a valid lien, he may nevertheless recover therein judgment against the party or parties to the action for such sum or sums as may appear to be due to him, and which he might recover in an action upon a contract against the said party or parties.

§ 16. Transcript of Judgment—A transcript of every judgment rendered under and according to the provisions of this act headed "lien docket" shall be furnished by the clerk of the county where rendered and docketed to the successful party, who may file the same with the clerk of any other county, and if the judgment is for twenty-five dollars or upwards, exclusive of costs, the same shall thereafter be a lien on the real property in the county where the same is filed and docketed of every person against whom the same is rendered in like manner and to the same extent as in other actions for the recovery of money arising on contracts. When the action is tried and the judgment rendered in a court not of record, the justice of the court in which the action is tried or other person authorized to furnish transcripts of judgments therein shall furnish the successful party a transcript thereof, who may file the same with the clerk of the county with whom the notice of lien is filed. The filing of such transcript shall have the same effect as the filing of transcripts of judgments rendered in such courts not of record. In all cases where the judgment is against the claimant or claimants the county clerk shall enter the word "discharged" under the last head in his lien docket.

Parties to Action—If any person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association, filing a notice of lien, or the assignee of such person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association, after the filing thereof, shall be the plaintiff in such action. The plaintiff must make the parties who have filed notices of liens against the property as well as those who have subsequent liens and claims by judgment, mortgage or conveyance, parties defendant. And as to all persons, firms, corporations or associations against whom no personal claim is made, the plaintiff may with the summons serve a notice stating briefly the object of the action, and that no personal claim is made against it or them. And all persons, firms, corporations or associations, who have filed notice of liens under this act shall by answer in such notice set forth the same, and the court in which the action is brought may settle and determine the equities of all the parties thereto, and decide as to the extent, justice and priority of the claims of all parties to the action and upon every counter-claim or set off alleged therein, to the extent of their respective jurisdictions. The provisions in this section in regard to making parties who have filed notices of liens against the property as well as those who have subsequent liens and claims by judgment, mortgage or conveyance, parties defend-ants shall not apply to proceedings to enforce liens instituted in courts not of record.

§ 18. Consolidations of Actions—Any person, firms, corporations or associations claiming liens upon the same property may join in the same action, and when separate actions are commenced the court in which the first action was brought may, upon the application of the owner of the property or of any part thereof, or of any party to either action, consolidate them. The provisions of this section shall not apply to actions commenced in courts not of record.

§ 19. Offer of Payment—At any time after an action is commenced, the owner or owners of the property affected, may, in writing, offer to pay into court any amount stated in the offer, or to execute and deposit any securities or papers which he may describe, in discharge of the lien or If the offer is accepted in writing within ten days thereafter, the court in which the action is pending may make an order that on executing and depositing with the clerk of the county the amount offered or the securities or papers described, the lien or liens be discharged and the moneys or securities deposited take the place of the property upon which such lien or liens was or were created, and shall be subject to the same. In case the offer shall not be accepted within ten days, and the plaintiff fails to recover any more favorable judgment against the property, he shall pay any costs in the action incurred by the owner from the time of the offer. $ 20 Sub-Contractors—Definition of Term—Rank of Various Liens-All persons, firms, corporations or associations entitled to liens, under the provisions of this act, except those who contracted with the owner, shall be deemed sub-contractors, and the court in the judgment shall direct the amount due sub contractors and workmen to be paid out of the proceeds of sales in their order of priority as herein provided before any part of such proceeds are paid to the contractors. In case of several buildings erected, altered or repaired under one contract, and of conflicting liens, each lienor shall have priority upon the particular building or premises where his labor is performed or his material used. Persons standing in equal degree as co-laborers or various persons furnishing materials, shall have priority according to the date of filing their liens, provided, however, that in all cases workmen or laborers working for daily or weekly wages shall have preference over employers of labor, sub-contractors or contractors, without reference to the date when such workmen or laborers shall have filed their liens. Where several notices of liens are filed for the same demand, as in case of a contractor including claims for workmen to whom he is indebted and the liens by the workmen, the judgment shall provide for the proper payment, in order of priority as herein provided, so that under the liens filed double payment shall not be required and no payments voluntarily made upon any claim which has been filed as a lien shall impair the lien of any person except the lien of the person so paid to the amount of such payment. § 21. Priority of Liens—How Determined.—In every case in which different liens are asserted against property, the court in the judgment must declare the propriety of each lien, and the proceeds of the sale of the property must be applied to each lien in the order of its priority.

§ 22. Contract for Payment on Specific Property.—Whenever, by the terms of his contract, the owner has stipulated for the delivery of bills, notes or other obligations or securities, or of any other species of property in lieu of money, the judgment may direct that such substitute be delivered or deposited as the court may direct and the property affected by the liens can only be directed to be sold in default of the owner to deliver said substitutes within such time as may be directed.

against which a notice of lien is filed as provided in the fourth section of this act, there is a deficiency of proceeds, judgment may be docketed for the deficiency against the persons, firms, corporations or associations named in the judgment as personally liable therefor, and therein adjudged to pay the same in like manner and with like effect as in actions for the foreclosure of mortgages. The provisions of this section shall not apply to actions commenced in courts not of record § 24. Discharge of Lien.—A lien may be discharged as follows:

1. By filing a certificate of the claimant or his successor in interest, duly acknowledged or proved, stating that the lien is satisfied and may be discharged. 2. By depositing with the county clerk, if before the suit, of a sum of money equal to the amount claimed, with interest to the time of such deposit. 3. After the commencement of the action, by the deposit with the clerk of the county of such sum of money as in the judgment of the court, after due notice to all claimants or parties to the action, will be sufficient to pay any judgment which may be recovered against the property. In case the deposit of money is made with the county clerk as provided in sub-divisions two and three of this section, the same shall be repaid by said clerk to the party making such deposit, or his assigns, upon the lien or liens being discharged by the claimants who have filed a notice or notices of lien or liens. 4. By the lapse of time. When one year has elapsed from the time of filing the notice of lieu, and no action has been commenced either to enforce such claim or order of the court made containing said lien, as provided in section six of this act. 5. By order of the court for neglect of the claimant to prosecute the same, as hereinafter provided. The owner of the property or of any part thereof affected by any notice of lien filed under this act, or the person or persons, firms, corporations or associations against whom the claim is made, may, at any time after the filing of the notice of lien, serve a notice in writing upon the claimant or any one of several claimants united in interest, or by leaving such notice at his last known place of residence, with some person of suitable age, with direction to deliver the same, requiring said claimant to commence an action to enforce the claim within the time to be specified in the notice, which shall not be less than thirty days from the time of such service; or to show cause at a special term of any court of record, at which a motion might be made in an action to enforce the lien or at a county court of the county in which the property is situated, at a time to be specified in such notice, why the notice of lien filed should not be vacated and canceled of record. Thereupon, upon due proof of the service of said notice, and that no action has been commenced to enforce the claim, the court may make an order that the claim be vacated and canceled of record. 6. By the owner of the premises, person or persons, firm or firms, corporations or associations against whom or which the notice of lien is filed, executing with two or more sufficient securities, who shall be freeholders, a bond to the clerk of the county where the premises are situated, in such sum as the court may direct, not less than the amount claimed in said notice, conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be rendered against the property. The sureties on said bond must justify in at least double the sum named in said bond. A copy of said bond, with a notice that the sureties will justify before the court or a judge thereof, at the time and place therein named, not less than five days thereafter, must be served on the claimant or his attorney. Upon the approval of said bond by the court or a judge thereof, an order discharging such lien may be made by the court or a judge thereof. § 25. Construction of Statutes.—This act is hereby declared to be a remedial statute and is to be construed liberally to secure the beneficial interests and purposes thereof; and a substantial compliance with its several provisions shall be sufficient for the validity of the lien or liens hereinbefore provided for, and to give jurisdiction to the courts to enforce the same.

§ 26. Repealing Clause.—Chapter one hundred and eighty-four of the laws of eighteen hundred and forty-six, chapter one hundred and sixty-nine of the laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-one, chapter three hundred and eighty-four of the laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-two, chapter four hundred and two of the laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-four, chapter six hundred and sixty-three of the laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, chapter four hundred and seventy eight of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, chapter five hundred of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-three, chapter three hundred and sixty-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-four, chapter seven hundred and seventy-eight of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-five, chapter five hundred and fifty-eight of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixtynine, chapter one hundred and ninety-four of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy, chapter four hundred and eighty-nine of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-three, chapter five hundred and fifty-one of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-four, chapter three hundred and seventy-nine of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-five, chapters one hundred and forty-three and four hundred and eighty-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty, sections eighteen hundred and seven to eighteen hundred and twenty-three inclusive of chapter four hundred and ten of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-two, sections eleven to twenty-seven inclusive of chapter two hundred and seventy-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty three and all acts amendatory of the above mentioned acts, or extending the provisions thereof, are hereby repealed. But this act shall not be so construed as to affect, enlarge, invalidate or defeat any lien now existing, or any proceeding to enforce such lien, now pending by virtue of any of the provisions of the acts hereby repealed, nor to revive any other or former acts or parts of acts repealed by the acts hereby repealed.

§ 27. This act shall take effect immediately.

1893. Chapter 300. An act to amend chapter three hundred and forty-two of the Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-five, entitled "An act for the better security of mechanics, laborers and others who perform labor or furnish material for buildings and other improvements in several cities and counties of this State, to repeal certain acts and parts of acts." #### CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.

The meeting of James Corbett, champion of the heavyweights, and Robert Fitzsimmons, champion of the middleweights, at Carson City, Nevada, on March 17, 1897, will go down in pugulistic history as the greatest ever fought. There have been longer and more bloody contests, but never one in which the principals were so evenly matched and the boxing so clever and scientific. Each man was in absolutely perfect condition.

THE MEASUREMENTS.

	CORBETT.	FITZSIMMONS.
Height	6 ft. 1 in.	5 ft. 11 <sup>2</sup> in.
Chest	$42\frac{1}{2}$ in.	$42\frac{1}{4}$ in.
Expansion	$2\frac{8}{4}$ in.	5 in.
Neck	18 in.	14 4 in.
Biceps	$15\frac{1}{4}$ in.	$11\frac{1}{4}$ in.
Forearm	$14\frac{1}{2}$ in.	11 in.
Reach (top of shoulders to tip of finger)	$33\frac{1}{4}$ in.	$30\frac{1}{2}$ in.
Reach (under arm to tip of finger).	$29\frac{1}{2}$ in.	29 in.
Arms extended	73 in.	$75\frac{1}{4}$ in.
Waist	, 39 in.	$29\frac{3}{4}$ in.
Thigh	25 in.	20 in.
Calf	17 in.	13 in.

Fourteen rounds were fought. In the sixth and seventh it was believed that Corbett had Fitzsimmons almost out.

THE LAST ROUND.

Corbett leads and is blocked. Corbett lands that left jab again on Fitz's head. Fitz counters with the terrible right swing on Corbett's neck and has Corbett going back for a few minutes. Fitz lands a terrible left hand jab on Corbett's stomach and Corbett goes to his knees with a frightful look of agony on his face.

The time-keepers call the seconds, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, but Corbett comes to his feet. He rushes to Fitz and endeavors to strike him. There is a terrible uproar. The decision has not been given yet. George Siler decides that Fitz wins. The blow that did the business landed over Corbett's heart and he collapsed. The last round lasted just one minute and 45 seconds.

Why a Watch Should be Cleaned Once a Year.

Very few who carry a watch ever think of the unceasing labor it performs under what would be considered shabby treatment for any other machinery. There are many who think a watch ought to run for years without cleaning or a drop of oil. Read this and judge for yourself: The main wheel in an ordinary American watch makes four revolutions a day of 24 hours, or 1,460 in a year. Next, the center wheel, 24 revolutions in a day, or 8,760 in a year. The third wheel, 192 in a day, or 56,080 in a year. The fourth wheel 2,440 in a day, or 545,600 in a year. The fifth, or escape wheel, 12,960 in a day, or 4,728,200 in a year. The ticks or beats are 388,800 in a day, or 147,812,000 in a year.

Architects' and Builders' Tables and Estimates.

ROOF ELEVATIONS

By the "pitch" of a roof is meant the relation which the height of the ridge above the level of the roof plates bears to the span, or the distance between the studs on which the roof rests.

The length of rafters for the most common pitches can be found as follows, from any given span: If  $\frac{1}{4}$  pitch, multiply span by 559, or 7-12 nearly. If  $\frac{1}{3}$  pitch, multiply span by .6, or 3-5 nearly. If # pitch, multiply span by 625, or # nearly If ½ pitch, multiply span by .71, or 7-10 nearly.

If § pitch, multiply span by .8, or 4-5 nearly.

If full pitch, multiply span by 1.12, or 1½ nearly.

To lengths thus obtained must be added amount of projection of the rafters at the eaves.

As rafters must be purchased of even lengths, a few inches more or less on their lengths will make a difference to the pitch so slight that it cannot be detected by the eye.

Example-To determine the length of rafters for a roof constructed one half pitch, with a span of 24 feet-24x.71=17.04; or, practically, just 17 feet. A projection of one foot for eaves makes the length to be purchased 18 feet.

SHINGLES REQUIRED IN A ROOF.

To the square foot it takes 9 if exposed four inches; 8 if exposed 41 inches, and 7 1-5 if exposed 5 inches to the weather.

Find the number of shingles required to cover a roof 38 feet long, and the rafters on each side 14 feet. Shingles exposed 4½ inches.

 $28 \times 38 = 1064$  (square feet)  $\times 8 = 8512$  shingles.

To find the length of rafters, giving the roof one-third pitch; take three-fifths of the width of the building. If the building is 30 feet wide, they must be 18 feet long, exclusive of projection.

The following very useful and practical calculations will be found-exceedingly handy, as guides to the builder, in making up his figures when he is called upon to estimate for all portions of a job, many of which are not entirely in his own particular line:

HOW TO BUILD STRONG FRAMES.

Sueathing put on diagonally acts as a brace over the whole surface, and requires no more lumber than if put on horizontally. It is well to run the sheathing from each side up parallel with the rafters, if at the gable ends, and at similar angles at the sides. Roofing boards can be put on in the same manner. Studs can be allowed to project above the plates and the rafters spiked to the sides of studs. Partitions should be braced with waste stuff, and in such ways a building can be so strengthened that it can be rolled over and over without coming to pieces, and the extra cost will simply consist in a few hours of extra labor.

In some parts of the West, and especially in Nebraska, a framed sill is in use, which combines qualities that will make it of service to builders in many localities. A piece of 2x6 or 2x8 is laid upon the wall, and flush with one side of this a 2 inch piece of the same width as the joists is placed on edge and securely spiked on, thus making the bottom and one side of a trough. These can be fastened before being put in place. The joists are placed with their ends upon the bed of the sill and against the side, and spiked to both The stude are halved down, in this case 8 inches, and nailed to side of sill and joists. The sides of the sill, running parallel with the joists are formed by two of the joists themselves, either set flush with the face of the wall and the studs let down back, or set back two inches and the studs let down in front.

When the frame is finished, and before the floor is laid, the wall is built up behind and over the sill; thus holding all in place, guarding against wind, as the wall must be torn up before the building will go; and also, incidentally, against rats and other vermin. It will be found fully as strong and much cheaper than timber.

If posts are used for the foundation a modification of this arrangement will prove equally serviceable. The principle on which it depends is explained at length further on. It is well known that a thin piece of timber put on edge, as in joists, etc., will support a much greater weight than if laid on its side. The strength of a piece is in direct proportion to the square of its depth and nearly inversely as its length. Thus it will be found that simply the 2x12 8 feet long, without considering the support afforded to it by the walls, would have a strength equal to four 2x48 16 feet long. It might be objected that the joists would not rest on the 2x12, but on the 2x6. This is partly true, but the joists are spiked to the 2x12, and are nailed to the studs, which rest on the sill, thus binding the whole together. Particular care must be taken to spike the 2x12 side of the sill to the 2x4 or 2x6 base at short intervals. All the parts must be well nailed together, and especially the studs to the joists, and the sills to the posts. This form will have abundant strength and stiffness if the posts are not over 8 feet apart, A sill constructed in this way, of these dimensions, contains the same number of feet as a 6x6 sill, but will sustain a weight a third greater than the latter, if the weights are placed at the centers, but as the studs are fastened together by the sheathing, the weight will be partly transferred from the sills to the posts. It can also be made of any lengths that will reach from post to post, and the cost can thus be made less.

DURABILITY OF DIFFERENT WOODS.

Experiments have been lately made by driving sticks, made of different woods, each 2 feet long and  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches square, into the ground, only one-half an inch projecting outward. It was found that in five years, all those made of oak, elm, ash, fir, soft mahogany, and nearly every variety of pine, were totally rotten. Larch, hard pine, and teak wood were decayed on the outside only; while acacia, with the exception of being also slightly attacked on the exterior, was otherwise sound. Hard mahogany and cedar of Lebanon were in tolerably good condition; but only Virginia cedar was found as good as when put in the ground. This is of some importance to builders, showing what woods should be avoided, and what others used by preference in underground work.

The duration of wood, when kept dry, is very great, as beams still exist which are known to be nearly 1,100 years old. Piles driven by the Romans prior to the Christian era have been examined of late, and found to be perfectly sound after an immersion of nearly 2,000 years.

The wood of some tools will last longer than the metals, as in spades, hoes, and plows. In other tools the wood is first gone, as in wagons, wheelbarrows, and machines. Such wood should be painted or oiled; the paint not only looks well, but preserves the wood; petroleum oil is as good as any other.

Hard wood stumps decay in five or six years; spruce stumps decay in about the same time; hemlock stumps in eight to nine years; cedar, eight to nine years; pine stumps, never.

Cedar, oak, yellow pine, and chestnut, are the most durable woods in dry places.

There are no statutory holidays in Arkansas, Mississippi, Kansas, and Nevada, but by common consent the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving and Christmas are observed as holidays in the two former, and Decoration Day, Labor Day, and Arbor Day, in addition in Kansas. Arbor Day is a legal holiday in Kansas, Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin, and Wyoming, the day being set by the Governor; in Texas, February 22; in Nebraska, April 22; Montana, third Tuesday in April; Utah, April 15; Rhode Island, first Friday in May; Idaho, on Friday after May 1; Florida, February 7; Georgia, first Friday in December cember.

Del., in Louisiana and Missouri; in cities of 100,000 or more inhabitants; in Ohio in cities of 50,000 or more inhabitants; and June 1 to September 30 in New Castle County, Del., and Denver, Col.

There is no national holiday, not even the Fourth of July. Congress has at various times appointed special holidays. In the second session of the Fifty-third Congress it passed an act making Labor Day a public holiday in the District of Columbia, and it has recognized the existence of certain days as holidays, for commercial purposes, in such legislation as the Bankruptcy act, but with the exception named, there is no general statute on the subject. The proclamation of the President designating a day of Thanksgiving only makes it a legal holiday in those States which provide by law for it.—World Almanac.

RACED WITH DEATH.

HENRY J. MAYHAM'S RIDE TO THE DEATH-BED OF HIS SON-BY SPECIAL TRAIN.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 16, 1897.—A special train from Chicago, over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Burlington & Missouri railroads, chartered by Henry J. Mayham, a Denver mining investment broker, reached this city at 3.52 a. m. today, having run 1,026 miles in eighteen hours and 52 minutes.

This journey goes into history as the greatest railroad feat ever accomplished. The best previous railroad long-distance record was nineteen hours and 57 minutes for 964 miles, over the New York Central and Lake Shore railroads, from New York to Chicago. On straight stretches of track the train covered more than 60 miles an hour. The mountain climb from Akron, Colorado, to Denver, 118 miles, was made in 124 minutes, the train running an even mile a minute much of the distance.

In spite of the splendid record, however, Mr. Mayham arrived in Denver too late to see his son alive.

The distance from Chicago to Denver, 1,025 miles, was covered in exactly 1,069 minutes, actual running time. This is only a small fraction less than one mile a minute, for the longest continuous run ever made by any railroad in the world.

Average time, including stops 54.3 miles an hour; average time, excluding stops, 57.54 miles an hour.

Evictions in Ireland.

The total number of families evicted in Ireland for 33 years is 482,000, as below:

Years.	Evicted.	Re-admitted.	Net Evictions.
1849-51	263 000	73,000	190,000
1852-60	110,000	28,000
1861–70	47,000	8,000	39,000
1871-80		6,000	35,000
1881-82		4,000	17,000
Total	482,000	119,000	363,000

To Estimate Crops per Acre.

Frame together four light sticks, measuring exactly a foot square inside, and with this in hand, walk into the field and select a spot of fair average yield, and lower the frame square over as many heads as it will enclose, and shell out the heads thus enclosed carefully, and weigh the grain. It is fair to presume that the product will be the 43,560th part of an acre's produce. To prove it, go through the field, and make ten or twenty similar calculations, and estimate by the mean of the whole number of results. It will certainly enable a farmer to make a closer calculation of what a field will produce than he can by guessing.
